TRICKED TO DOUBLE SUICIDE

SIAMESE RULER HOOVER GUEST, ALSO DENTIST'S

King, Queen Dine at White House.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 29.—[Special.]—As a royal guest of American democracy, King Prajadhipok of Siam and his consort, Queen Rambai Barni, ruled as President and Mrs. Hoover ruled, were in turn called on by President and Mrs. Hoover and a large slice of Washington's upper crust, and finally completed the ritualistic program by giving a White House state dinner.

But as an ailing young man seeking health, the king achieved probably his day's most poignant experience by going to the dentist's.

That matter of health intruded largely upon the formal schedule. It caused an order canceling the king's afternoon engagements and sent Prince and Princess Svasti, the royal parents-in-law, to Arlington cemetery and Mount Vernon as substitute votaries at these two American shrines.

Consults Doctor Today.

It will occupy a still larger place tomorrow, when the king goes to Baltimore to consult Dr. William H. Wilmer about his eyes, from the left one of which a cataract is to be removed in about ten days from now.

It didn't, however, prevent the king and queen from smiling happily this morning as they stepped from the President's car, which had been sent to get them, and walked up to the White House's wide front door.

Significant of equality and a token granted only to heads of nations, President and Mrs. Hoover met the visitors in the reception hall and conducted them into the blue room.

Even gayer smiles shone on the royal faces fifteen minutes later when the king and queen, looking more than ever perfectly appointed models, stepped out of the door.

Perfectly Appointed Figures.

Surrounded by majestic generals and admirals and flanked by elegant state department officials, beneath the towering white pillars of the portico, the illusion was more than ever persistent that here were two perfectly appointed little figures who had stepped away from some shop making models of what monarchs should wear for a morning call on a president.

Once more, as there had been at the Union station yesterday evening, a white line was waiting and a battery of cameras focused and aimed.

But by this time white lines and cameras were an old story. The royal silk hat swept off in a debonair arc, the royal left limb in its knife-creased pants "made"—as they used to put it when gentlemen had figures—"a leg." Queen Rambai, delightfully conquering dignity, laughed as she chatted with her be-medaled escort, Gen. Campbell B. Hodges, presidential aid.

Hoovers' Turn Next.

A half hour later it was President and Mrs. Hoover who were doing the calling, at the Larz Anderson home where the king and queen are staying; secluded with their royal hosts for a brief ten minutes; and out again and off in the big blue car with its twin silk flags, the American flag and the presidential flag of blue snapping beside the hood.

And then for an hour or more cars pulled up to the Anderson home. Overhead flew the king's own flag with its yellow field emblazoned with a symbolic red figure, half bird, half man.

Chief Justice and Mrs. Hughes, Justices Stone and Sutherland and Roberts, Vice President Curtis and Mrs. Gann, Secretaries Doak, and Adams, and Stimson, and Hyde, and Wilbur, Postmaster General Brown and Attorney General Mitchell led the parade of government officials, who in turn were followed by the foreign ambassadors and ministers.

And Then to the Dentist.

Then the dentist's office—not, however, a mere one chair affair, but a grand dental clinic, where the king's teeth were examined and X-rayed by Drs. Sterling V. Meade, Howard J. Newton, and Daniel F. Lynch.

When the king goes to Baltimore tomorrow for his eye examination at Johns Hopkins he will occupy the "presidential chair," in which Cleveland and other notables sat when they were patients there.

Last of all the state dinner.

American and European customs, combined in the exchange of courtesies that occupied the morning hours, were again in evidence in the ceremonial attending the banquet.

For the first time at a state dinner in the White House, instead of facing each other across the table, the Presi-

WIFE POISONED BY SUITOR AS HUSBAND LOOKS

Peace Meeting Ends in Hotel Death.

Two women and two men stood in a room of the Hotel Bismarck last night. They were Ralph Garrison, a magazine circulator of Kalamazoo, Mich.; his errant wife, Kathleen; her paramour, J. H. Hartung, a salesman of Dayton, O., and Mrs. B. M. Jones of Kalamazoo, a friend of the Garrisons.

"I have come here to get my wife and her things and take her home," Garrison announced to Hartung.

Hartung smiled. He eyed Mrs. Garrison with whom he had been living at the hotel for two days as man and wife. "Let us have a last drink," he said slowly, still gazing at Mrs. Garrison. She nodded.

They Drink and Die.

Hartung filled two glasses with gin as Garrison and Mrs. Jones looked on. He handed one to Mrs. Garrison and raised the other to his lips. He uttered an inarticulate salutation, and both—Hartung and Mrs. Garrison—drank.

Then they both collapsed, dead.

Evidence uncovered by Lieut. David Schwartz of the Central station, showed Mrs. Garrison the unwitting victim of swift death by poison. Detectives said they believed that Hartung, planning to end his life, had tricked Mrs. Garrison into killing herself also. The poison was prussic acid, producing almost instantaneous death.

The Story Behind the Tragedy.

It was last March that Garrison, considered wealthy in Kalamazoo, to which city he moved from Cleveland ten years ago, sent his wife to Miami in an effort, it was said to break the growing romance with Hartung, who was 5 years her junior. She returned, and on April 18, after a quarrel over Hartung, she left Garrison.

Mrs. Garrison formerly resided in Chicago, and Garrison, believing she would come here, notified several of their mutual friends. He asked them to inform him, should they hear from his wife. Among them was Mrs. Charles E. Foley of 4935 Blackstone avenue, a lifelong friend of Mrs. Garrison.

Husband Comes to Chicago.

On Monday afternoon Mrs. Foley received a telephone call from Mrs. Garrison, saying she was in Chicago, and would visit the Foleys Mrs. Foley immediately telephoned to Garrison, who left for Chicago that night. He was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Jones.

The next evening, Tuesday, Garrison and the Joneses went to the Foley home. Shortly afterward Mrs. Garrison appeared. She and her husband were left alone for half an hour, and they emerged radiant and smiling.

"Everything is settled now," said Garrison happily. "Kathleen is going home with me."

Drive to the Hotel.

Last night Garrison, his wife, and Mrs. Jones drove to the Bismarck to get Mrs. Garrison's clothing. They went up to room 700, where Hartung and Mrs. Garrison were registered as Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Gerlach of Columbus. Hartung opened the door.

As they entered they noticed a service table standing in the middle of the room. On the bed were several suitcases bearing Mrs. Garrison's initials. There was a brief greeting, and Garrison, his voice jubilant, made the announcement to Hartung that he had reclaimed his wife and was ready to take her back home to Kalamazoo.

The announcement apparently did not surprise Hartung, police said, and it is believed that Mrs. Garrison had told him yesterday of the reconciliation.

Hartung Walks to Bottles.

In any event, Hartung walked over to the service table on which stood three pints of gin and two smaller bottles. There was also a whisky flask containing a small amount of poison.

"Let us have our last drink together," Hartung said to Mrs. Garrison. The glasses were quickly filled and drunk. Hartung fell, clutching his throat. "I'm dying," he gasped. "It's poison," Mrs. Garrison staggered and fell.

Mrs. Jones, screaming, ran down the corridor calling for a doctor, and Dr. Edward Chainski, a house physician, responded. He arrived within four minutes after the fatal drinks, and pronounced Hartung and his victim dead.

They were taken to a mortuary, and Garrison and Mrs. Jones to the Central station.

Bomb Home of William H. Malone

AN OLD FABLE BROUGHT UP TO DATE

Former Head of Tax Board Foes' Target

A black powder bomb was exploded early this morning at the home of William H. Malone, former chairman of the state tax commission, at 201 Grand boulevard, Park Ridge. Mr. Malone, his wife, a sister, Miss Ethel Malone, and two servants were aroused by the blast, which caused $200 damage. No one was injured. The explosive tore away bricks and boards at the front door of the three story, twenty room mansion and shattered fifteen windows.

WM. H. MALONE. [Moffett Photo.]

Dr. S. J. Knowles, 200 North Prospect avenue, a neighbor, told Chief Harold W. Johnson of the Park Ridge police that a few minutes before the blast a gray automobile containing three or four men speeded past the Malone home. It is believed that the bomb was hurled from the car.

Tells of Threats.

Mr. Malone, whose stormy career as head of the state tax commission ended with his resignation on Jan. 7 of this year, told Chief Johnson he was at a loss to ascribe a definite motive for the bombing, although he admitted receiving many threats in the last few years, particularly since the tax commission ordered the reassessment of all real estate in Cook county.

"There could be any number of motives for an outrage like this," he declared. "For years I have paid no attention to many threats of all natures received by me. Most of them I believed to be from disgruntled taxpayers. And they did not cease to threaten me even after I resigned. I have received some in the last few days. I will now take the matter up with State's Attorney Swanson."

Mr. Malone added that since he announced he would become a candidate for governor in 1932 he had received an anonymous call telling him to "keep his nose out."

Recalls Bitter Mayoralty Fight.

Chief Johnson saw a possible motive for the bombing in the recent Park Ridge city election. William McKee, who was backed by Malone, was elected to succeed Robert E. McLain after a bitter contest. In previous campaigns Malone had supported McLain, but switched to McKee, who ran on a platform of civic reform.

Malone was appointed to the tax commission by former Gov. Len Small in 1921. He was made chairman in 1926. He resigned when Gov. Emmerson failed to include any of the tax commission's recommendations in his message to the general assembly.

MAGAZINE LOSES A SUBSCRIPTION AT WHITE HOUSE

New York, April 29.—(AP)—Talking critically about the President, common practice in Washington, is comparatively safe, but writing critically about the White House housekeeping draws immediate fire—from the housekeeper.

The magazine Vanity Fair published recently an article, somewhat critical of lack of lavishness in White House entertainment, written by Jefferson Chase.

Mrs. Ava Long, housekeeper to the Hoovers, canceled her subscription in the following manner:

"Jefferson Chase should be run out of town for writing such an article and you are equally responsible for allowing it to be printed. You would be the first to object if your taxes were increased in order to increase the White House appropriation to allow of lavish entertainments."

Women Demand Railroad Smoking Car of Their Own

New York, April 29.—(AP)—Seven determined women met tonight in a midtown hotel to launch a crusade for a railroad smoking car of their own. They were members of the Women's International Smoking club, organized by Miss Olive Cooper, who is president. She said W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania lines, had promised to convert half a day coach into a woman's smoker if demand was big enough.

41 Die as Fire Traps Crowd on Fast Train

CAIRO, Egypt, April 29.—(AP)—At least forty-one persons were killed and scores were injured tonight when the Cairo-Alexandria express caught fire from a hot box as the train sped along near the little station of Benha.

Officials of the Egyptian State railway were continuing through the night to search the right of way for the bodies of passengers who jumped from the three blazing coaches.

Early reports placed the number of dead at sixty, but it was admitted the casualties could only be conjectured until daylight would make possible an accurate survey.

Flames Spread Quickly.

The hot box developed beneath one of the third class coaches and it was not noticed until the flames burst upward, spreading quickly along the train. A signalman at Benha, first to see the flames, flagged the train down, but the general alarm had spread before a stop could be made and the frantic passengers leaped from windows in a wild scramble to escape.

The coaches were packed with holiday crowds en route to Cairo from Alexandria. The three cheap coaches burned like tinder. They were not fitted with means of signaling the situation to the engineer.

By the time the train was stopped the coaches were heaped with dead and burning bodies, and bodies were strewn back along the track to the point at which the flames first appeared. Many of those who leaped were killed outright, others writhed in agony from fractures caused by the leap from the speeding train.

Witnesses told of efforts of the frenzied passengers to attract the engineer's attention by waving garments from the windows.

Ten Children Among Dead.

At least ten children were numbered among the dead. Only one foreigner, a Frenchwoman, was known to have been killed. The rest of the known dead were Egyptians. Many of the bodies were so charred as to be unrecognizable. It was expected several of the more seriously injured would not survive.

The flames were fanned by the high speed of the train and burned practically all the inflammable material in the coaches, leaving only the red hot iron undercarriages.

Berlin to Increase Tax on Beer to Keep Cars Running

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 29.—In an effort to raise funds to keep the street car and bus lines running, Dr. Heinrich Sahm, new mayor of Berlin, today decided to increase the tax on beer. A motion to raise the tax from slightly over one cent per quart to two and a half cents was submitted to the town council.

E. A. ALDERMAN, "U." OF VIRGINIA PRESIDENT, DIES

Connellsville, Pa., April 29.—(AP)—Stricken on a train while en route to Chicago, Dr. Edwin A. Alderman, president of the University of Virginia, died in the Connellsville State hospital tonight. He was 69 years old.

Dr. Alderman became ill while a passenger on the Baltimore and Ohio Capital limited and was unconscious when he was removed from the train. Staff physicians said death was due to apoplexy.

Dr. Alderman would have completed his 27th year as president of the University of Virginia in June. Before accepting the presidency of the university here he was president first of the University of North Carolina, his alma mater, and later Tulane university of Louisiana.

When he was stricken he was en route to take part in the induction of another former president of the University of North Carolina, Harry W. W. Chase, as president of the University of Illinois. He was to have delivered the principal address at the ceremonies.

POLICE RETURN STOLEN AUTO AS HE REPORTS IT

C. P. Dozier, 1518 Berteau avenue, parked his automobile at Keystone and North avenues at 2:10 p. m. yesterday. At 2:30, when he returned, the car was gone. At 2:33 p. m. a flivver squad from the Austin police station passed and Mr. Dozier reported his loss. He was told to go to the West Chicago avenue station and report there, as he was out of the flivver squad's territory. At 2:35 Mr. Dozier boarded a cab and at 2:45 he was in the station. He was still talking at 2:50 p. m., when the flivver squad from Austin drove up with his automobile, which had been found at Hamlin and North avenues. Missing were two large bottles, which Mr. Dozier announced had contained spring water.

Boy Plays with Matches; Baby Is Burned to Death

Vera Louise Skowronski, 9 months old, was burned to death yesterday in the home of her parents at 201 South Sheridan road, Waukegan. The infant had been left in her crib by her mother, who went out on a short shopping trip. Her 6 year old brother, Paul, playing with matches, set fire to the blanket on the crib and then became frightened and fled.

Ordered to Pay Gambling Debt to Rothstein Estate

New York, April 29.—(AP)—Supreme Court Justice Collins today directed Gus Van, radio and vaudeville singer, to pay the estate of Arnold Rothstein, slain gambler, $2,206 to cover a note given Rothstein for gambling debts incurred in the summer of 1928.

CARNIVAL NIGHT IS STATE STREET GIFT TO JUBILEE

Program of Events Is Unfolded.

MONDAY NIGHT—The huge parade of the Jubilee opening the week of celebration.

TUESDAY NIGHT—American and French International Golden Gloves tournament at Soldiers' field under the auspices of THE TRIBUNE.

Official Program Announced.

These major events are included in an official program, partly completed, as announced yesterday, and are featured among scores of novel and thrilling events arranged for the Chicago Jubilee. The Jubilee will close with an exhilarating climax when more than 600 army planes engage in battle maneuvers over the lake front on May 20.

The program as given out by Frederick J. Ashley, chairman of the coördinating committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce, in charge of the Jubilee, contained several readjustments, and is still subject to change. Originally the pyrotechnical display was to be given on Wednesday night, May 13. This has been changed by THE TRIBUNE to Thursday night. The big street carnival will thus be on Wednesday night.

A Night for Cermak.

Likewise, the official outdoor appearance of Mayor Anton J. Cermak may be scheduled on some other night than that tentatively arranged. The Cermak celebration, in which United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis will speak, is to be one of the leading events of the Jubilee.

The State street carnival was formulated yesterday at a meeting of the State street council Jubilee committee. Leon Mandel II., general manager of Mandel Brothers' store, is chairman.

Among those at the meeting were Mr. Mandel; R. J. Thain, Carson Pirie Scott & Co.; Fred D. Corley and G. Ray Schaeffer, Marshall Field & Co.; Frederick Smith, The Fair; Henry Hart, the Boston Store; John Coyne, Mandel Brothers; David Komiss, D. S. Komiss & Co.; Walter Gregory, the Palmer house; Gordon Strong, president of the State street council, and others.

Music and Dancing on Street.

Mr. Mandel announced that the State street merchants are to transform State street into a thoroughfare of gayety. The street will be roped off from Lake to Van Buren streets. Six platforms, probably movable, will be erected at intersections. Nationally known orchestras and bands and radio stars will entertain from these platforms.

There will be public dancing on the pavement. Stars from the athletic world, aviators, and others of renown will be invited to participate. All the stores will be festooned with bunting, and their windows will be animated with living models.

The date for this carnival of fun and music was agreed upon last night when THE TRIBUNE rearranged its fireworks schedule. It now is included in the official program. Complete details of the program will be found in another column.

Low Rail Rates Extended.

Yesterday witnessed a heavier response to the call of the Jubilee than on any other day. From all quarters queries and offers of participation poured into the offices of the coördinating committee.

In addition the Western Passenger association announced it had extended both its time and distance limits for excursions to the Jubilee. The railroads affiliated with the association now offer a round trip rate of a fare and a third within a radius of 500 miles from Chicago instead of the original limitation of 200 miles. The time limit on the special rates is extended also to midnight of May 21, instead of May 20.

Invitations to attend the Jubilee were wired to Mrs. Herbert Hoover, wife of the President, and to Mrs. Louis L. Emmerson, wife of the Illi-

HEARS BY RADIO DOG THAT BIT HER HAS THE RABIES

Glens Falls, N. Y., April 30.—(AP)—The radio today reached Mrs. Anna Smith in the Adirondack hamlet of Newcomb with the warning that the dog which bit her some time ago had developed rabies, and the woman and her husband promptly started for the home of relatives in Mechanicsville to take the Pasteur treatment.

They stopped here on the way and Dr. Virgil D. Selleck, health officer, examined the wound in her leg to find it virtually healed. He warned her, however, that the germs of hydrophobia might be there and advised her to take the treatment.

nois governor. They were signed by Mrs. Henry W. Hardy, chairman of the Chicago Women's Day Jubilee committee, and Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the association of commerce. The Chicago women's day is May 18, and Mrs. Hoover and Mrs. Emmerson are invited to be the city's guests on that date.

Tribune Receives Entries.

At THE TRIBUNE Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street, dozens of entries were received and turned over to the coördinating committee. Most of the entries are for the Monday night parade.

One of the most interesting offers was made by L. A. Downs, president of the Illinois Central railroad. He said he would have a float consisting of an actual locomotive, tender and passenger coach, towed by tractors. The Edgewater Flying Club, inc., through "Short" De Wall, will produce an airplane, with folded wings, carrying girl pilots.

The Salvation army, through Commissioner W. A. McIntire, will be represented by a brass band of 50, and a cadet corps of 100, carrying 45 Salvation army flags, each representing one year of the army's existence.

From Cedar Falls, Ia., were offered the services of that city's Chicagoland Music festival championship band, led by James Melachar and managed by L. H. Hughes.

Floats and Music for Parade.

The Charles H. Weber drum and bugle corps, and the Byzantine choir will also participate in the parade. Floats will be entered by Pushman Bros., Inc., 16 South Wabash avenue; the Stop and Shop company, 24 West Washington street; the Lintint company, 5720 Armitage avenue; Irwin Bros., Inc., 1927 South Water market; the Automobile Club of Illinois, the Chicago Retail Druggists' association, and others.

Three voitures of the Forty and Eight society of the American Legion made plans last night to take part in the parade. The "box cars" of the Chicago, Waukegan, and Joliet voitures will be in the procession, it was announced. Charles Perry, national chef de chemin de fer of the Forty and Eight, will be a guest, according to George Sugarman, chef de gare of the Chicago group.

Other participants will be the milk council, 228 North La Salle street, the Chicago Elevated post drum corps, the Allerton Glee club, led by Frank Bennett; the Evanston post drum and bugle corps, the Board of Trade post drum corps, the Associated Millinery Men, and Mms. Galli's, 13 East Illinois street.

The Millinery association will hold a Jubilee dance and cabaret party at the Hotel Sherman, and Mme. Galli's will invite authors who gathered there years ago. Among them are George Ade and Will Rogers.

Calls on Church Leaders.

George W. Dixon, chairman of the church committee of the Jubilee, yesterday issued a call to the religious leadership of the city to recognize the spiritual aspects and opportunities of the celebration. He urged that pastors give attention next Sunday to the Jubilee as a rallying point for a spiritual advance.

Leaders of all communions, Jewish, Catholic, and Protestant, Mr. Dixon declared, have indicated a spirit of cooperation in the Jubilee.

Full support to the Jubilee was given by the Chicago Church federation. This was promised yesterday in a letter from Mr. Dixon to Mr. Ashley. The letter was authorized by the executive committee of the federation which represents the cooperation of 17 denominations, 300 churches and a half million Protestants.

"The city has vast spiritual assets," the letter stated. "It is only fitting that such assets be brought to the foreground. The executive committee of the federation trusts that the ministers of the churches will emphasize the importance of the Jubilee in helping to arouse the enthusiasm, self-respect and courage of our city."

Downstate Pledges Support.

Downstate coöperation in the Jubilee spread yesterday. Decatur, through its mayor and business leaders, pledged support. Invitations to take part were also extended to other cities. The downstate regions have already been invited by the Illinois Chamber of Commerce.

The state at large will be officially represented by the joint legislative committee named last week.

The members are: Senators Thomas J. Courtney [Dem., Chicago], Richard J. Barr [Rep., Joliet], R. V. Graham [Dem., Chicago], Arthur A. Huebsch [Rep., Brookfield], and George M. Maypole [Dem., Chicago], and Representatives Josephine Perry, Elmer Schnackenberg, and William G. Thon, Republicans, and John M. Lee and James P. Boyle, Democrats, all of Chicago.

CITY GETS FUNDS TO PAY SALARIES DUE TOMORROW

The payment of salaries to the police and firemen when due tomorrow was insured yesterday when City Treasurer Kearns and City Controller Szymczak agreed on a plan to sell $1,300,000 worth of tax anticipation warrants to special funds of the city.

Mr. Szymczak announced that he does not know when pay rolls will be met after May 1. He said that the city has a current debt of $228,443,777 which must be redeemed before money is available for pay rolls after that date.

"It is highly probable that the city will not be able to pay out any money from its corporate fund to meet miscellaneous expenses," he said, "except as may be provided by special funds, until the 1930 assessment has been spread. At the present time it is impossible to say when this work will be completed."

Belcastro Vagrancy Case Continued for Sixth Time

The vagrancy case against James Belcastro, known as the king of the bombers, was continued yesterday for the sixth time by Judge Francis Borrelli in the South State street court. The hearing was set for May 12. At that time, the state announced, it will show that Belcastro was sentenced to 90 days in jail in 1919 on a vagrancy charge and was sentenced to a year in jail in 1917 for assault with deadly weapons.

SEES ASSESSORS' WORK DELAYED BY INEFFICIENCY

Jacobs Reports Pay Rolls Are Overloaded.

J. L. Jacobs, efficiency expert for the county board, who in a few days will transfer his activities to the city hall, yesterday revealed what he thinks is causing the delay in the completion of the 1930 assessment of property in Cook county. In a report to the county board, Jacobs declares that the board of assessors' pay roll is overloaded with workers; that incompetent help is being used; and that experienced employés have been shifted from their regular positions.

The report states that there is a lack of control and supervision of the personnel in the assessors' office and that as a result the revision of assessments has fallen two months behind schedule, while the entry of assessments in the record books is a month in arrears.

Wants Pay Rollers Discharged.

To remedy these conditions Jacobs makes a number of recommendation which, he says, must be carried out if the 1930 assessment is to be completed by July 1 when the 1931 quadrennial reassessment is due to start. The two major recommendations are that all inefficient employés be discharged and that one department head be placed in charge of the assignment of workers.

Reliable authorities have frequently stated that the bankers are refusing to advance any more money to the municipal agencies because of the uncertainty in regard to the payment of loans against taxes for 1929 and 1930. It has been said that the trouble lies in the failure of the board of assessors to complete the 1930 valuations of property so that the taxes can be spread.

A reform of the county's tax assessing machinery is necessary, it has been argued, and the bankers are believed to be awaiting the outcome of a group of bills now pending in the legislature which would abolish the present board of assessors and the 30 township assessors and substitute a single assessor, to be appointed by the president of the county board.

Cites Example of Inefficiency.

As an example of inefficiency in the assessors' office Jacobs points out that 22 of the employés assigned to deliver personal property tax schedules have been delivering far less than their daily prescribed quota. Jacobs recommends that the 22 men be discharged.

Of the 24 real estate assessment record clerks, who are paid $190 a month, only five are doing the work which they were hired to perform, Jacobs finds. Four of the others are doing secretarial work for members of the board and the others are in the personal property division.

16 Doing Secretarial Work.

In addition to the five office secretaries and four stenographers working for members of the board, the report states, seven other employés have been shifted from their regular positions to duties in the offices of the board members. In other words, the report says, there is a total of sixteen employés doing secretarial and stenographic work for the five board members at a combined annual salary of $30,204.

"The same condition in reference to diffusion of responsibility and lack of control over the work that has existed in the assessors' office in the past continues to exist," the report reads. "There is no one who has direct charge and control over the employés and work that is most urgent.

Plenty of Employés.

"The number of employés in the office is more than ample if they are assigned and held to perform the essential and necessary work."

Jacobs' report also says that funds are being spent for purposes for which they were not appropriated. In six weeks' time, according to the report, a total of $22,000 of the $60,000 allotted for overtime and extra help was expended. The report recommends that the number of extra employés be reduced.

ABSOLVES SLAYER OF HUSBAND.

A coroner's jury yesterday exonerated Mrs. Vera Stephens, 33 years old, who shot and fatally wounded her husband, Clarence, in their home at 1610 Wilson avenue last week. The widow said she shot in self-defense.

MAYOR INDICATES HE WILL CHANGE SCHOOL LINEUP

Board Must Save Cash Like City, He Says.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Advisers of Mayor Cermak are counseling him to get rid of the former administration's school board. They are arguing:

"The people, by a majority of 190,000, voted to oust Thompsonism from the city hall with its attendant waste and extravagance; and they also want all it thrown out of the public schools. They do not approve of the former administration's trustees spending the $138,000,000 school appropriation."

Mayor Cermak has practically decided to adopt this policy so far as it relates to the business affairs of the board, the buying of fuel, supplies, equipment, the buying of school sites and playgrounds, and the construction of new schools and additions.

Sees Way to Save Millions.

The mayor has not agreed to meddle with the teaching end of the schools, but he is convinced that the elimination of the present trustees and their business managers, agents, and other spenders would save millions for the taxpayers.

Under the existing law the trustees are not removable and none of them has indicated a desire to resign. Therefore their removal involves an appeal to the state legislature. The exact procedure has not been determined upon, but it has been suggested to Mayor Cermak that the legislature be requested to abolish the office of the present trustees and then create a new board with modified authority, different jurisdiction and changed duties. By this plan the mayor would be permitted to appoint new trustees.

Hope for Legislation Soon.

The precise organization to be built will require some care and study, but it is thought that the bills can be prepared so that the legislature will have ample time to adopt them before the present session closes.

If the legislature declines, then it is reasoned to the mayor that whatever censure results from the acts of the present board will naturally be hung against the state legislature. The view expressed in the preceding sentence appeals to Mayor Cermak, who reiterated yesterday that the schools must save cash as well as the city. He added: "I'm not going to permit—if I can help it—the school board recklessly to spend what the city proper saves. That would make the taxpayers see red."

Question of G. O. P. Votes.

It has also been suggested to Mr. Cermak that he would not encounter Republican votes interested in protecting the present school trustees, because it is rumored that the former mayor desires to retain school control as a nucleus for an organization with which to enter the presidential preference primaries next spring.

A second high spot in Mayor Cermak's day was an audience with a group of west siders promoting a medical center. Briefly the plan is to have the state acquire the area bounded by Ashland avenue and Oakley boulevard, Roosevelt road and Jackson boulevard, and then sell or lease it for hospitals, laboratories, medical schools, and allied institutions so far as needed and retain the remainder as a public park.

Funds Under Discussion.

It is proposed that the state shall invest $12,000,000, or perhaps $20,000,000, and it was represented to the mayor that if the plan becomes operative the Presbyterian hospital will spend $6,000,000 for added facilities and the American Medical association will spend upward of $20,000,000.

The delegation was headed by Ald. James B. Bowler, President Emmett Whalan of the county board, County Commissioner Peter M. Kelly, Mark Ethridge, Otto Bers, and Clarence Cavanaugh of the West Town Chamber of Commerce, Edward L. Hines, president of the University hospital; Asa Bacon, superintendent of the Presbyterian hospital, and Dean Davis of the University of Illinois medical school.

The bill, which the delegation summarized to the mayor, provides for the appointment by the governor of three commissioners who in turn would be authorized by the bill to acquire property in the area by purchase or condemnation, and then sell or lease it under prescribed restrictions with an ultimate view of creating a medical center to rival, if not surpass, anything of that character in the world.

Mayor Cermak said that he is in sympathy with the idea, has worked for it for several years, was acquainted with the study given the subject by the Chicago plan commission, and had had J. Louis Jacobs, efficiency expert, look into the matter thoroughly.

"But," added the mayor, "I shall refer the matter to the mayor's advisory commission for its opinion and recommendation."

Speaks to Trade Board.

Another event in the mayor's full day yesterday was his speech before the Association of Commerce luncheon at the Stevens hotel. About 2,000 attended, which is nearly five times the usual number. It was the first time the mayor of Chicago has spoken before the association since the former mayor appeared early in his last term on the occasion of a testimonial to the president of Cuba.

Mayor Cermak bluntly told the business interests that "it is beyond the power of the mayor and city council alone to solve the city's financial problem." He asserted that "the city has for several years overestimated its revenue in order to balance its budget."

The result is that the city now has more than $4,000,000 in unpaid bills and judgments outstanding for other unpaid bills aggregating $8,426,905.

On top of those relatively small debts, the mayor said that the city and the school board has $228,443,777 in tax anticipation warrants outstanding. To meet the interest on these warrants alone, the city and school board this year will spend approximately $9,000,000, according to Mr. Cermak's reckoning.

Unable to Sell Tax Paper.

But that is not all. Because the city is in such financial distress and the usual certainty about the tax collection is absent, the city is at the end of its power to sell tax warrants, according to the mayor's information.

Mayor Cermak told the association of his appointment of an advisory commission to aid him in his difficulties. He then outlined the tasks which he has or will assign this commission, which were set forth in more detail in his inaugural message.

The mayor said that he will call upon other members of the association for aid and assistance and in turn he pledged his efforts to promote the business, commercial, and financial interests of the city.

Just how soon a plan will be evolved ton tangle the city's financial affairs could not be learned yesterday, but it was promised that the advisors will start considering the subject soon.

Poisons Woman and Himself Before Her Husband

the telephone bell jingled. It was Jones, whose wife witnessed the tragedy, calling to learn of the outcome of the reconciliation. He was told of the deaths.

Lieut. Schwartz searched the room and found letters indicating that Hartung meant to end his life. In one note he wrote repeatedly that he could not live without Mrs. Garrison. In a note written by Mrs. Garrison she had addressed him as "the sweetest boy I ever met."

One of the letters from Hartung said: "So here I am planning with the last drink of our gin to take the easiest way out."

He Cannot Lose Her.

Another, addressed "to the one I love, said:

"Angel, I can't go on after having you and realizing that you are leaving me. It is too much for my poor brain. Why must a love like ours be separated? If it were only possible for me to have taken you away things might have worked differently; but, dear heart, please understand that my love for you alone has become such a part of me that to be even away from you just drives me crazy.

"I would rather be dead than away from you. My love for you is deep. I want you to know that the last thought shall be of you. The last word shall be I have loved you. After all, darling, we must die, but to die for one you love is most pleasant, after all. May God bless you, sweetheart, and give you love to carry on."

Hartung carried several cards in his pocket. They bore the name of Hartung. A bill carried the name of "Gerhardt" of Columbus. The name of Gerlach was used on the hotel registry.

Garrison was formerly a newspaper circulator throughout the state of Michigan.

TWO HELD TO GRAND JURY.

Theodore Davis, 20 years old, 804 West Division street, and William Sanders, 19 years old, 1108 Larrabee street, both colored, were held to the grand jury on four charges of robbery yesterday by Judge Francis Allegretti.

GOLDBERG RESIGNS AS A DIRECTOR OF MUNICIPAL HOSPITAL

Dr. Benjamin Goldberg, member of the board of directors of the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium, yesterday sent his resignation to Mayor Cermak. He was the last of the old board to resign, and his action clears the way for the appointment by the mayor of a new board.

A preliminary survey of the institution which the mayor ordered showed that of 575 employés in one division only 276 were in the classified civil service while the others were temporary employés. The survey also showed $237,600 in unpaid bills between last Dec. 31 and April 1 of this year.

"My many years of interest in the sanitarium and its vast field organization," wrote Dr. Goldberg in his resignation, "lead me to believe that you have not been given the correct information with regard to the accomplishments of that institution."

UNION AGENT IS SHOT; STAGGERS INTO HOSPITAL

Louis C. Bartucci, 23 years old, 405 South Marshfield avenue, staggered into St. Luke's hospital last night with two bullet wounds in the abdomen, which physicians said might prove fatal.

Bartucci, who is an agent for the Chicago News Carriers' union, 506 South Wabash avenue, asserted that he had been shot by a man who tried to hold him up on 11th street between State street and Wabash avenue.

The union is a compartively new organization being formed under the direction of James Bagnolio. It has not been recognized either by the publishers or the American Federation of Labor. Reports to the police indicated that Bartucci and another man have been promising territorial monopoly in magazine sales to news merchants who join and pay dues. The police believed, despite Bartucci's story, the shooting was an outgrowth of the organization work.

NEW WARRANT ISSUED BY U. S. TO DEPORT VOLPE

CRIMINAL COURT.

Edward Kassemir, assault to murder, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary by Judge Charles A. Williams.

William Johnnameyer, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge John Prystalski.

Assistant United States Attorney Dodd Healy was informed yesterday that Secretary of Labor William N. Doak has issued a second warrant of deportation for Tony [Mops] Volpe, public enemy aligned with Al Capone.

TONY VOLPE.

The only remaining recourse for the Capone gangster, who was found to have reëntered this country as alien after committing a crime of moral turpitude, is a writ of habeas corpus, and Judge Wilkerson will hear his petition on Monday.

The first warrant of deportation issued for Volpe was withdrawn by Secretary Doak for the purpose of introducing additional and stronger evidence relating to Volpe's entry at Key West, Fla., by airplane, in 1928. Volpe was accompanied on his jaunt to Havana by Jack Guzik, Capone gang captain; Dan Serritella, a Capone lieutenant, who was city sealer in the former administration; Ald. William Pacelli and former Ald. Albert Prignano.

The evidence showed that Volpe claimed citizenship to gain admission, but he testified at a hearing before the inspectors that he only claimed first papers.

If Judge Wilkerson denies Volpe's petition for a writ of habeas corp. the hoodlum may still appeal to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Volpe pleaded guilty five years ago to conspiracy in connection with a $1,000,000 war savings stamp counterfeiting case. He served thirty days, receiving a light sentence because his first trial resulted in a disagreement.

CERMAK INDORSES STATE BILL AGAINST FIREWORKS SALE

Mayor Cermak, who as an alderman was instrumental in stopping the sale of fireworks in Chicago, yesterday indorsed the bill pending in the state legislature which would prohibit the sale of fireworks in Illinois. The bill would not interfere with regulated fireworks displays handled by trained men.

"I am heartily in favor of prohibiting the sale of fireworks," the mayor said, "because of the protection it will give to children. As an alderman I was a member of the committee which originated the 'safe and sane Fourth' movement and assisted in drafting the city ordinance.

"The ordinance was nullified by the sale of fireworks just outside the city limits and that has been responsible for a number of deaths."

An ordinance has been submitted to the city council which would permit the sale of all the smaller and less dangerous kinds of fireworks. It was referred to the committee on health.

Delay Hearing on Fireworks Bill.

Springfield, Ill., April 29.—[Special.]—Hearing on the bill to prohibit the sale and use of fireworks in Illinois, save at official celebrations sponsored by reputable organizations, was continued for one week today in the house judiciary committee. Representative Thomas J. O'Brien [Dem., Chicago], sponsor of the bill, and Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg [Rep., Chicago] obtained the postponement.

SIAMESE RULER HOOVER GUEST, ALSO DENTIST'S

Adopting the custom observed abroad and presented here for the first time, the President and Mrs. Hoover received the king and queen in the red room, and after an exchange of greetings went with them to the east room, where were assembled the members of their majesties' suite who had preceded them and the American guests.

Introductions Takes Place.

In the east room, where the company waited, hosts and honor guests made the rounds of the half circles, attended by their aides, and mutual introductions took place before the President led the way to the dining room with the queen, followed by the king and Mrs. Hoover.

Triumph for Mrs. Gann.

The reception by the king and queen of Siam of Mrs. Gann, who accompanied Vice President Curtis when he paid his official call, and the ranking of both Mr. and Mrs. Gann immediately after the Vice President and before Prince and Princess Svasti on the official guest list issued tonight at the White House, represented the most complete recognition thus far officially accorded of the precedence demanded by Mr. Curtis for his sister.

And just two incidents that made a bit of a stir. One was when Admiral Pratt lost an epaulette at the entrance of the royal mansion, but Mr. Charles A. Page, assistant ceremonials officer of the state department, was at hand and soon had it hitched again. The other was when Princess Svasti departed for Arlington and Mount Vernon puffing a small cheroot.

BOY STORM HERO HOOVERS' GUEST; HE MEETS A KING

Lunches with President; Keeps His Poise.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 29.—Bryan Untiedt, 13 year old schoolboy who last month won a man's sized battle with a Colorado blizzard, today won an equally mature victory over stage fright. He came with dignity to the White House to be the guest of the President.

From the moment, early this morning, when he hopped off the train, delighted with the polish the porter had given his shoes, to the moment, rather late tonight, when he turned off the light in the big blue bedroom where Lindbergh once slept, he had a fine time.

The boy had lunched with a President and chatted with a king; he had looked up, in awe, at nine venerable gentlemen in black gowns as they sat on the bench of the United States Supreme court; he had stooped down, with glee, to pat five friendly dogs that scampered about him in the White House kennels. He had visited the navy yard to see his first ship, and he had seen his baggage, one suit case, ridden up in state in a huge limousine from the depot to the executive mansion.

Good Times Ahead.

Best of all, as he drifted off into sleep, he had the presidential guarantee of a gay and busy tomorrow.

For just before President Hoover had gone down stairs to receive the king and queen of Siam, he had said to his youthful guest:

"Bryan, I want you to see everything that an American schoolboy would want to see in Washington. And I want you to stay here until you've seen everything you want to."

Today, however, Bryan saw something that not even the most pampered young tourist could ordinarily see in Washington. He had seen a monarch, had seen him twice. In the morning, when the Siamese royalty were paying their formal call on the President, Bryan peeked out of an upper window. But this evening when they came to the formal state dinner, Bryan was called downstairs to meet them, and to be congratulated by them on his valor in saving the lives of many of his companions in the school bus tragedy that brought him into fame.

Tells Story to President.

That tragedy, by the way, is being delicately referred to. When President Hoover first met the boy he deliberately did not talk about the event. Later, at luncheon with the family, the President began to ask questions about the catastrophe and Bryan told his story. But the details of that story are to remain details of a private conversation. For the White House does not wish to subject guests to any embarrassing publicity.

Accordingly, the boy arrived quietly, almost unheralded. As he entered the front door, with servants bowing at him from all corners, Bryan looked just a little dismayed. But in a moment he was in the second floor living room shaking hands with a woman who immediately called him "Bryan" and told him she was very glad to see him.

By her side, as she welcomed the boy who nearly died in a blizzard, stood a tall young man, who this very day had come home from a long and anxious convalescence down in Asheville, N. C. So Mrs. Hoover smiled at both Herbert Hoover Jr., and at Bryan Untiedt, when she said:

"I am very happy."

Hoover's Son Returns.

Washington, D. C., April 29.—(AP)—Forty pounds heavier than during his last visit to the White House, Herbert Hoover Jr. returned today for a visit with his parents after six months' rest and adherence to a health building régime in mountain retreats.

Last October the President's son, diagnosed as suffering from incipient tuberculosis, went to Asheville, N. C., to complete his cure.

SUPREME COURT ASKED FOR NEW BARKER HEARING

The Supreme court yesterday was asked to change its ruling in the case of George [Red] Barker, public enemy, labor racketeer, and gunman, who was turned out of the penitentiary last week on a writ of habeas corpus. A petition for a rehearing of the case was filed by the attorney general's office.

The attorney general also asked the Supreme court to reconsider its decisions in the James [Red] Forsythe and Simon Gorman gun toting cases and of Attorney William Scott Stewart, who was liberated from a three months' contempt sentence imposed by the late Judge Frank Comerford.

Sheriff William D. Meyering yesterday issued a statement in which he said that he did not think his deputy, Ed Wing, did anything wrong by taking Barker out of the back way of the jail and allowing him to ride out of the secret jail automobile entrance with his wife. He said in his statement that he had no evidence that Wing had received any gratuity from the gangster, and that therefore he had violated no rules or regulations in extending courtesies to the labor racketeer. The deputy was officially exonerated.

MINISTER, SUED BY WIFE, TELLS MARITAL VIEWS

Preaches "Self-Control" in His Answer.

Memphis, Tenn., April 29.—[Special.]—Declaring that he stands where his church stands in regarding self-control as the only Christian standard of birth control and has tried to live by such a standard for the last three years, the Very Rev. Israel H. Noe, dean of St. Mary's Episcopal cathedral, tomorrow will answer the petition for divorce filed by Mrs. Noe on Feb. 9.

"I desire to state that I have come to this conviction," he says, "through a slow and steady growth in spiritual development and thought."

The answer rests largely upon this declaration. In fact Dean Noe insists that divorce is abhorrent, that he loves his wife with all his heart and soul and his children better than life. He recalls that he and Mrs. Noe are still living under the same roof, eating at the same table, and that he is discharging his duties as a husband and father with fidelity and devotion.

Opposes Legal Code.

But the dean does not think that the legal code, or, in view of Mrs. Noe's physical condition and his own strong conviction, the social or religious codes require him to live with her, as the phrase goes, as man and wife.

Dean Noe does not specifically ask that Mrs. Noe's suit be dismissed, but declared that he does not care to participate any controversy in court.

Mrs. Noe charged in her bill that since October, 1927, the dean has grown cold and aloof and had reached "such a state of spiritual perfection" that he no longer cares for mundane things in a domestic sense.

Sympathetic, He Says.

In his reply to his wife's charges Dean Noe's answer says:

"Your respondent would furthermore state that complainant is cognizant of the fact that respondent believes that the fundamental and primary purpose of marriage is for the purpose of procreation and creation, that the sex instinct when used for its purpose for which God intended it is a holy instinct, but when misused for the purposes of luxury, pleasure or convenience, becomes a carnal instinct. While your respondent believes in this absolute standard of morals, he is very sympathetic with human weakness and knows that it will take humanity a long time to reach that goal.

Tries to Live by Standard.

"Complainant knows that it is a fundamental principle with respondent that the only Christian standard of birth control is self-control and that respondent has tried to live by such a standard for the last three years.

"Respondent would furthermore state that complainant always has been a woman of the highest integrity and character and purity of conduct and that it is his firm belief that she never could live upon any other level.

"He has always considered her a most devoted mother, giving all her strength and energy to her children. Respondent would state that while complainant has a different philosophy of life from the one held by him, yet he grants her the same right to her opinion as he claims for himself."

St. Mary's cathedral is the seat of Bishop Gailor, former executive head of the Episcopal church in America.

LA SALLE STORE ROBBED.

La Salle, Ill., April 29.—(AP)—The C. A. Jensen jewelry store was robbed of several thousand dollars' worth of gems today.

2 DAY SIEGE LOST BY PEGGY JOYCE TO FEDERAL MEN

New York, April 29.—[Special.]—Miss Peggy Hopkins Joyce, the actress, gem collector, and divorcée, has capitulated to the government sleuths who have been dogging her footsteps for nearly a week vainly trying to serve her with a summons in a civil suit based on her alleged failure to declare a few thousand dollars' worth of jewelry and gowns when she returned from Europe away back in 1922.

PEGGY JOYCE.

Miss Joyce, besieged in her apartment at the Ambassador hotel by the agents for the last two days, let it be known through her attorney, Moses Polakoff, that she would receive the gentlemen from the marshal's office and accept service of the summons at their later convenience, in Mr. Polakoff's office, 475 5th avenue.

The agents courteously withdrew from their siege of the Joyce apartment as soon as the lawyer assured them his client would be on hand to receive them at a time to be agreed upon. She was there.

"My maid was careless," Miss Joyce explained to Deputy United States Marshal Edward Menges, "and I got my American jewel case all mixed up with my French jewel case."

It was thus that a French locket got on an American chain and was declared for the $8,000 for which it was appraised when seized.

Miss Joyce was then served with a summons in the suit by which the government says she must pay $51,000 in duties and penalties.

KIRKLAND CALM AS DEATH ISSUE TRIAL IS BEGUN

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Valparaiso, Ind., April 29.—[Special.]—Virgil Kirkland, 20 year old gambler with fate, who has chosen to chance a possible death penalty rather than remain in a prison cell for life, was airily indifferent today at the open of his new trial for the murder by rape of Arlene Draves, 18 years old.

JUDGE GRANT CRUMPACKER.

The questioning of prospective jurors was old stuff to the Gary youth, and he was prepared to yawn at the involved queries of the attorneys. Even the insistence of the state that men with scruples against the death penalty be excused did not disturb his composure. The granting of a new trial after a jury had found him guilty and fixed his punishment at life imprisonment is said to have filled him with hopes for an acquittal and made him forgetful of the danger that he may now be sentenced to death in the electric chair.

Seventeen Have Opinions.

When Judge Grant Crumpacker adjourned court tonight thirty men had passed through the jury box, with not a single juror accepted by both sides. Seventeen men were excused when they had fixed opinions in the case which evidence could not remove, and one man was excused when the defense exercised one of their twenty peremptory challenges.

The first trial of the case was characterized by an amazing plentitude of rumors, false reports, and gossipy inventions, so the second hearing has already produced several such stories, none of them bearing substantiation.

New Witness for State?

Kirkland's face was inscrutable when told of a report that one of his friends, Leon Stanford, now awaiting trial with three other boys for contributing to the girl's death, had agreed to testify for the state. This story was denied by Stanford's attorney and there was no word from the state concerning its truth.

Again, it was whispered about town that the lie detector, a machine supposed to test the truth of a person's statements, had been applied to Kirkland in the jail yesterday. If this rumor was true, it failed to include any information concerning Kirkland's reactions to the test and it was also denied by all concerned in the case.

Ronald Oldham, Chicago lawyer representing Kirkland, was notified that a warrant charging him with practicing law without a license in Illinois had been issued in Chicago by Judge Francis Borrelli. Oldham declared the charge did not greatly concern him.

SPRAGUE SPEEDS UP REMOVAL OF SUNKEN SHIP FROM RIVER

Furthering his campaign to clean up the main branch of the Chicago river, Commissioner of Public Works Sprague yesterday granted the use of a city scow and derrick in raising the old ship Rotarian. The boat is resting on the bottom of the river between Clark and La Salle streets.

The engine was taken out of the boat, and it was permanently moored to the city wharf at the beginning of the last city administration. Last year it sunk, and no efforts were made by the old administration to remove the unsightly wreck.

Bystander Killed, 3 Shot as Police Fight Robbers

St. Louis, Mo., April 29.—(AP)—One bystander was killed and a woman and two men were wounded late today in an exchange of shots between police and three men whom they caught in the holdup of a shirt store near the federal building, in the heart of the downtown business section.

JURORS WILL GET BANK RECORDS OF ALCOCK AND AIDS

Subpœnas Issued; Include 37 Captains.

Acting Police Commissioner Alcock, his three chief assistants, and thirty-seven captains will have their bank accounts scrutinized by the special grand jury looking for evidence of police corruption.

The jurors as a body voted yesterday to back up the requests of Assistant State's Attorneys Charles J. Mueller and Charles Lounsbury for duces tecum subpoenas on 137 banks calling for the production of the bank accounts. Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court then issued the subpoenas.

Judge McGoorty had previously refused to issue the subpoenas, saying that he did not thing it right to "besmirch the reputations of police officials by a fishing expedition." He, however, said that if the jury insisted on the records he would issue the subpoenas, but that it was his understanding that the jurors did not want the accounts of Alcock, Deputy Commissioner James B. Scanlan, Chief of Detectives John W. Norton, and Deputy Chief Lawrence Rafferty.

Jurors Get Together.

Prosecutors Mueller and Lounsbury, who have already investigated the accounts of 17 captains, issued the ultimatum that if the jurors did not back them up they would "quit the investigation." The jury went into executive session yesterday morning and after a sharp debate appeared before Judge McGoorty and asked for the subpoenas. A short time later the jurors issued the following formal statement:

"The grand jury reconvened this morning for the purpose of considering further procedure in connection with the issuance of subpoenas duces tecum for the bank records of certain police officials. At the last meeting the grand jurors failed to include the names of the acting commissioner and his chief deputy commissioners and left the situation somewhat uncertain.

"To clarify the matter the grand jury acted officially this morning and requested the chief justice to authorize these subpoenas and they were issued. The jury will reconvene again on May 4 to resume the study of the bank accounts."

Alcock Refuses to Comment.

Most of the police captains interviewed yesterday said that they would be glad to have the jurors examine their accounts. A few of them, however, preferred to talk about the weather or the ball game rather than their bank accounts. Commissioner Alcock refused to comment.

The captains named in the subpœnas are James P. Allman, Patrick J. Collins, Thomas Condon, Max L. Danner, Michael W. Delaney, Thomas Duffy, David C. Fitzgerald, Luke J. Garrick, Daniel A. Gilbert, Richard P. Gill, Patrick J. Harding, Matthew Horner, John P. Horan, Michael Hughes, Joseph M. Johnson, Patrick Kelliher, William Kennedy, H. Killeen, Charles Larkin, Patrick T. Mrs. Harry N. King

The adored playmate of her own two daughters, Barbara Ann and Priscilla, Mrs. Harry N. King of 327 N. Taylor Ave., Oak Park, wife of a prominent Chicago newspaper man, takes an active interest in Infant Welfare work. Possessing an abundant vitality that makes her a worthy opponent at tennis or golf, Mrs. King keeps in enviable physical condition. "Welch's as a breakfast fruit juice picks up our appetites and starts us out fresh and vigorous," says Mrs. King. "My little girls and I often enjoy a glass during the day, for Welch's natural food elements restore our energy much more healthfully than sweets. When I serve Welch's with ginger ale, or as a nightcap after an evening of bridge, my guests always exclaim over its fresh fruit flavor."

When you're tired

WHEN you feel exhausted after a busy morning . . . when the afternoon seems to drag . . . don't "munch." Instead, "drink a bunch of grapes"—revive your strength—and add not a single undesired ounce to your weight!

Non-fattening and slightly laxative, Welch's is the concentrated goodness of the finest Concords. No other fruit affords greater abundance of those vitalizing elements—mineral salts, neutralizing acids and fruit proteins—that the body needs.

In the highlands of upper New York state, soil, water and sun combine to create this delightful food-tonic which stays hunger and satisfies thirst. In Welch's you enjoy all the color, flavor and delicate bouquet of vine-ripened fruit, so rich many prefer it diluted with one-third to one-half water.

Give Mother Nature a chance to prove the efficacy of the world-famous "grape-cures" of Europe. Drink Welch's every day throughout the year and you will not need to worry about your weight, your nerves or your digestion. For health-insurance, drink a bunch of grapes, but ask for Welch's. Only thus can you be sure of purest fruit juice pasteurized and bottled under rigid laboratory control.

MAYER ESTATE SALE IS TOPIC AT POSTAL QUIZ

U. S. Prosecutor Tells of Condemnation Plans.

Senator John J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.], chairman of the committee investigating postal sites and leases, yesterday heard testimony on the purchase of the Levy Mayer tract of the abandoned Marshall Field postoffice site.

The Mayer parcel, which consists of 30,997 square feet on the Clinton street of the Field site, between Harrison and Polk street, was purchased for $535,000, all the money remaining in the appropriation after the Field site had been bought. The testimony at the federal building disclosed that the deal was closed on the same day that condemnation proceedings were set for trial, Oct. 23, 1928.

Questions U. S. Prosecutor.

Senator Blaine, during an examination of United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson, charged the federal prosecutor with inadequate preparation for trial, and sought to show that the purchase price of $535,000 was in excess of the valuation placed upon the property by the government's own experts. However, after Edwin J. Hess, the former assistant prosecutor in charge of the condemnation proceedings, had testified, Senator Blaine admitted that the case was properly handled. Mr. Johnson was questioned as follows:

Q.—Were you authorized to employ real estate experts in preparation for the condemnation proceedings? A.—Yes.

Q.—Whom did you employ? A.—Harry Goldstein, Louis B. Beardslee, Francis E. Manierre, and Clifton R. Bechtel.

Q.—Mr. Beardslee figured the valuation of the Mayer tract at $247,976, or about $8 a square foot. You were going to rely upon that in part for your evidence? A.—Yes.

Q.—Do you recall what the Mayer estate asked? A.—Something like $639,000, I believe.

Q.—You had knowledge that Marshall Field & Co. had purchased a tract adjacent to the Mayer tract for $9.80 a square foot, didn't you? A.—We had a chart that I suppose showed that tract.

Q.—It is shown on this chart, which also shows that another tract was purchased at $17.56 a square foot, another at $11.25, another at $10.77, another at $14.21, and another, on the corner, at $16.82. You had that chart in preparation for trial? A.—Yes.

Q.—You thought $639,000 high? A.—My opinion of real estate would be of little value.

Q.—You were prepared to show that the valuation did not exceed that made by Beardslee? A.—No, there was a wide difference of opinion among the experts.

Q.—What did you propose to show? A.—We proposed to present witnesses and obtain their opinion as to the exact value.

Experts Not Agreed.

Q.—You didn't propose to create confusion among the jurors, did you? A.—That was a problem. We naturally would have been bound by the witnesses after they had been cross-examined. I don't think they had reached an agreement as to the value.

Q.—It seems strange that a United States attorney should set a case for trial on a definite date when he hadn't made up his mind on the only issue involved, a fair valuation. A.—My reply to you, Mr. Senator, is that my office has in no case gone to trial without being thoroughly prepared.

Q.—You wouldn't be acquitted of that charge in this case. A.—That's your opinion.

Q.—This case was settled on the very day it was to have gone to trial? A.—About that time.

Told Deal Is Closed.

Q.—Well, on Oct. 23 Attorney General Sargent informed you that J. Milton Trainer, representing the Mayer estate, had closed the sale for $535,000, or $16.37 a square foot. Did you have your witnesses in court? A.—The witnesses were ready for trial, but the case was continued when I was informed of the settlement.

Q.—It is very evident, Mr. Johnson, that you were not going to try that case on that day, and also that you had little disposition to try it. A.—I had no disposition one way or the other except to follow the instructions of the attorney general.

Mr. Johnson explained at various times that he did not wish to appear reluctant to testify, but that he did not personally handle the case and could not remember the details. Then Mr. Hess was called. He testified that the government witnesses were at variance in appraising the land from $250,000 to $400,000, whereupon Senator Blaine said:

"And you were prepared to go to trial with their testimony? I had thought from Mr. Johnson's testimony that the disparity in opinion was much greater, but I see now that the variance was not so great."

Trainer Tells of Sale.

Mr. Trainer testified that he represented the Mayer estate, and that the widow of Mayer wanted $800,000 for the property. He said he offered it for $750,000, for he believed it worth on the average as much as the Marshall Field site, which sold for $17.37 a square foot.

"It is possible," he testified, "that the treasury department informed me that $535,000 was all the money left in the appropriation, and that I could take it or leave it, but I don't recall."

Mr. Beardslee testified as to his appraising the Mayer tract at $8 a square foot, and also gave his opinion that the Marshall Field property was worth at least $10 a foot and not more than $12. Another real estate man, Frederick T. Kuhn, testified yesterday that in his opinion the Marshall Field property was not worth more than $5 a square foot.

PREDICT BIG DROP IN SPRING MOVING BY CHICAGO FAMILIES

Tomorrow will see less moving in Chicago than on any previous May 1, which, along with Oct. 1, has been known as "moving day," according to various agencies watching moving activities.

According to L. L. Newton, executive secretary of the home council of the Chicago Real Estate board, 1931 will show a decided drop in May day moving when compared with 1929 and 1930. "In 1929 there were approximately 6,000 May 1 movers," he said. "Last year this dropped to 4,000 and probably there will be fewer than 2,500 move on May 1 this year."

Officials of moving van companies estimate that the spring moving will decrease 15 per cent this year.

Figures of the Peoples Gas company indicate a 10 per cent decrease in May 1 moving as compared with last year. However, new gas connection figures show that May 1, with 75,000 connections, and Oct. 1, with 50,000 connections, still remain the favorite moving days. Out of 900,000 customers the majority still prefer spring and fall movings.

The Illinois Bell Telephone company's figures show a 3 per cent decrease in orders for telephone changes.

Troops Start Movements to Site for Maneuvers

Troops stationed in the Sixth corps area yesterday started to move toward Woodstock and Harvard, Ill., for a week of maneuvers, which will begin next Saturday. Soldiers from the garrisons at Fort Sheridan, Scott field, at Belleville, Ill.; Jefferson barracks, St. Louis, and others left their home stations to march to the scene of maneuvers. The army which will gather will be composed of units from the 2d infantry, the 6th infantry, the 3d field artillery, dirigibles from Scott field, an anti-aircraft regiment from Fort Sheridan, a squadron of cavalry and attached medical, engineer, hospital, and signal troops.

ROB GOLD COAST DRESS SHOP.

Two Negro robbers yesterday entered the Manteaux, Inc., store at 120 East Oak street, held up Mrs. Anna K. Cluever, 6836 Pingree street, a clerk and two customers and fled with gowns and cloaks valued at $1,500.

CERMAK PLEDGES A SUPERHIGHWAY FOR WEST SIDE

Declares Gas Tax Should Provide Funds.

BY HAL FOUST.

Mayor Cermak announced yesterday that he will try to build a broad highway, with continuous grade separation, from the loop through some section of the west side, to furnish traffic facilities comparable to the outer drives along the lake front.

"I can't pledge myself at this time to any particular type of thoroughfare or to any specific location," he said, "but I hope to build a roadway that will develop the western part of the city as the water front boulevards have developed the lake shore north and south.

Plans to Use Gas Tax.

"Such an improvement can be financed without any increase of the tax burden upon the property owners of Chicago. It can be built, and should be built, from the gasoline tax. Chicago motorists, through the gasoline tax, are now paying for modern traffic facilities in the city but are not receiving them.

"Two years ago or more, while I was president of the Cook county board, I spoke before the Illinois League of Municipalities advocating that municipalities should receive a fair portion of the revenue from the gasoline tax. As mayor of Chicago, my position is unchanged."

Under the present motor fuel act, the state highway department receives 2 cents of the gasoline tax and the county receives 1 cent. The League of Municipalities has sponsored a bill, now pending in the house, which would divide the gasoline revenue 1 cent to the state, 1 cent to the counties and 1 cent to municipalities.

Object to Emmerson Plan.

The state, collecting almost half of its fuel excise from Chicago, has not laid any pavement within the city. Chicago would receive between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000 a year under the 1-1-1 distribution and Cook county's revenue from this source would remain unchanged.

Gov. Emmerson has fathered a measure, house bills 269 and 270, authorizing the state to take control of city streets that are continuations of state highways. Objection to the bills has been raised on the ground that they authorize the state to pay only a small portion of the cost of expensive municipal improvements.

The administration's appropriation bills do not indicate that it has any intention to build any major municipal traffic improvements, such as an elevated highway. Out of a total of $110,000,000 sought for the highway department for the next biennium, $7,000,000 is listed for municipal construction.

Chicago, it was said, could not hope to get more than $3,000,000 worth of work from the state highway department under this program as contrasted with between $10,000,000 and $12,000,000 under the 1-1-1 distribution of the gasoline tax.

The state highway department gave its official sanction to the Austin-Kinzie superhighway proposition when it was to have been financed by property owners of the west park district with a $20,000,000 bond issue, which was defeated at the polls. The administration's approval of some similar project is evidently lacking now, it was said, when it is proposed that the gasoline tax should finance the improvement.

Mayor Cermak, while president of the county board, approved the county's contribution of $2,000,000 of gasoline tax for the Austin-Kedzie superhighway. Commissioner of Public Works Sprague was chairman of the west side committee of the Chicago Plan commission, which has advocated boulevards with continuous grade separation for the west side.

WHAT PRICE BEAUTY

The one unchanging fact about human nature is that it is ever changing—except in its native hungers.

The craving for beauty is as natural and persistent as is the desire to get on in the world. To want better than he has is every man's urge.

Beauty is a hunger.

In all the factories of the world men are struggling to improve the appearance of things—that a native craving may be better satisfied.

But beauty is never the result of haphazard guesswork. Every truly beautiful thing has been made by someone who knew how.

Have we thought half enough about the importance of good taste?

The ability to discriminate between the commonplace and the beautiful is almost always the result of training and experience—real education.

If the Field store is an expression of refinements of beauty, it has been a development of men and women skillfully seeking to satisfy a great public need.

And in that high purpose, our low priced merchandise has been remarkably improved in appearance, even as it has been lessened in cost. Price here is not a measure of beauty—but it is ever a measure of worth.

FIGHT LOOMS TO SHARE FORTUNE OF LAST WENDEL

Kinship Is Claimed by Midwest Family.

New York, April 29.—[Special.]—The gold rush for the $100,000,000 left by Miss Ella Wendel was on in earnest today as Arthur Garfield Hays announced he had been retained by a midwestern family who claim kinship with the long secluded Fifth avenue clan.

Whether Mr. Hays, counsel for the Civil Liberties union and noted as a liberal champion, will bring suit to break the will—thus precipitating one of the most dramatic estate litigations in history—depends, he said today, on whether further study indicates the validity of the claimants' title and the incompetency of Miss Ella to dispose of her vast realty holdings.

"There is considerable doubt in my mind about the capacity of Miss Wendel to make a will," said Mr. Hays.

Miss Wendel, last of eight children, only one of whom was married, lived somewhat eccentrically, numerous stories are current in the small circle of those "who knew the Wendels," displaying odd quirks in temperament. She lived alone for years, except for servants and her white poodle, Toby, in the forbidding and conspicuous red mansion at 5th avenue and 39th street, and on her Irvington estate. She died March 12 at 78.

Her will, not yet probated because the executors—Charles G. Koss, her lawyer; Miss Isabel Koss, his daughter, and Stanley Shirk, nephew by marriage of Miss Ella's sister, the late Mrs. Luther A. Swope—have been unable to locate a next of kin, devised seven-eighths of the residuary estate to fourteen institutions. The lion's share she bequeathed to Drew university, Madison, N. J.; the Methodist Theological seminary at Nanking, China; Flower hospital, the Society for Ruptured and Crippled, and the St. Christopher's [Methodist] Home for Children at Dobbs Ferry.

That testament Mr. Hays will seek to have set aside if his inquiries satisfy him of the strength of his clients' cause. The clients, Mrs. Louise Wendel Merle, 82, of Taylorville, Ind. and her descendants, are to meet May 4 to formulate their claim.

The aged Mrs. Merle is the granddaughter of a Peter Wendel who, according to family records, came from Germany and settled in Chambersburg, Pa., in 1839. The Merle family, believing themselves to be near cousins of the last of the Wendels, have traced their origins in Germany.

PULLMAN PORTER INJURES 8 IN FIGHT ON SPEEDING TRAIN

Utica, N. Y., April 29.—(AP)—James E. Smith, 27, New York, Negro porter, who attacked and injured eight persons with a club and ax early today on a New York Central train north of this city, tonight was held for grand jury action on a charge of assault, second degree.

Smith, it is charged by Pullman Conductor Edward English, Saranac Lake, was found in a woman's berth and resisted when English ordered him out. In the argument which followed, Smith struck English on the head with a stick, inflicting severe cuts. Fighting, he then retreated through four coaches to the private car of C. B. Brodhead, Adirondack division superintendent, where he was taken prisoner at Thendara by troopers armed with gas bombs.

TOSSES POTATOES AT GREIN'S AIDS; NAMED IN SUIT

City Sealer Grein replied with a lawsuit yesterday to an attack made by a vegetable dealer on two deputy city inspectors of weights. While the deputies were weighing pecks of potatoes packed for sale by Morris Steinberg, 2101 Milwaukee avenue, the latter, according to Mr. Grein, tossed one of the pecks at the deputies' heads.

Despite the distraction the deputies continued their task and reported that they found each one of the pecks about eleven ounces short, Mr. Grein said. A suit charging Steinberg with giving short weight was filed with the city prosecutor.

Four other suits also alleging short terday. They are against Isadore and terday. They are against Isadore and Sam Kaufman, 3414 West 16th street; George and Frank Stoeberl, 1952 West Lake street; Abe Fogel and Gabriel Kraus, 1959 Washington boulevard, and Alfred Smith, 5913 Lawrence avenue.

FIGHT TO SUBDUE OIL BLAZE WHICH TOOK LIVES OF 8

Gladewater, Tex., April 29.—(AP)—Oil well fire fighting experts from Oklahoma were hurrying toward Gladewater tonight to plan means of extinguishing the giant torch shooting from the Sinclair Oil company's No. 1 Cole well, which took the lives of eight men when it became ignited last night.

The fire continued to roar away tonight. It was believed the only way the flames could be snuffed out would be with a well placed shot of nitroglycerin.

The latest victim of the fire was John L. Keys of Oklahoma City, who died tonight.

Hear of 10 Deaths.

New York, April 29.—(AP)—The New York offices of the Sinclair Oil company was advised at 3 p. m. today by its foreman at Gladewater, Tex., that ten men had lost their lives in the fire at the Sinclair No. 1 Cole well.

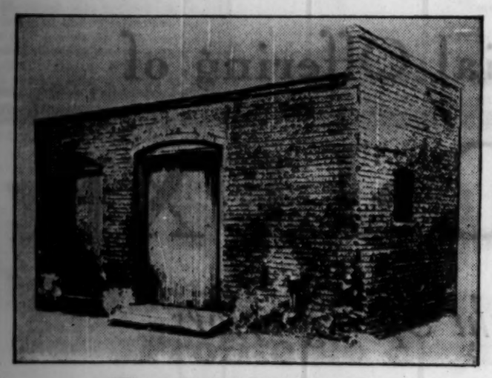
TWENTY MILLION FORDS
have been made since 1903

Long experience and unusual manufacturing facilities are reflected in the value of the Ford car today



Where the first Ford was made

THE Ford Motor Company was organized in 1903, but the idea of the car originated many years before that.

As far back as 1890, 1891 and 1892, Mr. Ford was working far into the night on what was then called a horseless carriage or a gasoline buggy. "It first began to run satisfactorily," he recalls, "in the spring of 1893. I was running it when the bobolinks came to Detroit and they always came on April 2nd."

This gasoline buggy was the first and for a long time the only automobile in Detroit. Interest was so great that it became necessary to chain the car to a lamp-post to prevent curious people from driving it away.

All of the earlier experiments on this car and a number of others that followed were conducted in a small one-room brick shop.

Finally, in 1903, the Ford Motor Company was organized and in 1908 the first Model T Ford was offered for sale. By the season of 1909-1910, the yearly output had increased to nineteen thousand and on May 31, 1921, the five millionth Ford came off the assembly line. Less than ten years later, on April 14th of this year, the total had reached twenty million. Production of the twenty-first million is now well under way.

These are tremendous figures, yet they hold an importance beyond mere size.

Each of these millions of Ford cars and trucks has played a part in the daily life and activity of some owner; extending his horizon, giving him increased opportunity for happiness and success, putting more worth-while hours into every day. In countless ways they have accelerated the pace and progress of this country and contributed to its growth.

Those who write the record of the past quarter of a century agree that the coming of the low-priced automobile changed our whole manner of living — of thinking — of doing!

Coincident with greater and greater demand for the Ford was the building of a vast industrial organization for its manufacture. The small brick shop became a series of plants covering thousands of acres, in every part of the world. The fruits of larger production are improved quality and craftsmanship, lower costs to the public, higher wages to the worker, and an industrial "back-log" of great value to the nation.

The Ford car of today is better because of the experience gained in making the millions of Ford cars and trucks that have preceded it. There is no substitute for time and experience. Ford materials and Ford methods are the product of both. The Ford name is built upon them. Today's Ford car, in everything that goes to make a good automobile, is unquestionably the greatest value in the history of the company.

SPAIN MAY ASK EXTRADITION OF EXILED ALFONSO

Pushes Investigation of Graft Charges.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, April 29.—The Spanish republic is prepared to ask for the extradition of former King Alfonso by whatever country he finally selects as an asylum, if sufficient evidence for criminal charges against him can be found. Angel Galarza, provisional government prosecutor, made this announcement today.

Investigation of the sources of the former monarch's personal holdings will be pressed to the limit, Galarza declared. The former king's relation, if any, to the big construction jobs undertaken during the dictatorship, such as the Santander and Mediterranean railroad, are to be run down. Gossips have long said that Alfonso was given many shares of stock of this line for some reason. Indalecto Prieto, new finance minister, made definite charges about this and what is said to be the king's rôle in granting a concession to the American Telegraph and Telephone corporation, a $100,000,000 project.

Seize Owner of Concession.

One of Spain's most picturesque barons, Juan March, who used to sell matches and now owns that monopoly, was arrested today as he tried to cross the French frontier. He will be brought to Madrid to face charges generally believed to have something to do with the profitable contraband trade in arms which went on between somebody in Spain and Abd-el Krim while the Riffians were picking off Spanish troops like clay pigeons.

In a decree which is taken to herald an immediate attack, as was promised, on the agrarian problem, the government today denied landowners' right to dispossess peasants for nonpayment of rent when the rent is less than $150 yearly.

Commenting on a report that Leon Trotzky, exiled from soviet Russia, has asked to be allowed to come to Spain, Foreign Minister Lerroux today said that as far as he is concerned Trotzky is welcome.

"My personal opinion is that we cannot refuse him," said Señor Lerroux. "I have been persecuted. I have known many jails in Spain. Therefore, I understand how he feels."

Premier Talks to U. S.

MADRID, April 29.—(AP)—President Niceto Alcala Zamora of the new Spanish republic addressed North and South America by trans-Atlantic radio at 7 o'clock [Chicago daylight saving time] tonight. President Zamora's address, which lasted 15 minutes, was delivered in Spanish and afterward translated. The destiny of the new republic of Spain, he said, rests in America rather than in Europe.

"If at any time," he said, "the European nations should form a bloc to threaten the interests of the Americas, the Spanish republic would join hands with its sister republics across the sea."

The president's address was declared to be the first broadcast from Spain to both North and South America.

REPORT MEXICO PLANS TO EXPEL 7,000 YANKS AS ILLEGAL RESIDENTS

El Paso, Tex., April 29.—(AP)—The Herald Post says that as a result of a survey the Mexican government has decided to expel more than 7,000 American citizens classed as illegal residents of Mexico.

The survey indicated a large number of Americans who had obtained temporary passports and had not registered as permanent residents according to Mexican law had overstayed their legal time in the country. Present immigration laws permit tourists a six months' stay in Mexico without a renewal of passports or registration with the government as a permanent ent.y.

HISTORIAN FOR U.S. GOVERNMENT RESIGNS OFFICE

Washington, D. C., April 29.—[Special.]—Tyler Dennett, historical adviser of the state department, will sever his connection with that department tomorrow, having resigned, and will go to Princeton next February as professor of international relations. His appointment was announced early this month at Princeton.

Mr. Dennett returned to the department from a five months' leave of absence on April 1 and immediately submitted his resignation. In leaving the department and going to Princeton, he said tonight he was merely serving his own interests, feeling it was to his advantage to make the change.

As historical adviser Mr. Dennett has had charge of the editing and publishing by the department of its volumes on foreign relations, including those which dealt exclusively with the world war period. He has applied himself to this task with scholarship and a zeal which at times led to a belief that his superiors in the department were not always cooperating fully, but his letter of resignation to Secretary Stimson makes no mention of this matter.

Reports that Mr. Dennett's resignation was in the nature of a protest against alleged cliques in the state department and a policy of suppression of the publication of the foreign relations correspondence by Secretary Stimson were current but lacked confirmation tonight.

In the past some of these volumes have been delayed in publication after they had been completed by Mr. Dennett, but they have since been issued. At present three volumes on American foreign relations with Russia, during the world war period are due to be issued. One will be out in June. The second one is now under study by ranking officials of the department, but is not being held up, as it is only a question of necessary time for their perusal before the approval of publication. The third volume will require some time in editing.

These volumes will be followed by others dealing with American foreign relations during 1917 and 1918. War volumes for the years 1914, 1915, and 1916 have already been issued.

The policy of bringing these volumes up to date was urged, particularly by Secretary of State Kellogg. Secretary Stimson gave his approval to the work when he assumed office. There have been intimations, however, that he personally was only casually interested in the volumes and this attitude has been responsible for the impression that he was endeavoring to suppress them.

So far as known, the only thing approaching suppression was in the case of the 1916 volume on the world war, which was held up for a year after it was completed, due to the London naval conference. This volume showed a tense situation between Great Britain and the United States over rights on the high seas.

Mr. Dennett was born in Wisconsin in 1883.

RETURN SEALED VERDICT IN SUIT FOR AIR CRASH

A jury in Circuit Judge David M. Brothers' court last night returned a sealed verdict in the case of Mrs. Louise McCusker, 244 East Pearson street, who is seeking $100,000 damages from the Curtiss-Wright Flying service for injuries received in an airplane crash a year ago. The verdict will be opened today.

The suit is the first of its kind growing out of a plane crash to be tried in Illinois. Mrs. McCusker alleged that she was seriously injured when the plane which she had chartered from the flying service plunged into a tree while attempting a forced landing near Waynestown, Ind. She charged negligence, saying the pilot, who was killed, was inexperienced.

EXCESSIVE RATE FOR SHORT TAXI TRIP HERE SHOWN

63% Above Fare in Typical Large Cities.

In actual operation, Chicago's taxicab fares are excessive, as compared with other large cities, even more than is apparent from reviewing the tariffs. And on typical short hauls the Chicago taxi is charging even more per mile than is obvious from the rate schedules. These conclusions are based on a survey made yesterday.

A ride from The Tribune Tower to the city hall shoved a meter to 45 cents while the speedometer showed the distance as .7 of a mile. For the same distance in New York, Detroit, or Washington, in one of the "15 and 5" cabs, the charge would have been 25 cents.

Chicago's rate is 25 cents for the first quarter of a mile and 10 cents for each additional half mile, or for any fraction of a half mile. When the meter flips up another 10 cents as the cab is pulling to the curb for you to alight you are paying for another half mile of ride that you don't get.

Rates in Other Cities.

In a "15 and 5" cab of one of the eastern cities the rate is 15 cents for the first quarter of a mile and 5 cents for each additional quarter. If another nickel turns up on the meter just before you finish your ride you have lost a quarter mile of passage rather than a half mile fare, as in Chicago.

St. Louis, Cleveland, Boston, and Los Angeles also have lower rates than Chicago's. The distance between Tribune Tower and the city hall, .7 of a mile, which costs 45 cents, could be covered in St. Louis for 35 cents, in Cleveland for 15 cents, in Los Angeles for 30 cents, and in Boston for 30 cents.

A taxi yesterday from the city hall to the Union station cost 45 cents. The distance was .8 of a mile. This distance would cost 30 cents in New York, Washington, Detroit, Los Angeles, or Boston. In Cleveland the bill would be 15 cents; in St. Louis, 45 cents.

35 Cents for Half a Mile.

A ride from the Union station to the La Salle Street station registered 35 cents on the taxi meter and .5 of a mile on the speedometer. Such a trip in a "15 and 5" cab would cost 25 cents. In Boston it would cost 30 cents; in Los Angeles, 30 cents, and in Cleveland, 15 cents.

From the La Salle street station to the Stevens hotel cost 45 cents, a distance of .7 of a mile. One would save 20 cents on a similar trip in New York, Washington, or Detroit, and would save 10 cents in St. Louis and 15 cents in Boston or Los Angeles. The fare would be only a third as much in Cleveland.

From the Stevens hotel to the Field museum, 1.3 miles, the bill was 45 cents. It would have been 35 cents in a "15 and 5" cab. The meter registered 65 cents for the 1.9 miles from the museum to the Hotel Sherman, a distance that could be covered in a "15 and 5" cab for 40 cents. From the Sherman to the Tribune Tower the speedometer registered .8 of a mile and the fare meter 45 cents. In a New York cab the bill would be 25 cents.

A reporter in seven short rides yesterday paid $3.35 for a total distance of 6.7 miles, an average of 50 cents a mile. Seven similar trips in the "15 and 5" taxis of New York, Detroit, or Washington would have cost $2.05. Chicago's excess is 63 per cent. The same rides could be made under the Cleveland rate for $1.15; under the Los Angeles rates for $2.40; under the Boston rate for $2.50, and under the St. Louis rate for $2.85.

"We barely make enough to live on now," commented a taxicab driver. "I don't see how we could reduce the fare. However, we might get more business if the rates were cheaper. If the minimum fare were lower we might get more short hauls and it's by making a lot of short hauls with tips that we make our money."

Red Agitator Is Held to Grand Jury in $15,000 Bail

D. E. Earley, 51 years old, 538 North Wells, who admitted that he has preached the overthrow of the government, by violence if necessary, was held to the grand jury yesterday in $15,000 bonds by Judge Walter Zeller of Chicago Heights. He was taken to the county jail when bond was not provided. Assistant State's Attorney Robert Donigan said the authorities had information that the defendant was responsible for the spreading of many of the rumors about various banks, but that conclusive evidence was not yet available. Early was held under the statute making it a crime to advocate violence.

TRACE LICENSE AFTER HIT AND RUN AUTO CRASH

Frank Kalowski, 14 years old, 1843 North Winchester avenue, was seriously injured yesterday when the bicycle he was riding was struck by a hit and run motorist at Winchester avenue and Center street. A witness gave the police a license number and it was traced to Charles E. Young, 1128 Diversey avenue. Young is to be questioned.

One death yesterday raised the Cook county motor toll since Jan. 1 to 379. The victim:

James Bataglia, 24 years old, 1533 West 46th street, a laborer. Died at the county hospital of injuries received three days ago when he fell from an automobile.

William Petraitis, 47 years old, 4439 Sheffield avenue, Hammond, was fatally injured last night when an automobile, struck by a Wabash railroad passenger train on the Calumet avenue crossing in Hammond, was overturned. The car fell on Petraitis, who was a watchman employed by the railroad. His death occurred a short time later in St. Margaret's hospital. The driver of the automobile, Roland Rice, 663 Maryland avenue, Gary, was only slightly hurt. It was reported that Petraitis had tried to warn Rice not to cross the tracks.

JEWELS

Collectors and others who are perhaps more interested in Jewels as an accessory to dress and modern beauty may be impressed with the brooch illustrated. It is a rare example of the exquisite but rather quaint character of early 17th Century jewelry. But quite regardless of the reason which might actuate the acquirement of jewels whether to grace a collection or to find usage as feminine adornment readers of the Saturday Antiques and Interior Decorations Section of The Sun will occasionally find them delightfully discussed.

BRITISH ENVOY TO RUSSIA FINDS STOLEN SILVER

Discovers Royal Treasure at Moscow Banquet.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MOSCOW., April 12.—[By Mail.]—During the revolution in 1917 many foreign embassies and legations, as well as the imperial palaces and mansions of the nobles in Petrograd were broken into and pillaged by mobs. After order was restored and the bolsheviks assumed power, the Red authorities made every effort to recover the stolen property, and much of it was seized from the homes of looters.

House to house searches were made in suspected districts, and all articles of value offered for sale were confiscated. Thus most of the furnishings, paintings, tapestries and other treasures of the great houses of the former capital were recovered.

But table silver owned by the British government and placed in its embassy for the use of its ambassador was never recovered. Chests of knives, forks and spoons, salt cellars, pepper shakers and other table silverware were never found, although some silver platters and plates were discovered and returned.

THE SECRET VAULT.

At No. 17 Spiridonovka, Moscow, is a huge, palatial mansion of a former millionaire, a textile magnate under the old imperial régime, who amassed great wealth in Kharkov and other districts. The house was confiscated by communists along with the homes of other aristocrats and burgeoisie when the rightful owner fled the revolution.

For two years this building was the headquarters of Herbert Hoover's American Relief association, which distributed food to the famished population of the Volga region in 1920-'21. After the association completed its job and left Russia, the building was taken over by the government as a place for entertaining foreigners at glittering receptions, according to the diplomatic protocol followed here as in capitalistic countries.

Find Jewels in Vault.

While the building was being renovated, after the departure of the American relief expedition a secret vault was discovered in the basement. Inside the bricked in vault in a false wall was found a heavy iron safe. The strongbox was broken open and found to contain objets d'art, jewelry and czarist gold coins and other treasure valued at $1,000,000. There were gem encrusted snuff boxes, platinum cigaret cases, valuable paintings, costly statuary, ivory carvings, all sorts of costly baubles of a fabulous value.

The bolshevik authorities investigated and discovered that the collection of valuables had been walled into the basement walls in the strong box by the czar's personal tailor, a thrifty individual, who accepted as payment from his aristocratic and titled clients, jewelry and art objects in payment for long overdue bills for dress suits, overcoats, morning coats and other fine raiment.

With the ruble depreciating the princes, grand dukes, counts and barons were unable to scrape together enough cash to settle for their sartorial requirement, but could always rip a picture off the wall, or tuck a statuary under their great coats or snitch their wife's powder box [formerly snuff receptacle] and take that around to Mr. Tailor as part payment.

The tailor gathered an enormous quantity of these valuables, but when things began to get hot for people associated with the imperial régime, even tailors and barbers, this tailor cached the riches and fled.

BRITISH ENVOY GASPS.

Recently a great social function was held at the Spiridonovka mansion. Guests came in white collars and boiled shirts, clawhammer coats and patent leather shoes. The women wore low necked dresses with flowing skirts, white elbow length gloves, and real silk stockings.

After a musical program, an elaborate buffet supper was served. Huge ice urns well filled with fresh caviar, giant sturgeons in cream sauce, roasted, glaced stuffed pheasants, 17 kinds of salad, milk white bread, mounds of butter, fancy frosted cakes, and colossal ice cream, moulded to represent tractors, were served.

There was liquor, too, glistening, frost covered carafes of vodka, slivka, red wine from the Caucasus, mellow white wine from the Crimea, stout brown cognac and rare old port, pale malaga and muscatel, and even whisky.

Jollity reigned around the festive board as the immaculately dressed gentlemen passed stuffed eggs and Waldorf salad, and sliced fresh cucumbers on crisp lettuce, and delicate petits fours and sherbet to their handsomely gowned companions.

Toasts were drunk with bottoms up in the good old fashioned Russian way, although they did not hurl the emptied glasses behind them to crash against the wall, because that is a relic of the imperialist days.

Spies Coat of Arms.

Suddenly in the midst of the merriment, the hand of the British ambassador, Sir Esmond Ovey, froze to stillness, as it carried a bit of caviar, reposing neatly on a morsel of bread, to his mouth. He stared and shuddered. Then he closely scrutinized the fork which he held.

Some, who had noticed the gesture, did likewise, examined their forks, and spoons, too, and knives. There, stamped on the back of the handles of the silver cutlery were the British coat of arms, the lion and unicorn rampant over the motto, "Honi soit qui mal y pense."

TWO AIRPLANES SPEED TO ARCTIC; HUNT EXPLORER

Mystery Radio Message May Be Clew.

MALMO, Sweden, April 29.—(AP)—Two airplanes headed into the north today to look for Augustine Courtauld, lost somewhere on the Greenland ice cap and unable to effect a junction with the rest of the British expedition sent out last year to survey an Anglo-Canadian air route.

Capt. Albin Ahrenberg, Swedish flyer, took off from here, and another plane left Iceland aboard the inspection ship Odin to fly from the edge of the ice barrier to Tasiosk and to Angmagsalik, looking for Courtauld on the way.

This morning a radio message, apparently from Courtauld, reported that his food supplies were exhausted, but the authorities were unable to account for the message, since they could not understand how he could have sent it unless he had established contact with another British expedition which so far has not been able to find him.

Augustine Courtauld was one of fifteen young scientists and explorers who sailed from London on July 6, 1930, in Sir Ernest Shackleton's famous flagship Quest, to determine the feasibility of an air route across the Arctic from England to Canada. The expedition was under the auspices of the Royal Geographical society and was led by H. G. Watkins, 23 year old explorer.

In addition to the party, the quest carried a crew of ten, two airplanes, two outboard motor boats, sledges, meteorological instruments, more than a year's supply of food, and building material for the expedition's winter huts.

Stopping at the Faroe islands to pick up about 50 dogs, the expedition reached Angmagsalik, Greenland, on Aug. 14 and established a permanent site at Sermelik fjord, 35 miles inland. Later, a small party scaled the Greenland ice cap and set up a meterological station about 140 miles inland, leaving two men in charge.

Courtauld Becomes Lost.

Subsequently, Courtauld volunteered to spend the winter alone at the central station and was due to be relieved this month. Watkins led a small group to his succor in March but was unable to locate the spot on account of the changing terrain and was forced to turn back to the main camp.

Courtauld is the son of Samuel A. Courtauld, wealthy director of the British silk firm of that name. He is a graduate of Cambridge and participated in two other Greenland expeditions. He is engaged to Miss Mollie Montgomery of London.

SENATE GRANTS COOK CO. RIGHT TO ISSUE BONDS TO AID POOR

Springfield, Ill., April 29.—[Special.]—Power is granted the county board of Cook county to issue $2,000,000 of bonds, without referendum, for relief of the poor, in the Donohue bill, which passed the senate tonight by a vote of 40 to 2.

The measure has already passed the house. It would be ready for presentation to the governor, but due to a conflict of opinion as to whether it would raise tax rates, Senator Arthur A. Huebsch [Rep., Brookfield], filed notice that he would move to reconsider the vote next Tuesday. Meanwhile specific word is to be sought from the Cook county board as to whether the tax rate is to be affected.

The senate passed a string of appropriation bills which have already passed the house as follows:

For an University of Illinois experimental station in Cook county, $3,000; attorney general's office, two years, $854,000; to reimburse county fairs, $11,243; superintendent of public instruction's office, for biennium, $239,020; department of mines and minerals, two years, $369,390; department of labor, two years, $1,742,770.

INDUSTRIES FOR PRISON INMATES VOTED IN SENATE

Springfield, Ill., April 29.—[Special.]—Prison industries for inmates of the Illinois penal institutions are provided in two bills by Senator Richard J. Barr [Rep., Joliet], which were passed by the senate today, 34 to 0. The measures, which now go to the house, are the product of a joint committee which investigated the use of prison labor at Sing Sing, N. Y.; the Charleston state prison, near Boston, and the Lawton reformatory, near Washington, D. C. In the debate the bills were said to have approval of officials of the American Federation of Labor and the Illinois federation.

One bill provides that supplies for the state and its political subdivisions and the institutions of both must be purchased from prison made products. The second bill provides for a superintendent of prison industry at each penal and reformatory institution and two at Joliet at salaries of $3,600 a year.

TEN LIVES SAVED IN PLANE SMASH BY PILOT'S SKILL

Forced Down in Barnyard as Motors Fail.

Elyria, O., April 29.—[Special.]—Eight passengers aboard a National Air Transport plane bound from Chicago to Cleveland escaped serious injury this evening through the skill of Sam Taylor, veteran air line pilot, who brought his Ford tri-motored transport ship down into a farm yard near here after two motors failed while the ship was in flight.

Taylor and his co-pilot, Allen McDiarmid, both of Cleveland, were in the Memorial hospital here tonight, seriously injured. Taylor has a possible skull fracture and a broken ankle, while his mate is suffering from internal injuries. Both will recover, however, physicians state. Harry Fisher of Cleveland and William Weber and P. E. Gadebusch of New York, passengers, were released from the hospital after treatment from minor injuries.

Gorilla Jones, Akron Negro welterweight boxer, and Suey Welsh, his manager, were aboard, but escaped injury. Others unhurt were Miss Zola Taylor of New York and Lynn Jordon and Raymond Bjorkbohm, both of Cleveland.

How Pilot Saved Ship.

The plane left Chicago at noon on its regular trip to New York and was due to arrive in Cleveland at 2 o'clock. As the plane approached Elyria first the right engine then the center motor cut out. The cause had not been determined tonight.

Witnesses said Taylor made a sharp turn to head the ship into the wind. As it descended the undercarriage scraped through a tree and over the roof of a barn. Although the ship's power was gone, Taylor was able to land it upright. The nose motor and landing gear were torn away and a wing damaged as the plane dropped into a farmer's yard. It did not burn, for Taylor had cut his switch on landing.

Passengers praised Taylor also for his coolness in handling the situation among them when the motors first started to fail. He made sure all were seated and told them to fasten their safety belts before he nosed down for a landing.

Raymond Bjorkolm of Cleveland, another N. A. T. pilot, riding as a passenger on the plane, pulled the mail from the ship and stayed on the scene attending the injured passengers and helping the pilots from the forward cockpit despite the fact that he was cut and bruised.

Pilot's Second Air Rescue.

Today's accident was Pilot Taylor's second triumph over a plane whose motors stopped while in flight. In 1919 while flying over the heart of Cleveland with 13 passengers aboard a tri-motored transport, all three motors failed. He landed the ship in the barnyard of a Cleveland home without injury to his passengers or damage to his ship.

He is also remembered as the pilot who brought a load of passengers safely to the ground after a narrow escape from collision with a plane flown by Col. Lindbergh during a stunting exhibition by the trans-Atlantic flyer at the Cleveland national air races.

Crowd Sees Pilot Killed.

Lynchburg, Va., April 29.—(AP)—Clarence M. Ellicock, 25 years old aviator of Marysville, Mich., fell to his death here today in the view of a large crowd gathered to greet the second Virginia state air tour and witness dedication of the municipally owned airport.

Girl Killed in Plane Crash.

Bartlesville, Okla., April 29.—(AP)—Miss Ruth Beaven, 21, was killed today when an airplane piloted by George M. Conover, an unlicensed aviator, crashed at the Phillips airport, near here. Conover was slightly hurt.

Plane Catches Fire; Two Die.

BRANDON, Man., April 29.—(AP)—An airplane caught fire above the airport here tonight, the gasoline tank exploded, and two men lost their lives in the crash. The men were William Clark, 21, owner of the plane, and William Britten, 27, pilot, of Wawanesa, Man.

DRAFT TWO BILLS TO RELIEVE FINANCIAL CRISIS IN ILLINOIS

Springfield, Ill., April 29.—[Special.]—Two bills to relieve the financial crisis in Illinois were approved by a joint committee late today. The committee, headed by Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg [Rep., Chicago], voted to submit to the as-

1. A bill to create a commission of nine to examine the condition of every to examine the condition of every county in the state; would be allowed a $25,000 appropriation and report its findings to the legislature in 1933.

2. A bill to transfer idle funds from other accounts to those which threaten to "touch bottom," as a means of evading tax anticipation warrants.

The committee first voted a 3 per cent tax on the net profits of corporations to provide additional revenue, but finally postponed action one week.

THE CENTER AND THE CIRCUMFERENCE.

The railroads entering Chicago are offering special rates for the Jubilee celebration and expect to bring visitors by the thousands and tens of thousands to see what Chicago has to show. The attendance from outside the city, of course, will be swelled by the thousands who come in their own automobiles and by bus.

Chicago will have a warm welcome for them. Chicago is not unmindful of the fact that it owes a heavy debt to the farms and cities of the central states. At the same time it is to be hoped that the visitors will be made more keenly aware of their debt to Chicago. Here is the second city of the United States, with a population of upwards of five millions within easy commuting distance. Without those five millions to buy what the farmers have to sell there would be no market for the crops grown on hundreds of thousands of acres of farm land in the central states. Prosperous dairy farms in Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana, Iowa, and Michigan would disappear and with them would disappear the demand for much of the feedstuffs produced. Without the Chicago market for meat, many farmers within an even wider radius would be forced into bankruptcy. Without the Chicago market for the manufactures of the smaller cities of the central states their trade would suffer severely. Without Chicago's commercial establishments offering economical distribution to dealers and individuals throughout the country the cost of living would be appreciably higher.

Chicago could not exist for long independent of its hinterland, but it is no less true that the standard of living in the hinterland rises and falls along with that of the city. What is true of the standard of material welfare is true to an even greater extent in education and the arts. Chicago trained doctors, lawyers, musicians, teachers, architects are to be found in every community in the country. If Chicago is indebted to the country for many of its most distinguished men and women, the debt is more than balanced by the training which the leaders of the smaller communities received in the city.

It is often said that the first step in an economic restoration must be the restoration of prosperity on the farms. The same result may be obtained by restoring the buying power of the cities, and of the two the second method is likely to work more rapidly. The economic mechanism of the country is on a dead-center. If the result of the Jubilee is to increase economic activity in Chicago the benefits will be promptly reflected in increased demand for the goods produced elsewhere.

THE SENATORIAL LIE FACTORY.

In the guise of an investigation to inform the United States senate upon the subject of postal rates and leases we have had in Chicago a typical case of the scandal-mongering which a group of senators have been indulging in for some months. The profit to the senators engaged in these enterprises is publicity and the reputation, among the unthinking, of zeal for the public good. The profit to the public so far as the correction of actual wrongs has been nil, but the injury done, both to individuals and to public opinion, is considerable.

Obviously the senator representing the subcommittee and committee of investigation came primed to present a case of public wrong, not fairly to investigate or disclose facts. The impression sought to be given the public is that a great corporation sold the government land at an exorbitant price. To support this theory a government appraiser is called to give his opinion on the value of the land sold. The site was sold at the peak level of real estate. It was purchased at a lower price than was asked by owners of neighboring property offered in competition for the postoffice site. Not a word of evidence was offered to show that the transaction was tainted by any improper influence or was carried on in any other manner than that of any other legitimate business transaction. But an opportunity was given to a business rival to broadcast unsupported and irresponsible innuendoes of improper influence under cover of a witness' immunity.

There is no transaction with the government that cannot be subjected to slanderous innuendo and unjust criticism as this one has been. The circumstances which brought about the lowering of property values in the district involved are not known and will not be considered by the public as presented by the so-called investigation. That all real estate values have descended was not discussed. Neither was the fact that the Field company gave up their project to build in that district and built elsewhere. Yet this change of plan was an obvious setback to the ambitious development of the district and resulted in the lowering of property values.

The animus of the senator in charge of this proceeding was plain. As in repeated alleged investigations by recent senatorial inquiries, the object was not investigation at all, but the creation of scandal. A false impression was given and, we believe, was intended. It was in effect a lie, to be spread broadcast, and such lies are never caught up with by any subsequent correction and fair consideration.

The wrong done to individuals held up to unjust condemnation is deplorable enough, but there is an even more serious evil in the deliberate creation of a general belief that private business and private ownership are essentially corrupt, without scruple or regard for public interest. Where a transaction with the government is improper the facts should be exposed and the guilty punished. But dissemination of half truths which are worse than lies and deliberate processes of distortion are a serious public mischief.

RAILROAD PROGRESS.

The Grand Trunk announces that an hour and a quarter will be taken off the running time of its fast train, the International Limited, between Chicago and Montreal, making the time 19 hours and 40 minutes on the east run and 17 hours and 55 minutes on the west. This is better than the New York-Chicago run of the trains de luxe. The St. Paul announces a reduction of 30 minutes in the Chicago-St. Paul-Minneapolis time of the Day Express and Pioneer Limited.

The news is welcome and there should be more of it. Railroad time is not up to modern standards in the United States. It must be brought up. Making all due allowance for the difficulties, both financial and administrative, which have discouraged railroad initiative and retarded progress, there is much a resourceful and determined policy can accomplish for improvements in railway service. We think there has been too much of a disposition in railroad minds to assume that the repressive conditions and injustices which have been a part of the system of government regulation are unconquerable and too much of a disposition to think in terms of the past. The public, already better disposed toward the railroads than in the past generation, will appreciate aggressive efforts to improve service and support the railroads' just demands for a more constructive policy in government regulation if it is impressed with the desire of railroad management to improve facilities and increase the scope of service.

Railroad protests against improper and costly restrictions and demands for greater revenue have been and are largely justified, but they will be more impressive upon public opinion if accompanied by energetic and resourceful efforts to overcome difficulties and drive ahead in spite of them.

Although other agents of transportation have sprung up in the past thirty years and have reduced railroad revenue while raising the standards of service, the railroad remains the backbone of American transportation and it is of first importance to the country that it shall be maintained and encouraged to develop its highest efficiency. But unfavorable conditions do not justify laissez faire, but should inspire redoubled effort to overcome them. This effort will be met half way by public opinion.

The railroads grew up during a period in which they came to have a virtual monopoly of transportation, and monopoly does not breed resourcefulness. Railroad management suffers to some extent from habits, viewpoints, and policies which are not profitable in the highly competitive situation in which they now find themselves. They are now selling a commodity under more competitive conditions and must adopt the tactics of other merchants.

THE JUBILEE MARSHAL.

It will interest Chicagoans to know something of the man who will be marshal of the Jubilee, Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, now in command of the Sixth corps area. The policy of the American high command in the late war did not permit much knowledge of the personality and achievements of soldiers to reach the public, and in consequence fewer military reputations emerged from that conflict than from any previous war in our history. The gallantry and soldierly conduct of thousands compare with that of any soldiers of our past; but they are known only to their comrades and are recorded only in the dry records of the war office.

Of these soldiers Gen. Parker is not the least. As a combat officer Gen. Parker was in the thick of the actual fighting in France. As colonel, brigadier, and then division commander of the First division he was one of the inspiring leaders of our men who shared their dangers in battle and gave them the moral support of his presence, as a good many other general officers failed to do. In past wars our armies saw their commanders constantly at the front and the death roll of generals up to the highest rank was heavy. It was not so in the A. E. F. After the Japanese-Russian war there seemed to grow up a theory that commanders were too precious to be risked at the front or their duties too complicated to permit their participation in actual fighting. The theory is not sound, for morale, even in the vast organizations of today, is as vital a factor as it ever was, and the bodily presence of high officers is and always will be an inspiration to 'fighting men. Gen. Parker was one of the officers who held to the old tradition, and his men met him in the trenches and under fire, a fighting leader whose advance in rank did not promote him out of sight of his men.

BACK TO THE FARM.
[The New York Sun.]

In the Breeder's Gazette for April J. M. Dowell says that "never has there been such a scramble for farms as during the last few months." Mr. Dowell finds that the seekers wish to operate rather than to buy: "In all desirable midwest farming districts we have not less than five tenants available for every good farm that has needed a better tenant."

Among the applicants for acreage are owners of adjoining farms who have learned that "volume of business is imperative." Mr. Dowell points out that a farmer making $5 an acre on a farm of eighty acres cannot make progress; the same income to the acre on a half section—320 acres—means better than comfort. The farm management department of the University of Illinois has fixed on $3,000 gross annual income as the minimum any farm must have "to get along satisfactorily." This income cannot be expected from land forced to produce crops for which it is not suitable.

Industrial layoffs have sent thousands of men from cities to the rural districts. Farm laborers' wages are down. Agricultural schools have taught a good many men the true way to farming success. If the present movement increases the proportion of tenant farmers, nobody need worry. Some of them will become proprietors.

THE SPLEEN AND ITS JOB.

THE spleen is a blood gland. Its structure and its relation to the blood vessels show it to have about the same relation to the blood that a lymph gland has to the lymph vessels and the lymph. The latter fluid is derived from the blood. It flows among the body cells nourishing them and washing waste from them. This work finished, it flows into lymph channels and then into lymph glands, through which it filters. This cleansing having been finished, the lymph flows into the blood stream and is again distributed to the tissues. The bacteria or poisons filtered out by the lymph glands may cause them to swell, become inflamed, and sometimes to form abscesses.

The blood, after circulating in the capillaries, is gathered up by veins. Eventually it finds its way to the great filter called the spleen. In this organ the blood flows from small vessels into wide lakes. In these lakes the current is sluggish. The islands of spleen cells in this lake have an opportunity to purify the blood.

This column has carried thousands of words by way of advice to people not to buy and take blood purifiers. One reason for this advice is that in the spleen every man has a better purifier than was ever sold in a bottle. While it is but one of a battery of blood purifiers, the kidneys and liver being in the same class, so far as certain kinds of purifying goes, the spleen is the best of the lot, by far.

It is one of the ductless glands in the sense that it works directly on the blood and needs no pipes. And it is much the largest of those ductless glands that have no other work to do. The liver is larger but it has bile to secrete. Proper comparisons are between the spleen, and the thyroid, the pituitary, the adrenals, and the parathyroids. It is far larger than any of these. It is located on the left side of the body in the upper abdomen in a position corresponding to that of the liver. It lies just below the diaphragm and just above the kidney, and we recall that the same or corresponding organs bound the liver.

Because it is much smaller than the liver and is tucked well up under the ribs it cannot be located by the touch or by sensation so long as it remains normal in size and location.

We think of it as a blood filter, and such it is, but doubtless there are many aspects of its work and details about its activities about which we do not know. It is not easy to take the clock to pieces and then build it back when the machine under study is the blood stream and those glands that act directly on it and nothing else.

REDUCING EXERCISE.

D. V. M. writes: Please answer whether any bending or twisting exercises to reduce the hips and waist are harmful to the kidneys. I have been doing these exercises for the last 2 weeks and have a pain in my back where, I assume, my kidneys are. A few years ago I had a slight case of kidney trouble which has not bothered me since. These exercises never bothered me 2 years ago when I was doing them to reduce.

REPLY.

The answer to your question is, No.

There is much to the back region besides kidneys. Of all the inhabitants of that region the kidneys are least complaining. They scarcely know how to feel pain. But your back muscle and the joints in your backbone are different; they have a voice, and they like to yell. My guess is you will find these structures the seat of your pain.

HOW LONG TO DIE!

E. P. W. writes:

A. says that a person is never an hour, or several hours, dying; that if a person appears to be in a dying condition in reality he is having a crisis. If he dies people say he was dying all the while, but the fact is that he really had a crisis and was only a minute or two dying.

B. says that a person can be hours dying.

REPLY.

I would say B. is correct, though in the main the argument is merely one of the meaning of words.

REMOVAL OF TREE.

Chicago, April 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A dead tree is a danger to the passerby and occupies the parkway in front of our home. This has been reported to the department of forestry. They advised me to cut it down myself. Today a large branch fell down and might have hurt some one badly. Please advise what to do. P. A.

If the tree is in such a location that the city forester will not remove it and you wish to have it removed then apparently you will have to do the work yourself or hire some one to do it.

BUILDINGS TO BE WRECKED.

Chicago, April 20.—[Friend of the People.]—The shed in the rear of the vacant building on Congress, west of Douglas Park "L," has caved in. Children who play on it may be hurt, should the roof cave in again, and my suggestion is that it be demolished. There is also another dangerous structure one and a half blocks from the Douglas Park "L," west, near Taylor street. It appears ready to fall down. H. C. K.

An inspection was made at the rear of 1715 West Congress street and the owner notified to take down dangerous shed. Shed has been taken down. An inspection was also made of premises at 1003 South Wood street, and owner has been notified to wreck one story brick building on rear of lot and to board up all doors and windows on the three story building on front of lot.

Acting Commissioner of Buildings.

DIVORCE.

Chicago, April 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I was married in 1924 and my husband left me in the same year. I have not seen or heard from him since. 1. Do I have to get a divorce? 2. Can I get married again? 3. Does the state of Illinois claim he is dead after so many years? E. N. L.

1. Yes.
2. No.
3. We advise against contracting in reliance on a mere presumption of death, since such presumption is subject to being rebutted. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. W. M.

FOR TOMORROW YOU MOVE!

Fatal day tomorrow: First of May. Moving day. Everybody hates it, but everybody moves. Why, no one knows. There'll be just as many saxophone players practicing across the alley as there were at the old place. There'll be just as many radios turned on full force at 1 o'clock in the morning; just as many milkmen trying to get your trade; just as many salesladies selling silver polish; just as many people knocking on the back door begging the loan of a dime or a fat ham sandwich.

Go ahead and move, but your pet Wall street stocks will still hunt new lows and bond salesmen will still haunt the front hall. Move to a nice, brand new home and you will still have shivers when you go into the hall at night for fear bandits are lurking there ready to stick guns in your stomach and grab all your jewelry and loose change. And quite likely, too, quite likely. But go on and move; nothing can stop you. It's the first of May tomorrow and everybody just has to move.

But, no matter where you move, the next door neighbor will send over to borrow a quart of gin because her bootlegger is in jail and she's got people coming to dinner. Go on and move, but you can't get away from the fact that prosperity is still hiding around that corner. Move, dearie, but you can't move where the collector for last year's model that you bought on the installment plan won't find you—the human bloodhound. Move all you will, but you'll never get away from the income tax. No, nor from the proud papa who wants to tell you what dear little Archibald said yesterday, and he's only three years old. Move and the family next door will have a police dog that just hates strangers, and the family on the other side will have a daughter that's studying for grand opera and thinks she has Mary Garden beaten to a pulp right now. Move, move to a brand new home, and how many of your country relatives coming up to Chicago for Jubilee week will fail to find you? Not one.

But, anyhow, you'll move tomorrow, and so will most everybody else. It's a primal urge, or a habit, or something. Anyhow, we'll all be very pleased after we've moved. For several weeks after. And then the same old troubles that we had in the place we moved out of will pop up thick as thieves. But it will be all right in a year. For then we'll move again.

MORTE.

Dear little bundle of joy whose joy is extinguished forever,
Little soft broken paws that will rush and scamper no more,
Would I had stayed my hand when I heard your bark at the threshold,
Would I had known what fiend was near as I opened the door!
Out of the quiet day, in the morning light, in the sunshine,
A roar—a screech, and the words, "Drive on; it's only a pup;"
I heard through my blinding tears the other shouting his answer,
"That's it, the poor little devil—I see them scooping him up."

Only a puppy killed—and what does a puppy matter?
Luncheon to get at noon—and which hotel is the best?
Drive on, drive on, drive on! and little you care in your going
What you have left behind you with the heart crushed out of its breast.
Ah, little faithful heart, so still, so still on the highway,
Never to leap again however the sun shines bright,
Little they care; but we, who have loved you and warmed you and fed you—
How shall we make your bed in the cold hard ground tonight?

DOROTHY KISSLING.

THE WICKERSHAM committee keeps on reporting. Day after day it reports some more. Nobody reads the reports any more, but it doesn't make a bit of difference; the Wickersham committee reports and reports and reports. Oh, well, it doesn't hurt anybody and it makes them happy, so who cares!

OUR GOOD MR. STIMSON, the w. k. secretary of state, radioed birthday greetings to the emperor of Japan, in which he said the customary many happy returns, etc., etc., and also remarked that the great wide Pacific ocean no longer separates our two countries, for now it unites them. And all the air men who are trying to figure out how they're ever going to fly across the Pacific will give three ringing cheers and their old college yell, "BALONEY"!

AND THINGS are mighty dull, too, with the cinema kings and queens of Hollywood. All that they can dig up in the way of news is that Peggy Joyce has consented to call on the U. S. custom authorities in regard to some dresses and gems that she brought into the country in 1922 and on which the custom people say she neglected to pay duty. Tut, tut, tut! A movie sensation and no murder or divorce or anything. And dating back to 1922. News is, indeed, scarce.

THE TRUSTEES of the Chicago Symphony orchestra have decided to shift their customary Saturday evening concerts to Thursday evening. There's so many of us in Chicago so used to jumping into the old tub on Saturday night that dinged if we'd give it up even to go to the symphony concert.

LAGNIAPPE.

THE THERMOMETER and U. S. Steel continue downward. The weather man, speaking in regard to the thermometer, said there would probably be frost last night. A man on the street, speaking in regard to U. S. Steel, said—no, they would shut us off the radio for one-twentieth part of what he said. R. H. L.

MAYBE IT ISN'T THE NUMBER OF CLUBS BUT THE WAY YOU SWING 'EM THAT COUNTS

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 30, 1915.

LONDON.—Final operations against the Dardanelles to open up a way to Constantinople have begun. The allies have succeeded in securing a firm foothold on the Gallipoli peninsula and on the Asiatic side of the Dardanelles. A Mytilene correspondent says: "The bombardment in the Dardanelles continues vigorously, the allied ships having reached Vrysey, in front of the Chenek forts, eight miles up the strait. It is reported that the allies have occupied the town of Maitos as well as the town of Gallipoli." An Athens correspondent says: "I learn from Tenedos that the allies occupied the town of Gallipoli after heavy fighting. Allied forces disembarked at Enos, advanced twenty miles, and occupied several villages."

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The German government, through its ambassador, Count von Bernstorff, is about to launch a new campaign to discourage American intercourse with Great Britain and France. The German embassy will notify American people that it is unsafe for them to take passage on British and French ships which pass through the war zone. This will be done through advertisements in the newspapers.

CHICAGO.—Brig. Gen. Julian Hasler, a brother of Edward L. Hasler of Lake Forest, was killed in action near Ypres, according to a cable message received here.

APRIL 30, 1901.

CHICAGO.—Mayor Harrison appointed his new cabinet members and they were all confirmed by the city council without opposition. They follow: Superintendent of police, Francis O'Neill; controller, Lawrence E. McGann; commissioner of public works, F. W. Blockl; corporation counsel, Charles M. Walker; health commissioner, A. A. Reynolds; building commissioner, Peter Kiolbassa; city sealer, James A. Quinn; city electrician, Edward B. Ellicott; private secretary, Edward M. Lahiff; city collector, Frank X. Brandecker; and oil inspector, Robert E. Burke.

PARIS.—The salon of French artists was inaugurated by President Loubet. He was received by M. Henner, president of the academy and the formal ceremony of declaring the salon open was gone through with. American painters make a most creditable showing.

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—The Kentucky Derby was run at Churchill Downs today and was won by His Eminence, carrying the colors of S. D. Van Meter. W. M. Hayes' Sannazarro was second, and Woodford Clay's Driscoll was third. Alard Scheck, the odds on favorite, finished a bad last.

APRIL 30, 1881.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—There is a movement on foot against the Louisiana lottery and Postmaster General James is looking into the use of the mails by lottery companies. Those found to be fraudulent by him will be denied mail privileges.

BERLIN.—The popular movement against the Jews has broken out at Argenau, West Prussia. A mob led by a school teacher wrecked the homes of some Jews and maltreated the inmates.

ELGIN, Ill.—It is now estimated that not more than eight lives were lost by the sinking of a temporary ferry in the swollen Fox river here.

FARGO, N. D.—For weeks teams from the east have been hauling daily loads of immigrants into Fargo, the distributing point and metropolis for the whole northwest. A large majority of the new settlers are farmers who come in parties ranging from 100 to 300, bringing all their stock, implements, and household goods.

CHICAGO.—The Rev. Dr. H. W. Thomas is severely ill with pneumonia. He has been suffering for some time from general debility and three days ago was seized with a chill followed by a high fever, which rapidly developed into pneumonia. Dr. Thomas has been working altogether too hard of late and his system will not stand the demands he has been making on it.

ADVICE TO MR. CERMAK.

Chicago, April 28.—All of us taxpayers are rejoicing in Mr. Cermak's selection as head of our city, and believe that he is most sincere when he states that taxes must come down. On account of the city being in poor financial circumstances he has caused some 3,000 city hall employés to be dismissed. Good work. But when the city has been put on a good financial basis is he going to hire a great army of workers again, or is he going to continue as he is doing now? Now he is making a name for himself as well as for Chicago. We all believe that he will be the greatest mayor we ever had. Every one knows that there has always been too many employés on the city pay rolls. If the city can get along without them now, why put them back when there is money to meet their salaries?

I am sure that if our mayor would appoint a committee to go all over the city hall, a committee whose members are not known to the employés, they will find that many more could be cut off the pay roll, and in a short time the city would be run like any business, and the taxpayers will always boost Mayor Cermak.

One more suggestion to our mayor. In almost every line of business today every one is forced to take a cut in salary. Why not apply this to the city business and force a cut for every one on the city pay roll?

CHARLES DARWIN PIERCE.

PACIFISM IN THE PULPIT.

Chicago, April 25.—In a recent article published in THE TRIBUNE I noticed that a canvass had been made of the Protestant ministers wherein they were asked whether or not they would bear arms in defense of this country under any conditions. The majority of those answering the questionnaire stated that they would refuse to bear arms to defend this country.

I am not an agnostic nor an atheist but a member of the Baptist church, and I firmly believe that any man, whether he be a minister or otherwise, who refuses to defend the United States, his home and family in time of war, or at any time, should be taken out and shot. But, frankly speaking, I do not consider that type of man worth the price of the gunpowder that would blow him to hell.

RICHARD C. DAY.

THE CRIMINAL LAWYER.

Chicago, April 25.—Speak to any lawyer and right away he defends the criminal lawyer, saying that every man accused of crime is entitled to legal defense. He will not see that the problem is all coiled up like a copperhead right in his own back yard. You will never control crime until you control the criminal lawyer. Who can suggest a way to do it? GEORGE W. ROBNETT.

CUTTING WAGES.

Chicago, April 26.—Will some one please inform me of the names of the Chicago business men who were called quite some time ago by President Hoover to discuss economic conditions and tender their promises of no wage reductions? If my memory doesn't fail me, I am sure one of these men thinks nothing of his word and is harboring a guilty conscience. Unless we received a wrong report of the parley, I think President Hoover would do well to investigate, not from these men, but from their employés, whether the promises have been kept.

C. D. B.

MR. HACK WILSON'S PLACE IN THE BATTING ORDER.

Chicago, April 26.—I wonder how much longer Mr. Wrigley and Manager Hornsby are going to allow the fear of a lot of sentimental saps to cause them to keep Hack Wilson in the position he has in the batting order of the Cub ball team. These same sentimentalists are augmented by some of our baseball experts on the various papers. While Hack Wilson drove in some 115 runs last season, how many were driven in in close games?

Hornsby is a real manager, which has been proved at St. Louis and New York without the owners going out and buying a new team for him. I am not of the wolves to howl because Hack may be having a run of tough luck, but I believe in analyzing the situation, and when we leave sentiment out of the question and have the good of the Cubs at heart any one at all familiar with the case knows that it is the fear of the howls that is keeping Hack hitting in fourth position, and when he is finally removed it will be attributed to feeling between Hornsby and Hack. But charge it to whatever you may, it should happen, and the sooner the better we will all feel next October.

WILLIAM WOODWORTH.

MR. HORNSBY'S PRESS.

Chicago, April 28.—Does a home run made by Manager Hornsby count for more than a home run by one of the other members of the team? Judging from the radio announcements of a game and the newspaper description, one would think it did. On the other hand, a bonehead classic by the Rajah goes by almost unheeded, while a little furry work by Woody English gets a three inch space in the paper. Why the favoritism? Does he chew more gum than any of the other boys? DISGUSTED.

STOCK EXCHANGE ETHICS.

Chicago, April 28.—THE TRIBUNE'S editorial, "The Stock Exchange Cleans House," calls attention to the amusing synchronism between Whitney's spasms of virtue and the state of the market. It is only when the professional shorts and big pool operators show up the exchange as the most ingeniously efficient machine ever contrived for stripping the small, bona fide investor of his little bit of carefully saved wealth that Whitney begins to flutter his wings and utter a few admonitory clucks.

All that show of virtue, however, won't fool certain of our progressive congressmen. They know that the unincorporated stock exchanges are nothing but big private clubs, legally irresponsible, whose members are constantly engaged in a polite type of shell game with margin trading as the come-on stuff. "When the devil was sick, the devil a monk would be; when the devil was well, the devil a monk was he." J. B.

UNNECESSARY NOISES.

Chicago, April 28.—Several months ago it was announced in THE TRIBUNE that the health department was starting a campaign against unnecessary noises. So far it has been a silent drive, but here's hoping that pretty soon the health inspectors reach the rooming house districts and mop up on the howling mongrels that infest them. Try and find a room where their howls won't reach you! J. M.

POLAND ON 'WAR BASIS' TO CURB LABOR DAY RIOTS

Train Machine Guns to Check Communists.

BY M. NOWINSKI.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, April 29.—Polish authorities are taking extraordinary precautions throughout the country to prevent communist disturbances on Labor day, May 1. During recent searches, which resulted in arrests of communist leaders in Warsaw, Lodz, Radom, and other cities, the police found documents indicating that the Polish communists have received instructions from Moscow to promote demonstrations and riots.

Plans were made today to put the entire Warsaw police force on a war basis for 24 hours, starting tomorrow at midnight. Two thousand five hundred policemen have been divided into 71 riot squads, which will occupy the important centers in the city. Every policeman will be equipped with a steel helmet, gas and tear bombs, gas mask, rifle, revolver, and bayonet.

Machine Guns to Guard Bridges.

Thirty-five motor trucks will be held ready to transport reserves, if they are needed. Near the Opera house—the proposed meeting place of the Socialistic demonstration, which the communists threaten to smash—two regiments of mounted police will be on guard.

Armored cars carrying machine guns will patrol all bridges connecting Warsaw and the suburbs. The city jails will be surrounded by police and soldiers, while parks will be closed throughout the day. Street cars and busses will suspend operations until late afternoon.

The sale of liquor will be prohibited throughout Poland during the 24 hours of the May day celebration. All factories will close.

France Forbids Parades.

PARIS, April 29.—(AP)—Premier Laval, in his capacity as minister of the interior, instructed the police today that no May day parades or open air meetings will be tolerated. In the city the regular police will be reinforced by the republican guard and elsewhere by the mobile section of the same force. The Paris garrison will be held in barracks ready for service.

Manila Slams On Lid.

MANILA, April 29.—(AP)—Orders to prevent communist May day demonstrations were issued by the constabulary today as a result of increasing signs of Red agitation. Denied a permit to celebrate, Manila communists announced they had been granted permission by authorities at Caloocan, a suburb, for a gathering there. The constabulary and the executive bureau later ruled that the permit, if granted, was void on the ground that it violated insular laws.

KID WEIL GAINS RELEASE AFTER POLICE SHOWUP

Joseph [Yellow Kid] Weil and Fred Buckminster, confidence men who were arrested as they sat in an automobile in front of 904 Argyle street on Tuesday, were viewed at the police showup last night by several victims of swindlers. None identified the pair and they were released on bonds after they had been charged with disorderly conduct.

With them when they were arrested was Thomas Taylor, 27 years old, who was at first believed by the police to be a prospective victim. At the detective bureau, however, he was recognized as Thomas Jennings, whom the police have been seeking for more than a month as a stickup man. Weil declared that he did not know of Jennings' record.

"If I had I would have run from him like smallpox," the Yellow Kid added. "I am on the straight and narrow path now and forever."

Want to Look Young?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young. To do this you must watch your liver and bowels. There's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you 90 per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c, 60c.

OPEN COURT WAR ON SELLING OF DOCTOREDBUTTER

Lake County Farmers Accuse Twenty.

Lake county farmers yesterday started legal action against store keepers and wholesalers whom they accuse of selling adulterated butter in violation of the state law.

Twenty informations were filed in Lake County court at Waukegan by State's Attorney A. V. Smith naming store managers throughout the county, the Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, the Consumers company, the National Tea company, the Chain of Lakes Packing company, and presidents of two wholesale produce companies, all of whom are charged with selling imitation butter.

Milk Association Complains.

State's Attorney Smith said his action was started at the request of the Lake County Pure Milk association and the Prairie Farmer, agricultural journal with offices in Chicago.

Charles Wray, president of the Dairy association, stated that a survey was made recently disclosing widespread sale of colored oleomargarine under the guise of butter and that the store keepers were warned through newspaper notices that legal action would follow unless the practice was discontinued.

Make "Buys" Over County.

When the warning was not heeded, he said, a group of ten farmers headed by himself and Floyd Keepers of the Prairie Farmer made "buys" throughout the county which Wray declared provided the basis for yesterday's action.

Others named in the informations, which are returnable in the June term of the Lake County court, are John F. Jelke Jr., head of the John F. Jelke company; George Rasmussen, head of the National Tea company, and managers of chain stores in North Chicago, Highland Park, Lake Bluff, Fox Lake, Antioch, Waukegan, Wauconda, Grays Lake, Libertyville and Lake Forest.

I. C. C. Opens Hearings on Pennsylvania Elevation

The Illinois commerce commission yesterday opened hearings on the petition of the Pennsylvania railroad for authority to elevate its Englewood cutoff. The project, to cost $3,285,000, the expense to be borne by the railroad, will result in the elevation of two tracks running from Oakley to Stewart avenue between 58th and 59th streets. The improvement will necessitate the construction of 32 subways, according to engineers. The tracks are now at grade.

SAM THOMPSON LEAVES TO JOIN U. S. FARM BOARD

No pet projects or guaranteed antidotes for the present ailments of American agriculture were in the brief case of Sam H. Thompson as he left Chicago yesterday for Washington, D. C., to become Alexander Legge's successor as a member of the federal farm board. He had just turned over to Edward A. O'Neal the president's gavel for direction of the American Farm Bureau federation.

Instead, Mr. Thompson announced, that after five and one half years as president of the farmers' organization in which he had enjoyed the cooperation of the nation's agricultural leaders, he was going to the farm board's offices with an open mind as to policies.

"I want to see happier farm life and more contented farm homes of the kind that may be obtained with a more permanent basis for American agriculture," Mr. Thompson declared. "With those results we also will have a more stabilized nation."

The ceremony in which Mr. O'Neal was formally given the presidency of the Farm Bureau federation was performed via radio. The new Farm Bureau federation leader is the operator of a 2,600 acre plantation near Florence, Ala. He stated yesterday, however, that he would move to Chicago to make his home here and be in close touch with the organization's central offices here.

Among the policies which he is advocating is that of "making the farmer's dollar worth par instead of the 66 cents in value by which it is rated with the bureau of economics of the United States department of agriculture."

Mr. O'Neal also declared he intended to promote coöperative marketing, to encourage government help in the control of surplus agricultural products, to help develop a practical national tax program, and to engage in studies of such problems as rural credits, inland waterway development, farm to market road extension, and Muscle Shoals for the farmer.

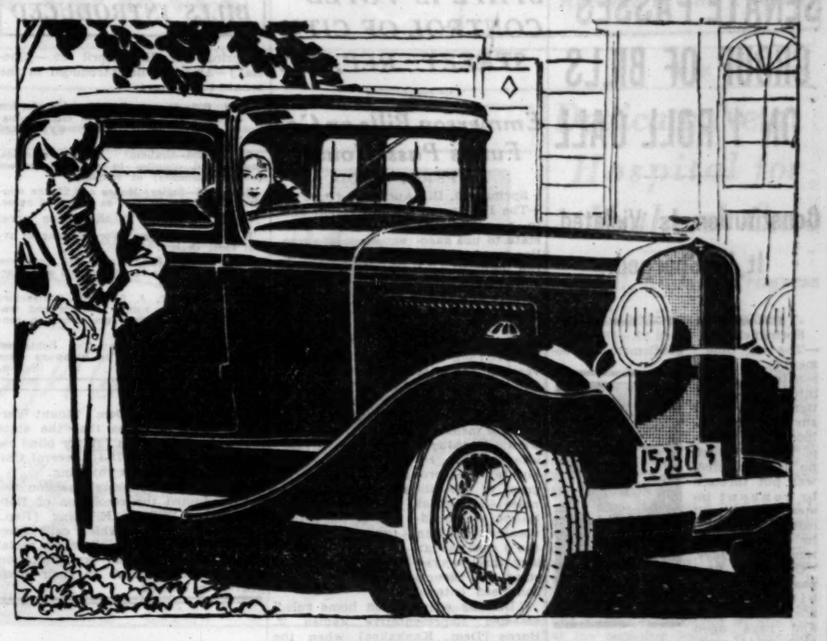
The MILWAUKEE ROAD
ELECTRIFIED OVER THE ROCKIES TO THE SEA



The new PONTIAC is a car of unusual grace and beauty . . . economical . . . powerful . . . selling at only $756* DELIVERED EQUIPPED

Owners of Pontiac are people who know from experience how to judge performance and quality. Theirs is no blind choice. They select Pontiac because it enables them to enjoy fine-car advantages at moderate cost. You'll like these fine-car features:

NEW 60-HORSEPOWER MOTOR—An engine far above old ideas of quality performance possible at this price. Smooth, flexible, dependable—and decidedly economical despite its power.

FISHER BODY CRAFTSMANSHIP—That inimitable beauty of design and styling which contributes so much to motoring pleasure—particularly when you have guests. Upholstery is fine, durable whipcord or mohair. Cushions are form-fitting. There is plenty of room for the comfort of all in the car.

RUBBER-CUSHIONED CHASSIS—A distinctly fine-car feature greatly adding to riding ease. Road shocks are absorbed by rubber insulation at more than 40 chassis points. Rubber-cushioned shackles, an important part of this insulation system, not only promote comfort and stability on the road, but eliminate lubrication at 12 points.

INSULATED CONSTRUCTION—A notable advance in snugness of body structure and insulation which shuts out heat, cold, dampness and excessive noise. Building the cowl and windshield pillars as a single piece prevents leaks and rattles.

LARGE, POSITIVE BRAKES—Brakes that evenly grip all wheels with a stopping power that gives every member of the family new confidence in driving.

If the new Pontiac is anywhere near the motor car price you have in mind, test its actual value for yourself. A demonstration will be arranged at your convenience.

SENATE PASSES GROUP OF BILLS ON 1 ROLL CALL

Constitution Is Violated, It Is Charged.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 29.—[Special.]—The old time "gentlemen's agreement" in the senate ran smack into the constitution today and survived the collision. A group of bills, to which no one objected, was put through by consent instead of by roll call, as prescribed by the constitution, which says, "On the final passage of all bills the vote shall be by yeas and nays upon each bill separately."

Eight of the child welfare bills furnished the demonstration. Over some of them controversy arose and a roll call was taken, but on the remainder the collective process was used. No roll call was taken on these, but instead the clerk was instructed to "mark up the same roll call as on the last bill."

Some senators afterwards objected that the proceeding was unconstitutional, but the protests were laughed off with the old one, "O, well, what's the constitution between friends?"

Record to Show Votes.

The record will show a roll call on each of the bills, and in attacking the validity of a law the courts are not able to go behind the record. Senators who trotted out this argument were met with the objection that in essence the records are openly juggled by "the gentlemen's agreement," the prestidigitators pulling out of the hat a roll call that never happened and placing it in the official chronicle.

The custom, it was explained, goes back some years, when a batch of more than 100 revenue bills for Chicago was before the assembly and the collective vote was devised.

The senate likewise advanced to third reading the bill to wipe party circles off the ballots, both Republicans and Democrats denying that they would profit by the measure in the vote crop in 1932.

Pass "Gateway" Resolution.

On the matter of submitting a constitutional amendment next year the senate appears ready to send over a line of three samples to the house and let it do the picking. Today it adopted the Ward joint resolution for a "gateway" amendment allowing three articles to be amended at one time.

Last week it adopted a resolution for a constitutional convention. Tonight Senator Harold C. Kessinger [Rep., Aurora] put in a third proposal. He wants a change that would permit the adoption of a constitutional amendment by less than a majority of all votes cast at the election, as now required. His measure will provide that an amendment shall be adopted if it has a majority of the electors voting on it and if the total vote on the proposition is not less than 60 or 75 per cent of all votes cast at the election.

Auto Driver License Bill Fails in Senate by 3 Votes

Springfield, Ill., April 29.—[Special.]—The auto driver's license bill lost in the senate late this afternoon, the vote being 23-18, or three votes short of a passage majority.

Senator Roy C. Woods [Rep., Chicago] voted for the bill, but later changed his vote, transferring to the prevailing side in order to move that the roll call be reconsidered next Wednesday.

The bill, which had the support of several motorist associations, provided for the licensing and regulation of drivers and chauffeurs of motor vehicles.

Aldermen at Springfield to Talk Four Year Terms

Springfield, Ill., April 29.—[Special.]—A group of Chicago aldermen, including John A. Massen, Oscar F. Nelson and William V. Pacelli appeared in Springfield today interested, it was reported, in bills to lengthen their two year terms to four years. According to word leaking out at the state house, the councilmen favor an amendment to the law which would call for the next aldermanic election in 1935, thus allowing the incumbents to sit two years longer than their elections last February would call for.

STATE IS VOTED CONTROL OF CITY STREET REPAIRS

Emmerson Bills on Gas Funds Pass House.

BY PERCY WOOD.

Springfield, Ill., April 29.—[Special.]—The Emmerson administration bills, to permit the state to use gasoline tax funds for the improvement and maintenance of city streets, passed the house today after considerable adverse criticism. The vote on the first bill was 95 to 12; on the second, 100 to 29.

JAMES T. BURNS. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

These measures were introduced after and in reply to the program of the Illinoise Municipal league, which advocates dividing the 3 cent gas tax levy three ways—1 cent each to the state, the counties, and the cities, had been entered.

"Directly encroach on home rule," asserted Representative James T. Burns [Dem., Kankakee] when the bills were called for passage today.

"The cities pay 82 per cent of the gas tax, and it is only fair they should get one-third of the return. The highway department is the most powerful in the state. No road can be built without its consent, and under these bills it would also control roads in cities."

"Can't Run Own Community."

"These bills," added M. L. Igoe [Dem., Chicago], minority leader, "would force us in Chicago to come to Springfield and ask permission to build a subway under streets that the state takes over. They would take away our right to run our own community. They are the greatest onslaught on home rule ever attempted. By voting for them we give away our streets to control of others."

"Show me anything in these bills that permits the state to do anything but spend money on your city streets," challenged Representative Roger F. Little [Rep., Champaign]. Emmerson's floor leader.

"Well, what right have you to come in and maintain our streets?" answered Igoe. "You try to hand us a sugar coated pill for a political racket. These bills encroach farther than even Len Small dared go."

"If all these things you say are true," spoke up Elmer J. Schnackenberg [Rep., Chicago], "it is interesting to note that the Chicago Association of Commerce and Chicago Motor club approve the bills."

The roll call followed.

Debate Over Blind Relief.

Argument attended the passage of house bill 98, submitted by Representative Sidney Park [Dem., Mount Vernon], which provides that the state repay the counties in full for blind relief. The vote was 79-41, several Chicago representatives objecting.

At the close of today's session the house adopted the resolution of Representative William E. King [Rep., Chicago], a Negro, which calls upon President Hoover to allow no racial discrimination in the transportation of gold star mothers to their sons' graves in France.

BILLS INTRODUCED

Springfield, Ill., April 29.—[Special.]—Among bills introduced in the senate today were:

S. B. 601—Searcy: Provides for election of delegates and alternates at large to national conventions at the primary instead of by state convention.

S. B. 605—Bailey: Makes age 21 the minimum age for certificate as registered nurse.

Bills introduced in the house were:

H. B. 1001—Powers: For licensing of retail meat dealers.

H. B. 1003—Allen: Makes fish preserves of all waters upon lands of penal and charitable institutions.

H. B. 1007—T. J. Sullivan: Contractors residing in state using products and materials of Illinois given preference on contracts.

HOOVER ASKED TO PAY VISIT TO STATE ASSEMBLY

Springfield, Ill., April 29.—(AP)—The President of the United States will be asked to enter the floor of the Illinois house of representatives here June 17 and appear on the rostrum of the speaker.

A joint resolution, passed by the senate and house, outlines plans for the reception of President Hoover when he comes here to dedicate the reconstructed Lincoln tomb. He will be invited to appear before a joint session of both houses. At that time the general assembly will also extend a welcome to visiting governors and state and federal government dignitaries. The joint session will end at 11 a. m. A joint committee of nine senators and nine representatives will be appointed to cooperate with Gov. Emmerson in arranging the program.

Supreme Court May Rule on Tax Warrant Act Today

Springfield, Ill., April 29.—[Special.]—Justices of the Supreme court arrived tonight for a session tomorrow at which findings are expected to be handed down upon the constitutionality of the new state tax anticipation warrant act and the women on juries law.

Can't PLAY
Can't REST
—child needs Castoria

WHEN a child is fretful and irritable, seems distressed and uncomfortable, can't play, can't sleep, it is a pretty sure sign that something is wrong. Right here is where Castoria fits into a child's scheme—the very purpose for which it was formulated years ago! A few drops and the condition which caused the trouble is righted; comfort quickly brings restful sleep.

Nothing can take the place of Castoria for children; it's perfectly harmless, yet always effective. For the protection of your wee one—for your own peace of mind—keep this old reliable preparation always on hand. But don't keep it just for emergencies; let it be an every-day aid. Its gentle action will ease and soothe the infant who cannot sleep. In more liberal doses it will effectively help to regulate sluggish bowels in an older child.

All druggists have Castoria; it's genuine if you see Chas. H. Fletcher's signature and this name-plate:

"The Century makes her departure with something of the circumstance of a crack liner leaving her pier, and leaps at once into her long, smooth stride," writes Mr. Morley in his book of delightful essays, "Off the Deep End."

"By dusk the train has settled down to so tranquil and domestic a routine that you have all the settled feeling of an ocean voyage.

"What happens between Erie and Albany I have no notion. Usually I don't sleep much on trains, but I thank the Century for some eight hours vanished forever from my life—hours of complete nothing, a capsule of eternity."

Writer Offers India's Reports to Back Charges

Katherine Mayo Repeats Child Marriage Story.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"VOLUME TWO, MOTHER INDIA" by Katherine Mayo [Harcourt-Brace] is the author's answer to the denunciations which "Mother India" won from the people about whom the author wrote, and from persons of other lands who felt that her picture of India was unjust. The question which stirred more wrath and recrimination than any other in "Mother India" was Miss Mayo's discussion of child marriage and its moral and physical results. Many books were written declaring that Miss Mayo's observations were hasty, her conclusions inaccurate. Surveys were made. One of the most important surveys was that made in 1928 by a special committee of Indians, known as the age of consent committee, and sponsored by the Indian legislature.

KATHERINE MAYO. [From portrait by Frank Salisbury.]

For about a year that committee traveled throughout the country and made inquiries. It then submitted a report, plus the great mass of testimony that it had gathered, to the Indian legislature. "This report and this testimony," writes Miss Mayo in her foreword, "approximately 5,000 pages in all, constitute the main source of the present volume."

She regretfully says that, "Notwithstanding the Indian committee's research and discoveries, notwithstanding the Indian legislature's subsequent enactment of a child-marriage restraint law, the Hindu girl-children in their multi-millions remain as before, the prey of social custom and of ancient religious law."

She says further in the book, which contains even more startling and inhuman records than "Mother India" itself, "Now that the panic and confusion are over, now that the dust has settled and eyes see clearly, again the age-old scene reappears—the Hindu in his millions sitting undisturbed in his ancient way. Today as of old, he marries his girl-child when he sees fit—always remembering that the younger she is, the greater the sanctity of the marriage, and the higher its own reward in heaven."

The facts which the testimony brought out are set down without reservation by Miss Mayo and form a sequel to and a corroboration of what she wrote in "Mother India."

The question of child-marriage is bound up with custom she says, adding: "The Brahminic law of marriage, as generally accepted by the great Hindu orthodoxy" [which is the class in India most addicted to child-marriage] "has such concepts as 'If a child is married before the 6th year of the life her parents go to a first-class heaven, i. e., attain the highest rebirth possible. If between the 6th and 9th year the parents go to a second-class heaven; if between the 9th and 11th year only to hell, i. e., the worst rebirth possible.' One law reads in translation 'If a girl be not given in marriage when she has reached the 12th year, her mother and father as well as her elder brother, these three, go to the infernal regions . . . That Brahmin who, being blinded by vanity, espouses such a girl, should not be accosted, and should not be allowed to sit at a feast in the same line with Brahmins.'"

The committee submits as its final opinion, Miss Mayo says, "that about half the girl-children of India, or nearly 30,000,000 of Indian girls are married before they reach their fourteenth birthday. . . . Of these 30,000,000 children, over 2,350,000 are married under nine years of age."

The horrors of child-marriage with its attendant physical, nervous, and spiritual degeneration are set down without sentimentality, but without mincing matters by Miss Mayo. All sides of the subject are discussed, its causes, its effects, and its discouraging future.

"The triune obstacle in the way of stopping Hindu child-marriage" says this author "is the lack amongst Hindus of mass opinion desiring such action; the hopelessness of mobilizing general coöperation without such desire; and the equal hopelessness of effecting any material reform without such coöperation."

To the Hindu, according to Miss Mayo, the idea of child-marriage and the earliest possible motherhood is not only religious, but it is looked on as highly ethical, and marriage, among children, is regarded as a bulwark against immorality.

The object of Indian reformers is not to make marriage difficult among their people, or to make it possible for Indian girls to have any voice in the choice of their husbands [such a contingency never is mentioned] but to raise the age of marriage to one which will permit children to grow physically and mentally into a state in which marriage and parenthood do not weaken the race. At the present time "an old woman at 20" is so much a fact that it is a popular saying.

When, against the most bitter opposition, a law was passed on April 1, 1930, which Miss Mayo says is a dummy law, imposing only small fines on those who marry a girl under fourteen, the following resulted: "Six months were yet to elapse before the new law became effective. Early in that interval an unreasoning mob-terror seized the Hindu peoples lest somehow, against all nature, the dummy should come to life. Soon, in swift crescendo, they were rushing to marry off their girls. The very air grew thick with the throb of wedding drums," she says. "Marriages in the thousands and tens of thousands of children six months and one year old were carried out—marriages of infants to a sum total unknowable."

Miss Mayo has brought her picture of India up to date, this time writing not from her own observation or from conversations with authorities, but from authority itself, printed, official authority.

Good morning!

There's always serenity in the soul of the spender who buys a ticket for a George Arliss picture. He knows he's going to get his money's worth.

"The Millionaire" is an up to the minute modern comedy of parts, superbly played, beautifully staged, aptly dialogued [by Booth Tarkington], and cleverly directed. It isn't as subtle as "Disraeli" nor as cunning as "Old English," but it's a fascinating photoplay and Mr. Arliss' genius evokes sparkle from every facet of the title rôle.

The story?

Well, James Alden, aged head of an automobile manufacturing plant, is feeling a bit puny when the picture opens. Dizzy spells. Against his will he is examined by the family doctor, who orders him to quit work—and everything else he likes to do, and go west—for six months, anyway. There he is to have absolute quiet, cod liver oil, and no end of pills.

The Aldens, father, mother, and daughter, trek toward the setting sun. At a moment when the invalid is bored to tears with his inaction, a young insurance man breezes into his life with some new ideas. What they are and what comes of them the film must show you. ANYWAY—

Life becomes intensely interesting to a nice old gentleman, who, in the course of a double life he starts to lead, runs across a nice YOUNG gentleman who in turn makes the world a happy land for the millionaire's daughter. Happy daughters make happy mothers—so the circle is complete. Daughter, by the way, is as wise a young bird as is dad a wise old one. She's hep that father's up to mischief from the day he comes in after hours and tells his well cooked story of a meeting with an old boyhood friend. You'll like Daughter [Evelyn Knapp]. And you'll love Mother [Mrs. Arliss]. David Manners, who becomes Daughter's B. M., will also immensely please you.

I prophesy there won't be one grouch in the carloads of satisfied seers of "The Millionaire."

Former Movie Manager Would Marry Miss Mackail

HONOLULU, April 29.—John McCormick, former general manager of the First National Productions corporation, who arrived here on Saturday, admitted today his intention of marrying Dorothy Mackail, noted screen star. Miss Mackail is out of town, but her mother said she had no objection as "Mr. McCormick was one of the finest men in Hollywood." Mr. McCormick said that Miss Mackail's engagement to Neil Miller was canceled.

Dorothy Mackail said today she would give the morning papers a statement denying that she would marry John McCormick.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 29.—There was a sensation in the British art world tonight when the announcement was made that three paintings by the world's famous artist, Reginald Grenville Eves, which had been hung in this year's royal academy, had been withdrawn and returned.

It was discovered at the last minute that the pictures were merely photographs, thickly painted over. Mr. Eves is famous for his portraits, notably among his greatest works being the prince of Wales, the late Thomas Hardy, Lord Darling, and the Conservative leader, Stanley Baldwin.

The practice of painting over photographs is strictly prohibited by the Royal academy, and although from time to time the trick had been discovered in miniature this is the first time that it has ever been discovered in full sized paintings.

Mr. Eves declared that it was not his intention to deceive the academy authorities. He explained that the pictures in question had been painted for an exhibition of his work to be held in London. He had so many canvases to finish, and there was so little time in which to complete them. He developed neuritis in the right hand, he said, so he used the photographic method as a guide. He declared that the paintings were never intended for the academy, and he admitted that it was a great mistake in sending them, although he did not know at the time that the photographic method was contrary to the rules of the academy.

Club Women Given Dry Law Appeal; Press, Reds Discussed

Phoenix, Ariz., April 29.—(AP)—Resolutions upholding the 18th amendment, and asking severe aggressive campaigns against communism, and a report decrying "the filth and vulgarity that pollutes too many daily newspapers," were presented to the biennial council of the General Federation of Women's Clubs here today.

The resolutions, which also included indorsement of the world court, women's war compensation and relief, and disarmament, will be considered for adoption Friday.

The report dealing with newspapers was presented by Mrs. William R. Alvord of Detroit, Mich. She is chairman of the department of press and publicity. She pleaded with members of the federation to patronize only good newspapers.

In attacking "the tabloid newspaper and all the cheap vulgarity flaunted by our yellow journals," she said, "I am not unmindful of the high type of journalism maintained by the class of newspapers you and I read, nor the efforts made by them to foster better journalism.

"I am not unmindful of the fact that the press is young and that there is a new group of readers, thanks to our public education, but how an honest school child can sing 'O, Beautiful Our Spacious Skies,' after reading a tabloid, passes our comprehension.

"There are wonderful newspapers and I am not unmindful of the daily miracle which delivers at our door the daily paper; let's buy and read them and talk about them and commend them. And, after all, the influence of two million women is tremendous."

In discussing the effects of communism, the resolution presented by Mrs. John F. Sippel of Baltimore, Md., president of the federation, warned that "the plan for destructive revolution to the United States by international communists is not a myth, but a proved fact."

Enlarged authority for the department of justice in dealing with communist activities and strengthening of the immigration laws to prevent the admission of communists were recommended.

Continued support of prohibition was advocated in a resolution sponsored by Mrs. John C. Urquhart of Los Angeles. She asked the council to pledge its aid to "such constructive measures as will secure the increased support of public opinion, the better coöperation of states, and greater efficiency in enforcement machinery."

Memorial services were held for Mrs. Phillips North Moore of St. Louis, past president of the federation, who died yesterday.

U. S. Now Seems Somewhat Mad to Chesterton

Back in London, He Resurveys His Visit.

LONDON, April 29.—(AP)—Gilbert K. Chesterton, author, told the Society for Preservation of Rural England today on his return from the United States that he felt as if he had "just returned from a different civilization—or barberism—whatever you call it."

Prohibition, "ugly" buildings, and Tennessee's rigorous moral code impressed him most strongly on his tour of America, he said, adding that New York was as terrifying to Americans as to foreigners.

"I've been in Tennessee," he said, "where if a man insults you you are expected to shoot him with a gun or you're not considered a gentleman. Call it barberism, or chivalry, it's the feudal spirit full of feud.

"From one end to the other of this magnificent civilization there is no such thing as a village. When you enter a little town it is simply an eyesore to anybody of European tradition or instincts. The first things met are yellow, tin advertisements, tin buildings, with frameworks of lead and glass, and tin shops, and then, thank God, you are out of the town."

In regard to prohibition Mr. Chesterton said the law was threatening America with disaster.

"There are no inns in America," he said, "but there is plenty to drink—far, far too much. Alcoholism never has threatened disaster as it is threatening America today. It isn't normal that girls of 16 should go to dances and drink raw alcohol."

THE STAGE

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

EUGENE O'NEILL'S latest contribution to the drama is a trilogy—three plays containing the same principal characters—which bears the title of "Mourning Becomes Electra." The manuscript reached the Theater Guild's board of governors in New York yesterday, coming from the château near Tours, France, where O'Neill has secluded himself during the past year. Preparations for its staging next fall will begin immediately.

Each of the three plays is of normal length, and so three nights must be devoted to hearing the full work. Its production presents to the Guild the problem which it solved effectively in mounting Bernard Shaw's prodigious stretch of dialogue called "Back to Methusaleh." The sections of "Mourning Becomes Electra" probably will be offered in "cycles" of three weeks each.

Except for one act in the second play, the action of O'Neill's trilogy takes place in a New England seaport shortly after the close of the civil war. The exception is located on the deck of a clipper ship. There are twenty-two characters.

O'Neill is expected to return to New York when rehearsals begin. He plans to spend next winter on a plantation in Virginia.

Thomas W. Ross, of "Jonesy" this season and of "Your Uncle Dudley" last spring, will replace Allan Dinehart in "That's Gratitude," now at the Blackstone theater, May 10. The reason for this change is that Mr. Dinehart has signed a contract with the Fox Film company which calls for his services as actor, author and director, and must move on toward Hollywood.

George Barbier, the other featured player in the company, has also been gobbled up by the films, but he will remain with "That's Gratitude" until the end of its run at the Blackstone. His contract with the Paramount company calls for five years' work, by which he will earn $200,000.

Incidentally, the management of "That's Gratitude" announces that any woman with a mole on her face will be admitted free at next Wednesday's matinée. The excuse for this curious manifestation of generosity is that the heroine of the play is a homely girl with a mole on her upper lip who, thanks to dermatology and the beauty shoppes, becomes a dashing good-looker in the last act. The great mole matinée at the Blackstone will undoubtedly establish some kind of a record in special theatrical occasions.

"A Modern Virgin," a new comedy by Elmer Harris, had its first staging in Atlantic City last Monday night under the management of the Messrs. Shubert. It is scheduled for a spring hearing on Broadway. In the cast are Herbert Rawlinson, Margaret Sullivan, Robert Strange, Nicholas Joy, Pauline Denton, Frederick Irving Lewis, Alfred Kappeler, Loretta Shea, Cynthia Rogers, Paddy Reynolds, Andre Corday, John Bramhall, and Doris Nicholai.

Riverview park and White City announce the beginning of their open air amusement seasons for Wednesday, May 13. . . . Molly Picon, Yiddish comedienne, will bring an operetta called "The Love Thief" to the Lawndale theater tomorrow for a three days' engagement.

Irene Bordoni's new entertainment, called "One More Night," will have its try-out performance in Wilmington, Del., tomorrow, and will begin an engagement in Philadelphia next Monday. Her company includes Eric Blore, Fiske O'Hara, Leonore Chippendale, Charles Romano, Katharine Renwick, Horace Pollock, and Muriel Belasco. "One More Night" is an intimate musical comedy adapted from a French play by Louis Verneuil.

WALLACE'S GANGSTER PLAY, "ON THE SPOT," CHANGED FOR CHICAGO

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 29.—[Special.]—In preparation for the opening of the gangster play, "On the Spot," by Edgar Wallace, in Chicago Sunday night, the company now playing it here is making various changes in parts referring to the Illinois city.

The action follows announcement by Mayor Cermak at Chicago yesterday that plays and moving pictures showing Chicago as a crime ridden city would be suppressed. He gave especial warning to "On the Spot." John Leffler, manager of the "On the Spot" company, said that "everything related to Chicago in the play will be eliminated."

Dedicate New Hospital for Mothers' Care

U. of C. Adds to Progress in Treating Maternity.

HOW far the present civilization has changed from former times in its attitude toward childbirth was emphasized yesterday by speakers at the formal dedication of the new $1,900,000 Chicago Lying-in hospital, situated on the north side of the Midway between Ingleside and Maryland avenues.

"The old idea that a confinement is a simple, functional matter which only needs the aid of an ignorant midwife or a friendly neighbor is outgrown," said Dr. Joseph B. De Lee, whose work for 26 years has culminated in the new hospital, which he heads.

"If any one doubts the importance and dignity of obstetrics let him look at the imposing beauty of this new building devoted to the childbearing woman. In it we proclaim to the world that obstetrics has equal, if not greater, physiologic and pathologic dignity than any other division of medicine and surgery.

"Modern obstetrics demands that child bearing be divested of a great deal of its painfulness, and that mother and child be brought through the ordeal without loss of life and without harm, so far as possible. This institution will be dedicated to these aims."

Dr. De Lee described how, during the panic of 1893 and 1894, he made efforts to organize a clinic for women, and how in 1894, after consulting with Jane Addams, he made a start in a four-room flat near Hull House, the beginning of the Chicago Lying-in hospital. Last year the hospital recorded 260 births a month in the institution. In addition, the district service is delivering 2,000 babies annually in the parents' homes, he said.

The new hospital was termed by Dr. J. Whitridge Williams, professor of obstetrics and gynecology at John Hopkins university, who made the principal address, as "the most modern establishment of its kind in the country."

Dr. Williams compared it with the first maternity ward in history—a Paris cellar in the thirteenth century—which a historian described as appropriate inasmuch as women in childbirth should be in a "retired and secret place." The historian told how the waters of the Seine came within a foot of the windows in the cellar. The first school for midwives, Dr. Williams pointed out, was "strictly closed to medical men."

Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, president of the board of directors of the hospital, presided at the dedication. Presentation of the hospital on behalf of the donors was made by Mrs. Charles H. Swift, who said that the gifts ranged from $5 to $250,000, the largest being given by Julius Rosenwald.

Presentation of the Mothers' Aid pavilion for isolation cases was made by Mrs. Harry B. Kempner. Mrs. Fairbank presented the teaching and research facilities of the hospital to the University of Chicago. They were accepted by President Robert Maynard Hutchins.

The hospital will be open to patients about May 15.

The new hospital contains eight delivery roms, including one emergency room on the first floor, one amphitheater where students may witness births, a room fitted out to make motion pictures, four regular birth rooms, and another in the mother's aid pavilion for isolated cases. On the same floor with these birth rooms are nine waiting rooms and a "fathers' room."

In each birth room is a clock which ticks every 15 seconds, so that the doctor may time the unborn infant's heart beats without glancing at a watch.

There is space in the hospital for 157 mothers and 150 babies. In the nurseries each baby's bed is separate. Some of the nurseries have pink walls. The private rooms have modernistic furniture and the color schemes throughout most of the hospital are bright.

All patients who want may have radio for the asking.

In this hospital a mother may have a baby at a cost of $50, in a normal 10 day confinement in a four bed ward, or, if she is unable to pay, she may have service at no cost. If she desires luxury, she may have a large four windowed room with divan, writing desk, and a private shower.

"Return Less Goods, Keep Prices Down," Housewives Urged

A hint to housewives on how to keep retail prices down was offered last night by D. F. Kelly, president of the Fair store and head of the national retail dry goods association, in a radio address over a nation-wide hookup.

Women customers can bring about a definite cut in prices, he said, by reducing to a minimum the amount of merchandise returned to the stores. The returning habit, he declared, costs the department stores a half billion dollars annually, adding millions to the cost of operating stores. He emphasized that the correction of this evil would make it possible to divert millions to customers through lower retail prices.

"When you visit your favorite store," he suggested to the housewives, "take ample time to select your goods. Mrs. Consumer owes it to herself, to her neighbors, and to her store to select merchandise carefully so the likelihood of its being returned is remote. This can be done by a careful examination of the goods at the time of purchase to make sure they will meet the purposes for which intended; by trying on in the store items of wearing apparel.

"Few customers stop to think that when an article of merchandise is returned to the average department store it involves the employment of at least twenty persons, both in handling the original transaction and accepting it for return."

Society Plans to Share Gayety of City Jubilee

BY THALIA ——.

SOCIETY will hie itself downtown for the excitement and thrills of Jubilee week, not only from a well developed sense of interest in civic progress, but because it doesn't want to miss a good show.

With all the hotels and smart dining places decked out as never before, there undoubtedly will be much gay dining out, particularly on the evenings of the parade, the carnival, the Golden Gloves tournament at Soldiers' field, and the fireworks.

John J. Mitchell has a large block of seats for the Golden Gloves, and there will be many Dutch treat parties among the Stadium crowd. The Gustavus F. Swifts, Edward N. Hurley Jr., Wallace Kirk, the Leon Mandels, the Maurice Rothschilds, the Bruce MacLeish plan to see the scraps between the American and French lads, and their are others, too.

Mrs. William H. Mitchell is in charge of finding a shop in the loop for temporary headquarters during the Jubilee for the Chicago committee of the Women's National Organization for Prohibition Reform. A group of fashionable matrons will be on hand to get new members among the Chicagoans and out of town visitors who will be thronging the town, as the organization is trying to double its membership this year, which means getting another 25,000 recruits.

The Japan-America society's dinner for Their Excellencies Prince and Princess Takamatsu of Japan is to be on Monday night, the first evening of the Jubilee, and there will be a large and fashionable attendance for that.

President and Mrs. Robert M. Hutchins have invited nearly a thousand U. of C. faculty members, trustees, and friends of the university to hear Claire Dux [Mrs. Charles H. Swift] in a recital at Mandel hall tonight. It's the third affair of its kind to be given in as many years.

The Hutchinses are to have Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Meeker, Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, and Edwin Krenn as dinner and box guests, and Mr. Swift is to join them in their box at the concert. Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed are to have with them Mr. and Mrs. Howard Linn, Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Ryerson Jr., Mr. and Mrs. William McCormick Blair, the Lester Armours, Wendell Kuhn, Miss Alice Roullier, and Walter Preston. President and Mrs. Hutchins are to give a large supper party for friends of the singer at their house after the concert.

Mr. Aldis J. Browne is not going to pass by the twentieth anniversary of his marriage to the former Miss Elizabeth Cunningham without a celebration just because his co-celebrant happens to be away in Europe, and so he's entertaining at a dinner party at the Browne residence in Cedar street on Friday night just a score years after he and the former Miss Elizabeth Cunningham said their "I do's."

Friends of Opera Meeting Next Thursday at Drake.

The May meeting of the Friends of Opera will be held next Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Drake ballroom, with Mrs. Meeker presiding. The program, in charge of Mrs. Charles H. Swift, will be given by Michael Bartlett, tenor, to the accompaniment of Frederick Schauwecker, and by Ralph Dobbs, pianist. Mr. Bartlett, who is a Princeton graduate and former member of the Glee and Triangle clubs, made his opera debut in "Lucia" two years ago in Trieste.

Mrs. Cornelius B. Watson is to open her residence in Ardsley road, Winnetka, on Friday afternoon—May day, by the way—for one of the series of bridge teas given under the auspices of the Guild and Auxiliary of Christ church. Mrs. Wyndham H. Channer is in charge of the prizes.

Consuming the sort of lunches that preserve slenderness at the Woman's exchange yesterday were Miss Elinor Whiting, in a black and white print dress with a wide, Quakerish-looking organdy collar and cuffs, a black coat and small hat with a patent leather band and bow; Miss Ann Elizabeth Walsh, in a brown tweed ensemble with white dots and a brown knitted straw turban bordered in tan silk flowers; Miss Barbara King, in a tan belted coat with an off the shoulder fox collar over a beige dress with a flared skirt; Miss Katharine Drake in a severely tailored suit of Oxford gray with a white crêpe blouse and close fitting black knitted beret; Mrs. John Kellogg wearing a brown, high waisted coat with collar and cuffs of brown Persian lamb and brown felt hat flaring at the sides, and Miss Kellogg in a black tailored suit, black felt turban, and silver fox neckpiece.

The gist of it—The James Offield family is returned from California, and Miss Betty is off for some collegiate festivities in the east and then to go to the Bachelors' cotillon in Nashville, Tenn. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Kingsley Loring Rice of Evanston announce the birth of Kingsley Loring Rice Jr. at the Evanston hospital on Sunday. . . . Mrs. Lewis L. Coburn of the Blackstone had as her guests until a few days ago Mrs. A. Barton Hepburn of New York City and the latter's daughter, Mrs. Robert Emmett of Rye, N. Y., and gave them a round of small dinner and theater parties during their stay. . . . The A. B Deweys Jr. have gone to Washington, D. C., because Mrs. Dewey senior has been quite ill. . . . Libby Chase, the much traveled, is glad to be home after her thrilling journeyings with Alicia Patterson in the far east.

More gist—The Richard Henry Littles and their genials canine, Tommy Atkins, are ensconced in a new apartment at 202 East Walton place, having moved from the Ambassador East. . . . Mrs. William B. Storey is back from spending a week in Washington, D. C.—she and Mr. Storey are going to California in June for the summer. . . . Mrs. Andrew MacLeish has resigned as chairman of the Associate alumnæ of Vassar and has been succeeded by Mrs. Isaac Harris of Bronxville [Mrs. MacLeish was a Vassar graduate in 1873]. . . . The Clarence Norton Goodwins are sojourning at the Princess Anne Country club at Virginia Beach, Va., Mrs. Goodwin having journeyed there from Miami by boat.

Mrs. Quincy Adams Shaw II. and Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Mitchell have returned from Palm Beach.

Miss Lucille Thornton is back from Europe and will be at 420 Park avenue until she opens her country place at St. James.

Mrs. W. Goadby Loew is among the incoming passengers on the Leviathan of the United States lines, due tomorrow morning.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., April 29.—Miss Ann Madison Washington, great-great-granddaughter of John Augustine Washington, brother of George Washington, assisted Mr. and Mrs. Wade H. Ellis today at their country home, Rippon Lodge, in Virginia. It was thrown open to visitors in the annual tour of historic gardens of Virginia for the benefit of the restoration of Wakefield, birthplace of George Washington. Rippon Lodge was the family home of Miss Washington's great-great-grandmother. Miss Washington will be the official hostess at the Paris exposition in the United States section, which features a reproduction of Mount Vernon. Her great-great-grandmother was Charlotte Blackburn, who also was an ancestress of Wade H. Ellis. He purchased Rippon Lodge a few years ago.

[Grinsted Photo.]

Dr. and Mrs. Channing W. Barrett of 541 Briar place announce the engagement of their daughter, Ruth Esther, to Howard Bush, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delos Bush of Hillsdale, Mich. The wedding will take place in the early summer.

Let Your Child Express His Love for Pets

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Today's article is not by me.

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: I wish you would write an article on children and animals. So many children are given pets when they are too young to handle them properly (or when the pets are too young), and yet other children, with an inherent love for animals and a knowledge of how to treat them, can really be safely trusted with some of the hardier kinds, like cats and dogs. And then, of course, there are the children who should never be allowed to have any pets—who, through lack of training, or for some other reason, have not any love for animals.

"This matter is rather a live one with me, just now. I have a little niece who, from the time she could toddel, had a great love for animals—from gnats to elephants. Or, at least, if she hasn't a real affection for gnats she has a respect for them as a form of life, and many have been the ethical arguments he have had on the subject of killing water bugs, mosquitoes, and flies.

"A few months ago I received a request from the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals asking me for a contribution. Before the letter was answered little Phyllis saw it. The appeal went straight to her heart (it was for watering troughs for horses), and out of a small fund carefully husbanded for a greatly desired doll and from a very small allowance she decided to make a contribution.

"It was just on my tongue to say, 'O, Phyllis, they don't need to take money from you when you've saved yours so hard,' but fortunately I stopped just in time. Why shouldn't she make this sacrifice and give to such a beloved cause as this? Well, she sent in her fifty cents, and in a few days got a specially written letter of thanks—such a nice one—and a formal receipt. It was signed and dated and numbered, and even had Phyllis' name on it."

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

GIRL'S DRESS.

Here is a bolero dress for the little girl. The neckline finishes with a collar caught with a tab at the center front. Modish plaiting trims the edge of the bolero, sleeves, and skirt. In its place, if you like, a bias binding may be used in a contrasting color. The skirt, in smart box plait effect at the front, is easily made. Linen, pique, dimity, shantung, printed linen, and plain, self-striped or printed broadcloth make up lovely in this model.

Pattern No. 3058 is designed for girls of 6, 8, 10, 12, and 14 years. Size 8 requires 2¼ yards of 39 inch material with ¼ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

Spring Facial Can Rejuvenate Skin 'n' Your Spirits, Too

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Before I recommend the spring facial I am about to I want to warn you that I've had complaints from women who have tried almond meal packs and found them irritating to their particular skins. In fact, I'd suggest that women with fine, sensitive skins leave most of these facial packs to their tougher skinned sisters. Or else only have them under expert direction in a beauty parlor. One woman said she came out terribly red and frightened after her experience with one kind of almond meal pack.

Now, I tried this one myself and had only the most pleasing effects from it. But I'm not among the fine, sensitive skinned gentry. Its purpose is to create a more favorable aspect for a face that's seen some rough outdoor winter and early spring going; for the face that is rough and coarse to the feel and rather "chappy" of appearance. Because there is lemon juice added to the almond meal it's a stirring bit of a preparation.

But for those needing it and eligible to its use, as an average textured skin or a coarse, oily one, it has its points in being a bleaching as well as a softening agent. Also women who have returned unbecomingly tanned or sunburned after a tropic stay may find it adaptable to their needs.

First, you apply a generous amount of cleansing cream. Get the face awfully clean. Take the precaution to dip cold compresses in boric acid solution or an eye lotion for an eye rest while some one is pressed into giving you the mask treatment. If you have to do it yourself you'll have to wait a minute until you lie down for the eye pads.

Take two full tablespoons of almond meal and add to it five drops of lemon and then enough witch hazel to make a thick, creamy paste. Cover the face with the preparation. Keep it away from the hair.

Let it remain on about ten minutes. You can feel the mixture drawing. Remove before it draws too much.

Wipe the face with an astringent lotion, then use a skin food and give a couple of minutes' massage. Cheesecloth is often advised to be laid on the face first, applying the pack over it. Perhaps you'd better take this precaution if you aren't sure about the toughness of your skin. After the skin food massage, wipe off the cream and apply towels wrung out in ice cold water. If it's the right sort of pack for you, you'll come up smiling like a chessy cat at the nice new face.

FARM AND GARDEN

NUT TREES IN ILLINOIS.

Although recommendations are being made throughout Illinois that farmers plant nut trees on portions of their lands and homestead grounds, it is more important than ever with this increased interest in such projects that there is need for cautioning against unnamed seedlings.

This warning has just been issued by A. S. Colby, chief in small fruit culture at the college of agriculture of the University of Illinois. Budded or grafted nursery trees from reputable nurserymen or grafting wood of a named variety on seedling trees are recommended for quality fruit, he says.

"Some of the better known species, such as the black walnut, chestnut, butternut, hickory, pecan and hazelnut, are native to Illinois and are found widely distributed in localities favorable to their culture. While some of these species are valuable only for their wood, which is used for many purposes, an occasional specimen tree is found bearing nuts of larger size than usual and often with other good characters, such as better cracking quality or meat of better flavor, than the ordinary run," says Mr. Colby.

"Some of these seedling trees have been named and propogated as new nut varieties. In a few cases, new varieties have originated through breeding. Such varieties include the Thomas, Stabler, Ohio and Stambaugh black walnut; the Boone, Fuller, Gibbens and Champion chestnut; the Indiana, Busseron, Butterick, Niblack, Green River, Witte, Campbell and Oberman pecan."

THE CLICK OF THE GATE

By Alice Campbell

SYNOPSIS.

Iris de Bertincourt lives in a remote section of Paris with her fifteen year old daughter, Clare. She and Maj. Alan Charnwood are desperately in love, but there are barriers to their immediate marriage. They are spending the last evening they will have together in several months, as Maj. Charnwood plans to leave next day for Africa. Clare is acting in a school play and is to be brought home by friends.

Iris has been separated for years from her husband, Marcel de Bertincourt, a man of enormous charm but utterly lacking in moral sense. Iris and he are cousins and the possible heirs of their Aunt Victoire, the Comtesse de Castelmaurou. Iris plans to divorce her husband and marry Alan when he returns, but she is keeping her plans secret, as she wishes to avoid the interference of her tyrannical aunt, who has until recently ruled her life.

Iris receives a message telling her her aunt is on her way to see her. Alan leaves. The comtesse tells Iris that her husband's character has wholly changed and that he is desirous of reassuming his duties as a husband and father. She asks Iris to think it over and give her answer at the end of the week. Just after the comtesse leaves, Iris hears a motor stop in front of the house and hears Clare's friends bidding her good night. When she opens the door for Clare she has disappeared.

Maj. Charnwood is just ready to leave his hotel when Iris reaches him. He hurries to her home. He suggests calling the friends who drove Clare home. They tell Iris they left Clare at her door. Alan accompanies Iris to notify the police, then they wait all night, but day breaks and Clare is still away. An inspector assigned to the case calls.

INSTALLMENT X.

THE INSPECTOR'S DISCOVERIES.

"Was mademoiselle in the habit of going to school alone?"

"Never. She was always accompanied."

"Now as to her friends. You are acquainted with all of them?"

"Nearly all. Certainly with her intimate ones."

The inspector set down the names of Clare's closest associates, and then sat studying the short list with attention.

"One thing strikes me, madame. All these names are of the feminine sex. Was there no young man in whom she was interested?"

She answered with slight hauteur.

"You forget, M. l'Inspecteur, that my daughter is only a little girl. There are perhaps two or three boys of her own age who have played tennis with her, but as for being interested in them——"

"At least to your knowledge there is no one," he qualified, making a note.

Charnwood saw her brows knit with annoyance, but before she could object the interrogation shifted to another line.

"Can you tell me, madame, if at any time your daughter has been subject to vagaries of conduct—somnambulism, loss of memory, that sort of thing?"

"Now you mention it, something just a little odd occurred during an illness a year ago. On two occasions she was given veronal tablets, and following the second dose, at about four in the morning, she was found out of bed and downstairs, trying to unchain the front door. She was entirely unconscious and remembered nothing afterwards. The doctor attributed her behavior to the action of veronal on a highly sensitive subject."

"Indeed! That is interesting."

Charnwood, too, felt a quiver of excitement over the possibilities raised by this information. He listened keenly while Iris went on to add that there had never been a repetition of the incident, and that in every respect Clare was normal and healthy.

"Are you acquainted with this gentleman, madame?"

"No, my husband is not dead, but he has lived apart from us so long it seems hardly necessary to bring him into this matter at all. My daughter and I have not seen him for years."

"Still, madame, since he is alive, I should like to know his present habitation."

A faint tinge of red stole into her cheeks as she gave an address in the Place du Palais Bourbon, and it was with noticeable relief that she hurried on to answer the next question, which dealt with Clare's social engagements.

"I can assure you she had none of which I was not aware," she declared positively. "During school terms she visits no one with any regularity except my aunt, in the Faubourg St. Germain. Always, on Tuesday afternoons, she goes there, with my servant, and my aunt's own maid brings her home. Yesterday, instead of returning here she was left at Mme. Weber's."

"And your aunt's name?"

"The Comtesse de Castelmaurou."

"Ah, the Comtesse de Castelmaurou!"

Evidently this made a great impression. The man's politeness became deferential, he regarded Iris with a different sort of interest as, snapping the rubber band round his note book, he rose and asked if he might be permitted to inspect Mlle. de Bertincourt's bedroom."

"Certainly," said Iris, and led the way.

On the floor above two rooms faced them, Iris' at the front, Clare's behind, with a bathroom between. At the top of the stairs Iris paused, nerving herself for a fresh ordeal, then, pushing open the nearest door, signed to the inspector to follow.

Over her shoulder Charnwood saw a little chamber, decorated with a naïve and charming simplicity well suited to its occupant. Walls, curtains, and painted furniture were of a soft powder blue, delicately outlined in silver, with touches of old rose in an occasional ornament and the fluted shade of an alabaster lamp. There was a frilled Victorian dressing table, its oval mirror flanked by rose candles in crystal candlesticks; the low bookshelves bore a random collection of trinkets and souvenirs such as schoolgirls love to amass.

"Will you be good enough, madame, to look carefully through your daughter's belongings and make sure nothing is missing?"

She obeyed, examining each drawer of the painted commode, and throwing open the door of the cupboard, in which an assortment of garments dangled from padded hangers. One by one she fingered the limp frocks and coats, then shook her head.

"Good. Now for the writing table, if you please."

In the pigeonholes were several packets of letters and postcards. Iris ran them through.

"They are all from school friends, written in the summer holidays," she said.

The officer took possession of them quietly.

"Is there anything else, monsieur?"

Instead of replying, he remained staring fixedly at the large blue blotter on the center of the desk. Suddenly he bent forward, whipped back the corner, and from beneath it produced two objects which he held up for inspection. Iris gave a slight gasp as she saw in his hand a pressed carnation and a shiny postcard photograph of a young man.

Not a word was uttered. The atmosphere of the room had become charged with electricity. Charnwood, approaching, saw Iris' brow contract with pained discomfiture.

"Are you acquainted with this gentleman, madame?"

She stared with fascinated eyes. The likeness was that of a handsome—perhaps too handsome—youth of two or three-and-twenty, his regular features and large melting dark eyes shaded by a velour hat and framed by the fur collar of an overcoat. Romantic, intensely Latin, there was that about him which was repugnant to Charnwood's taste, and Iris, judging from her stiff reply, felt as he did.

The inspector's manner was significant.

"You are quite sure, madame?" he inquired, keeping his sharp eyes on her frowning face.

"Absolutely," she returned with a shrug. "It is no one we know. And yet," she amended, less confident, "I can't help thinking I have seen him somewhere. His face is vaguely familiar. . . ."

"A film star, most likely," suggested Charnwood in a low voice. "He has the air of one."

She said nothing. A crimson spot pulsated in each cheek as she watched the inspector consign his discoveries to an inner pocket, and without comment she let him proceed with his investigation, prying into every recess, examining the window's fastenings, measuring the drop to the ground.

Hypnotized by her own thoughts, she let Charnwood accompany him downstairs, and only when the maid approached with a compassionate look of question did she rouse herself for a fierce appeal.

"Mathilde!" she whispered quickly, "Do you know that young man? Have you ever seen him?"

The woman's tired eyes flashed.

"Never, madame!" came the vehement denial. "Never! And I will take my oath that mademoiselle knows him no more than we do. Madame is foolish to allow herself to be upset over a stupid picture!"

Needs Clothes for Work.

"I am an ex-service man who has been out of work for some time. If I had presentable clothing I could work as a salesman right away. Do you think you can get me a suit, size 38, shirts, size 15, shoes, size 7½, socks, size 10½ and some underwear. You don't know how grateful I will be if you can secure this clothing for me. "J. Clothing often makes a difference when one is in quest of work and having some presentable garments to wear may mean this man's success in finding a job. Have you any in his size to give?

German Singers Present Opera Only as Songs

BY EDWARD MOORE.

IN PRESENTING Weber's opera, "Der Freischuetz," in concert form at Orchestra hall last night, the Chicago Singverein hit upon an idea that might easily have valuable future possibilities for itself and other choral organizations. It may be put this way. Most of the good oratorios and cantatas have been sung and sung until their present value is a little lessened. Also there are many operas of the older school that have not been heard for years and probably will not be heard for years to come, if ever again. Why not, then, let choral societies select and prepare some of these operas for concert presentation?

The idea seems enticing. Some of these operas call for their choruses to sing at the top of their ability, as the Singverein illustrated in this score. A good many of them call for the highest development of solo art, as Lucie Westen illustrated when she sang the aria, "Leise, leise." Certainly it would result in no lowering of musical standards, but rather a heightening thereof. All that is needed is willingness on the part of the organization and ability on the part of the conductor, and these points again were illustrated by the Singverein and Dr. Sigfrid Prager.

In other words, the performance was so interesting that at least one of the hearers desired to hear more of the same kind. The other soloists were Frances Haeger, William Ross, Martin Romeler, Edwin Kemp, Raymund Koch, Saul Silverman, and Bernhard Hartwig, and an excellent impression was made by them as well as by the chorus. It gave conclusive proof that dramatic effects may frequently be made by the use of music alone, divorced from the scenery, costumes, and lights of a stage presentation.

Mary Berovitz, contralto, gave a recital at Kimball hall last night, covering the customary range of songs in Italian, French, German, and English. But though it is no unusual thing to hear a song recital that has, or needs, the gift of tongues, Miss Berovitz' voice is considerable out of the common. It has power and quality, it has been cultivated into a wide range and much flexibility. Also while engaged in vocal development, she has by no means forgotten the necessity of care in the languages.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Not Her Honey.

Like every one else in our small town my friend and I were downtown on Saturday night. We decided to ask our husbands to take us to the show, but on arriving at their place of business learned that they were at the movies.

We thought we'd hunt them up and enjoy the show with them. We entered the darkened theater, looked around, and then my friend said, "There they are, and two empty seats right behind them."

We slipped into the seats. I put my hands over the eyes of one familiar looking man, and said, "Enjoying the show, honey?"

I broke all records getting out of there when a perfect stranger turned to face me, and said, "I beg your pardon, madam!"

Bright Sayings of the Children

Marilyn, age 5, was told to sit in a chair and cover her face with her hands as punishment for some thing she had done. She sat for a few minutes trying to do as she was told. Finally she gave up, and between sobs said, "Mudder, I'm so sorry my hands aren't quite big enough, but I'll do the best I can."—F. R. N.

Girl's Future Is Jeopardized by Flirting Mother

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Flirtatious mothers might lend an ear to this and learn something of younger generation's judgment: "My mother is married to the dearest Dad in the world, but she has men friends hanging around. She goes out with them, too. My beau asked me if I would be apt to turn out like my mother. He said if he were married to a girl and she went out with other men he wouldn't live with her. And he said that girls do turn out like their mothers, usually.

"Lately I notice a change in him. I love him so much that I simply can't live if he leaves me on account of my mother's actions. I wouldn't be like her, as I told him. But why do mothers act that way when they have good, kind husbands like my Dad? I think it is disgusting.

"META."

Meta postscripts that her mother goes to speakeasies with her men friends and she invites them for cocktails to her home. Daddy doesn't say anything because he believes in mother and, besides, he is one of those kind, gentle men who wouldn't quarrel under any circumstances.

Maybe it would help matters if Dad lost some of his gentleness and spoke up with the authority of a husband and a man. Indulgence toward the wife's boy friends is most often not the wisest policy of a husband. Not, especially, where there is a young girl's happiness and future at stake. And certain wives, like naughty children, need to be made to feel the strong arm of discipline upon them once in a while.

It doesn't follow at all that daughters travel in their mothers' footsteps, unless the example set is one that can be respected. In fact, children of a drinking parent are notoriously abstemious. Children of flighty mammas are often the most sober sided of youngsters. So the beau in the case here needn't draw his inferences from mother's conduct.

But it's hard to down old prejudices in male minds.

Food Talk.

Not long ago a housewife said to me that she never was quite so "stumped" as when she felt the economical burden of utilizing the leftovers. "Now this is Thursday," she confided, "and I have two cupfuls or more of the lamb from last Sunday's roast, a dish of peas and carrots, and three pieces of canned pear. There are six of us. What do you do when you are faced with a problem like that?"

My answer was that I am not much of a food accumulator, and if I were, I wouldn't acknowledge that I found cold lamb, a few peas, and some perfectly good canned pears a facer.

Suppose we talk of the lamb for the basis of a luncheon. It would make a delicious salad, sandwich, or curry. If we make a curry out of it, then we might use the peas and the carrots for a soup or salad. If there happens to be butter on these particular vegetables and they are to go in salads, they need to be warmed just enough for the butter and excess liquid to be thoroughly drained off. A thorough chilling should follow. If there are not enough of these vegetables to go around for the salad, then they may be augmented with whole string beans. Either the canned or fresh cooked ones may be used, but in either case they need to be chilled. Arrange the vegetables in alternate layers in the salad bowl, add a good French dressing, toss lightly so as not to spoil the shape of the vegetables, then pile lightly on crisp lettuce leaves.

The leftover pears may be combined with pineapple, banana, peaches, and some other fruit to add contrasting color and flavor for a fruit cup for the beginning of the meal or for a dessert. Pears make delightful salads, too. And when combined with cheese, make a salad hearty enough for luncheon. Finely chopped pears and cream cheese with a dash of lemon make a delicious sandwich filling.

Good leftovers like these are really an inspiration. When perchance you find yourself with some of them in your refrigerator, do not let them paralyze the imagination. Remember that all vegetables and meats will make soups, salads, sandwiches, hashes, croquettes, and curries, and that all fruits are salad, dessert, sandwich, and appetizer possibilities.

2 tablespoons flour.
Salt and pepper.
1 teaspoon parsley.
2 gherkins, finely chopped.
1 teaspoon onion, minced.
1 teaspoon hot peppery table sauce.
¼ teaspoon mustard.
1½ cubs water or stock.
2 cups cold roast lamb, sliced.

Melt the fat, add flour, and stir until well browned. Then add the seasonings. Add the liquid gradually, stir until smooth. Add the slices of meat and set over a low flame for 20 minutes, or until the meat is thoroughly heated. Serve with potato or rice cakes.

1 large onion.
1 cup cooked rice.
Pepper and salt to taste.
½ cup grated American cheese.

Cut the tops off the green peppers. Remove all the seeds and pulp. Put them into cold water in a saucepan and let them come slowly to a boil. Then let them boil for about two minutes. Remove the peppers from the water and set them aside to cool. Put the butter into a frying pan. Slice the onion thin, and fry it to a light brown in the butter. Add the tomatoes, seasoning, and rice. Simmer for two or three minutes. Add the cheese just before removing the mixture from fire. Fill the peppers. Sprinkle a little grated cheese on top and bake in a moderate oven [375 degrees F.] until brown. Serve with tomato sauce.

Yield: Six servings.

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE.

2 cups pastry flour
3 tsp baking flour
1 tsp salt
2 tbsp sugar
¼ cup cold fat
¾ cup milk
1 qt strawberries
¾ cup sugar

Sift flour, then measure. Resift twice with baking powder, salt and two tablespoons of sugar. Rub fat into the flour with the fingers until its appearance is like coarse cornmeal. Add milk and mix as for biscuits. Roll to ½ inch thickness. Cut with a 2½ inch biscuit cutter. Place half the biscuits on the baking sheet, brush tops with melted butter and cap with the remaining biscuits. Bake in a hot oven [425 degrees F.]. Lift off caps, add 1 teaspoon melted butter to each biscuit, then crushed, sweetened strawberries. Put on caps, crust side down, and add more fruit. Serve immediately. One and a half pints peaches, 1 quart raspberries, or 6 bananas may be substituted for the strawberries.

Yield: Six servings.

Guimpes Add Dainty Touch to Spring Chic

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—With the increasing popularity of the apron frock, guimpes have returned to the Paris mode. Separate lingerie sleeveless guimpes are worn with low necked but sleeved dresses. Guimpes with short or long sleeves are worn with the real, honest to goodness aprons that are being made up in crêpe de chine, georgette, transparent wool and so on, by leading Paris couturiers.

These guimpes lend a fresh, dainty touch to the smart effect. They are made of fine ruffles of Valenciennes lace sewed on to a net or lace foundation, of embroidered organdy, or cross barred muslin. Drawn work, fagotting and hemstitching all do their bit toward that transparency essential to the chic of almost everything sartorial nowadays.

The frock is of fine wool in the golden yellow that is one of fashion's color favorites for spring and summer. The blouse is cut in the same deep, round décolleté front and back. The skirt has slightly flaring panels at each side that are mounted at the top in huge patch pockets.

The guimpe itself is of cream colored organdy all covered with narrow organdy folds scalloped at the edges. The short bell sleeves are an interesting style point. Also Lanvin's double crush belts—one of cream wool and one black patent leather—that are worn one over the other and buckled in the back.

Opera Written Only for Radio Is Tried on Berlin Audience

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, April 29.—[Special.]—A new experiment was attempted here tonight in the form of an entire opera which was written and designed expressly for radio performance. This venture has little in common with the transmission over the air of familiar operas played in theaters or at broadcasting centers.

The new work consists of five more or less definitely located scenes that succeed each other without a break. The performance takes about an hour. The characters, dramatic incidents, and scenic divisions are made clear to the listeners by means of musical effects, rhythmic speech in dialogue, and delineative sounds that cleverly indicate the settings and action. The piece is entitled "Malpopita." The libretto is the work of Mendelssohn and Seitz, and the music is by the young composer, Walter Goehr, a pupil of Franz Schreker and Arnold Schoenberg.

Sunk!

Planning . . . hoping
. . . and then—the thing she dreaded

Nature won't postpone her process to accommodate social engagements! Two weeks ago she was sure she could go. Then—just an hour before the party—it had started. That excruciating pain which is now avoidable.

Expected. Dreaded. Those muscular pains reckoned by the calendar. You can't always tell to the day and hour when they'll begin. But you can count on their relief seven minutes after taking Midol!

The periodic process is natural, but the painful part is not. Midol is non-narcotic; it never interferes with the process, but it does banish the pain. These tablets take effect in five to seven minutes. Better yet, the woman who takes them beforehand will experience no pain at all. Midol relieves headaches, neuralgia, neuritis, too. Always to be had at any drugstore.

How do you know it's just like Kotex? Who stands back of it? Where was it made? How? By whom? Is it, like Kotex, used by hospitals from coast to coast?

Kotex is safe

Those words, "just like Kotex," mean much more, you see, than surface resemblance. It's easy to make a pad that looks like Kotex. Far, far harder to make one that meets the rigid Kotex standards of purity, of cleanliness, of perfect hygienic safety.

After all, why take chances? You know Kotex is safe. It is treated to deodorize. It is adjustable. Last year more than 10,000,000 pads were used by hospitals alone — their choice of Kotex should be your guide.

Kotex may cost a few pennies more than some questionable substitute, of whose makers you know nothing. But those few cents guarantee a product that meets your personal ideals of cleanliness, as well as hygienic safety.

Perfect comfort

You have every possible comfort in Kotex. Careful shaping, for comfort and inconspicuous lines. Super-softness . . . that lasts . . . because Kotex is made of Cellucotton (not cotton) absorbent wadding, which absorbs scientifically, away from the surface.

Kotex Company, Chicago.

KATHERINE HULL IS DEAD; WIFE OF CONGRESSMAN

Mrs. Hull, who was about 60 years old, had been in poor health for some months. She became ill in Washington, D. C., during the winter, but improved after returning to her home at 4855 Woodlawn avenue in March. She and Congressman Hull left soon afterward for a trip to Hawaii.

They sailed from San Francisco about five weeks ago. Friends in Chicago received messages indicating that a fortnight in Honolulu had been of benefit to Mrs. Hull's health. She suffered from heart disease on the voyage back to the mainland, however, and had been confined to her room in a San Francisco hotel since she landed last week.

A native of New England, Mrs. Hull had resided in Chicago since girlhood. She was married to Mr. Hull in 1895. Besides her husband, Mrs. Hull is survived by one son, Denison B. Hull of Winnetka, who went to San Francisco last week to join his parents.

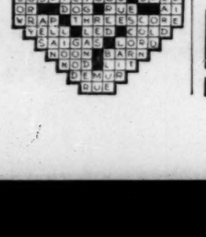
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



MRS. WHITELAW REID DIES IN FRANCE AT 73

CAP FERRAT, France, April 29.—(AP)—Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, aged 73, widow of the late ambassador from the United States to Great Britain, died at 9:50 a. m. today at "Rosemary," the home of her daughter, Lady John Ward.

Stricken with a chill on the Atlantic on her way from New York last week, Mrs. Reid's condition grew steadily worse after her arrival in France. The body will be returned to New York, May 9, on the Mauretania. It will be accompanied by Lady Ward and her husband, Sir John Ward. Meantime, it will be taken to Paris to the home of Mrs. Reid's niece, Countess Granard.

Mrs. Whitelaw Reid was, by virtue of her wealth and social prominence, one of the best known women on two continents. The daughter of a millionaire, the late Darius Ogden Mills, Elizabeth Mills grew up in a social environment of which she was to become the leader in later life. when she became an intimate of royalty in Europe and Asia. To the very last of her 73 years of active life, Mrs. Reid continued to travel and keep busy.

In 1881 she married Whitelaw Reid, editor of the New York Tribune. Several years later Reid became the owner, but in later years the paper consolidated with the Herald, to become the Herald-Tribune, which still is owned by the Reid estate. When Whitelaw Reid died in 1912, Mrs. Reid gave up her social life largely, taking an active part, in association with her son and daughter-in-law, in the direction of the Herald-Tribune. Her son is Ogden Mills Reid.

What will interest the thrifty buyer is that this great new Goodyear is every bit as good as it looks.

FERRELL PITCHES NO HIT GAME AGAINST BROWNS

INDIANS' STAR BATS IN 4 RUNS IN 9-0 VICTORY

6 St. Louis Runners Reach 1st Base.

Cleveland, O., April 29.—(AP)—Wesley Ferrell, one of the leading right handed pitchers in the American league, today crashed the gates to baseball's hall of fame by pitching his first no hit no run game in the majors, as Cleveland subdued the St. Louis Browns in the series final, 9 to 0.

Besides pitching the first no hit, no run game in the majors in nearly two years, Ferrell hit a home run into the center field bleachers, driving in another man in the fourth inning, and sent two runs across in the eighth with a double off the right field wall.

Strikes out Eight.

Ferrell was throwing them past the batters with amazing speed, eight Brownies striking out on his "fast and faster" balls. He allowed only three walks, while three others reached first base on three errors by Bill Hunnefield. Not a runner went beyond first base, however. Moreover, only two balls went to the outfield.

The Cleveland speed merchant won his fourth game of the season, and with the season hardly more than two weeks old, seems headed for a better record than last year, when he won 25 games and compiled a record as the most effective pitcher in the league.

First Since Hubbell.

The last previous performance to equal Ferrell's was Carl Hubbell's no hit, no run victory over Pittsburgh while pitching for the New York Giants on May 8, 1929. The last Cleveland hurler to duplicate the feat was Raymond Caldwell, who shut out the New York Yankees Sept. 10, 1919. The last no hit game in the American league was by Ted Lyons of the Chicago White Sox against Boston on Aug. 21, 1926. Score:

Twin Orchard Golfers Open Season Today

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Twin Orchard Golf club will hold its formal opening today and notice has been served that the event is for men only. The committee couched the announcement in the language of diplomacy, saying that it is to be "a special day for men."

This season the club has a new general manager, John McElhatton, who has a wide acquaintance with professional golfers throughout the country.

Quite a few Chicago golfers plan to compete in the tournament which will be part of the Michigan blossom time festival. Among them will be Jimmy Carberry and Laurie Ayton. The first 36 holes will be played a week from today at the Berrien Hills Country club, near Benton Harbor. On the following day the final 36 holes will be run off at the Twin City Golf and Aviation field.

A four man team will represent Chicago in the Kiwanis International golf tournament to be held in connection with the convention of the organization at Miami, Fla. The tournament will be played on May 7.

The Chicago team will be composed of Chet Williams, T. A. E. Vyse, Gene Hammes and Roy Doleman.

The Antlers Country club will open the season on Saturday with a gala Monte Carlo frolic for members and guests. There will be golfing in the afternoon, followed by a dinner dance and entertainment in the evening.

The women of the club plan to hold golf meets and social events on Tuesday afternoons throughout the summer.

THOMAS REACHES TOP FORM; SOX BEAT TIGERS, 3-0

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Mr. Alphonse Tommy Thomas has returned. He came back yesterday with the same old tricks that made him a headliner prior to his injury a year ago. He had speed, control, and other bits of deception, and the Detroit Tigers were so awed by the assortment that they voiced only feeble complaint in a battle which went to the White Sox by 3 to 0. It was the first whitewashing achievement of the season for Donie Bush's forces.

The only liberties granted the Tigers by Thomas are represented by seven singles, only two of which occurred in the same inning. It was the pairing of these wallops that put a Tiger runner on third for the only time during the struggle. Tommy also was extremely careful about gratuities. He walked nobody. Incidentally, he also had to contend with one error, but this mishap was offset by some sparkling infield labor in which the catlike Bill Cissell was a potent factor. In addition to this, Cissell grabbed for himself the honor of driving in the south siders' first tally.

Whitehill Has Bad Luck.

Earl Whitehill, a southpaw of consequence, handled the enemy pitching job to the exclusion of all others and did mighty well, but was unfortunate. Only five hits were peeled from his delivery and only three of the five had anything to do with harvesting runs. The reason for this was that two of them came together for a run and one hit came in the wake of two passes for another marker. The other run was a gift in which no hits were involved, but the Sox accepted it, nevertheless.

The only time Thomas looked as if his comeback would be delayed was when he pitched the first ball. The Harvey half of the Walker brothers cracked it over short for a single. It amounted to nothing. The next little disturbance against Tommy came at the start of the third on a hit by Owen. The next three Tigers were nailed. In the fourth Alexander bounced a single off Cissell's shin. These three hits represented all the visitors' efforts during the first five innings.

Walker Reaches Third.

Thomas made a concession to the Detroit delegates in the sixth. He let them promote a couple of batters into base runners. H. Walker banged his second hit into center with one out and after Johnson had died Koenig singled and Walker took third. This put the rambunctious Alexander on the spot, but Tommy suppressed him with a fly to Simons. After this the

Orphan Prince Is Chesney Farm's Fair Haired Boy

BY FRENCH LANE.

There will be a lot of sad persons out on Chesney farm on Fox lake if a colt called Orphan Prince doesn't shake his heels into the faces of a lot of fashionable 2 year old thoroughbreds here this summer.

OTTO LEHMANN.

Orphan Prince is owned by O. W. Lehman, president of the Arlington Jockey club. He is a son of Prince Palatine, Cinderella, the latter being a daughter of Celt.

Early last winter we told you this was the best looking 2 year old to be found on the many breeding farms near Chicago. We didn't see him from that January day until yesterday. He still is at Mr. Lehman's Chesney farm and that's where we found him yesterday.

This colt has never even had one squint at a race track, yet he's almost the raciest looking individual you ever looked at. He has straight and long legs which move like a machine and a rather short body, powerful shoulders and good square hips, the kind found on all fast thoroughbreds which can travel distance.

It is hard to say just when Orphan Prince will get to the post. But he has galloped up and down the hills on Chesney farm so much this spring that it doesn't look as if it will take Trainer Billy Pinch long to get him ready for a brush with his rivals.

Several speed marvels are included in the field of 27 named for the Inaugural handicap which is to mark the opening of the racing season at Aurora tomorrow afternoon. The race is a dash at 5½ furlongs and if some of those old fast steppers like Nusakan, T. S. Jordan, Equation, Princeton and Taddywawa are in a running mood they'll give the 5½ furlong course on the Aurora track a scorching.

The complete field for th Aurora Inaugural follows:

Equation	Burning Up
Saze Fire	Taddywawa

California Horses to Run at Hawthorne.

Joseph A. Murphy, general manager of the Hawthorne track, returned yesterday from Tanforan at San Francisco and brought the word that California is to send its best horses after the many rich prizes offered on the Chicago tracks this season.

JUDGE J. A. MURPHY.

Norman W. Church's Northway stable will be the most pretentious among the California invaders. In addition to Plucky Play, Eskimo, and Sundot it will include a number of promising 2 year olds. Church paid fancy prices for sons of Sir Galahad III. and St. James which are considered the best of his juveniles.

The LaBrae stable is sending the veteran Listo to Chicago, the Bill Bee stable Satin Spar and others. J. W. Marchbank is shipping his big string here and Peter B. Kyne, the novelist, will be represented by Bonfield, Kamalii and a half dozen other horses.

'BON VOYAGE!' IS FRANCE'S CHEER TO ITS CHAMPIONS

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 29.—France's delegates to the forthcoming international Golden Gloves parley 'vous, got off today, and the boys couldn't have received a bigger hand if they were going to sink the remaining battleships in the American navy.

Although the ceremonies of the departure were conducted under the Geneva rules observed by the better sort of diplomats from both sides of the Atlantic, there was engaging frankness about the objectives of the expedition.

They're Rarin' to Go.

In a series of individual and collective interviews before the boat train pulled out, nine eager fighters—the tenth member of the team met the boat at Le Havre—admitted that they were out for blood. Since the youngsters had been informed that scalping was no longer practiced on an extensive scale east of the Mississippi, they declared they would forego their original ambition and would be perfectly content to return with the shirts and pants of the American representatives at the Golden Gloves conference.

While not concealing their eagerness to take a friendly poke or two at their American cousins, the French ambassadors of good will appeared willing to let their Chicago colleagues do the same for them.

In a semi-public and wholly unofficial statement shortly after meeting the French team, Westbrook Pegler, TRIBUNE sports writer who accompanied them aboard the steamer France, declared:

Ceremony Is Surprise.

The feature of the day was the unforseen enthusiasm at the ceremony at Gare St. Lazare. Amateur boxing in France has been hitherto something practiced in a furtive way behind closed doors by desperate young men, and the idea of having a brass band at the station to give a sendoff to the group of obscure young athletes, not one of whom has a personal publicity director, was unheard of. So unhead of, in fact, that the director of the police band which was called on for this function thought he was being kidded and refused all negotiations until paid in advance.

But the band showed up, all right: one hundred neatly dressed members of Paris' finest with all their tin horns—and so did a number of notable personalities, including M. Bardel, minister of education in the French gov-

Mrs. Ty Cobb Drops Her Suit for a Divorce

Augusta, Ga., April 29.—(AP)—Divorce proceedings brought by Mrs. Charlie Marion Lombard Cobb on April 25 against Tyrus Raymond Cobb, former major league star, were withdrawn today. A short announcement of the withdrawal was made by Cobb as follows:

"It is Mrs. Cobb's desire that I personally make official announcement that the divorce proceedings have been withdrawn; that her attorney has been advised of this fact; that she took this step on her own initiative, and that no further comment is to be made on account of the sacredness relating to her decision."

Charges Cobb with Cruelty.

The petition for divorce was filed here, charging Cobb with cruel treatment and asking temporary allmony and custody of the Cobb's four minor children. A hearing on the petition was scheduled for April 25, but was postponed recently by agreement.

Mrs. Cobb refused to make a statement about the charges, which did not give details. At the time the petition was filed Cobb was in California. He issued a statement saying that he was "surprised and shocked" and that he was leaving at once for his home in an effort to "straighten out the matter."

Marry in 1908.

The Cobbs were married here Aug. 6, 1908. Cobb formerly was manager of the Detroit club of the American league. He retired from baseball a few years ago and has been living here with his family.

BAECHT CHECKS REDS IN MAJOR LEAGUE DEBUT

Bruins Outhit, but Luck's with Them.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., April 29.—Big Ed Baecht made his National league debut as a Cub this afternoon by setting down the erstwhile ornery Cincinnati Reds. Although the Reds outhit our boys, 11 to 7, the final score was Chicago 3, Cincinnati 1.

The Cubs now have won four straight for a clean sweep of their current road trip and tonight move to St. Louis for a four game series with the champion Cardinals. Smith has been nominated to start the series and the fellows are expecting to look at Bill Hallahan's stuff. The Cubs and Cards are tied for first place as their series opens.

It is no reflection on the performance of Baecht to say that the Cubs were lucky to get the cluster of three runs in the fifth inning, which formed their total for the day. Four of the Cubs' seven hits came in that session and two of the three doubles were pop flies that should have been easy outs. In addition there was a disastrous error on a ground ball that should have retired the side.

Cubs Even an Old Score.

But we are making no apologies to the Reds. They have a lot of bum breaks coming to even up for the good ones they got last year while they were engaging in the nefarious enterprise of knocking the Cubs out of the pennant. And besides, the Reds have won only one game on their schedule this season, so what have they to lose except ball games?

Of the three Cubs who have been hitting consistently—Hornsby, English and Stephenson—Stephenson, with a single and a double in four times at bat, was the only one to improve his average this afternoon. Stephenson lifted his season mark from .368 to .381. Hornsby dropped from .425 to .409 when he made one hit in four times at bat, and English went down from .400 to .377 when he got only one hit in five times at bat.

Cuyler had his third successive hitless game and now has taken 16 trips to the plate without a hit. Included in these trips, however, have been four walks and one sacrifice. Wilson also slumped again. He got a walk in four times to the plate this afternoon and now is poking the ball at a .233 clip.

Hitters Lack Punch.

The end of the first four innings found nothing but goose eggs on the score board. This condition was due either to the fact that the pitching was very good in the pinches or the hitters were without punch when they needed it, for the Reds twice had a runner on third and couldn't get him home, and the Cubs in the second inning had men on third and second with one out and the bases full with two out but couldn't produce.

The Cub fadeout in the second was developed in the following manner: Wilson walked and stopped at second on Stephenson's single to left. The pair moved up on Hartnett's sacrifice. Bell struck out for the first time this season, and then Grimm was given an intentional pass, filling the bases. Lucas threw out Baecht.

Baecht had to do a lot of bearing down to get out of a jam in the third. Roettger led off with his second single, paused while Heath filed to Wilson, then went to third on Roush's single to left. Baecht then fanned Stripp and Cuccinello grounded out to Hornsby.

The Reds loaded the bases after two were out in the fourth, but the inning ended when Cuyler pulled down Heath's line drive.

A hit for old Notre Dame. O'Connor, center fielder, cracks out a single in game with Northwestern yesterday at Roycemore field. The Wildcats scored six runs in the fourth inning to insure a 7-5 victory. Northwestern used two pitchers, Notre Dame three.

Everybody's happy again in the Ty Cobb family. Mrs. Cobb withdraws her suit for a divorce from the former major league baseball star. The suit was filed when Cobb was in California.

pop fly to short left, and then let it drop for a double. Baecht smashed a single to center and Grimm ran from second to third on the drive. He scored the first run of the game on Cuyler's fly to Roettger. English also filed to Roettger, for the second put-out. Hornsby doubled to center, Baecht stopping at third. Baecht scored and Hornsby stopped at third when Cuccinello booted Wilson's grounder. Stephenson dropped a Texas league double back of third, Hornsby scoring and Wilson stopping at third. Lucas threw out Hartnett.

The Reds stepped out of the zero classification in the sixth when Durocher tripled and came home on Sukeforth's fly to Cuyler.

Thomas' Skill Back to Stay, Bush Believes

Denie Bush, the boss of the White Sox, was wearing a new smile last evening. He became convinced that the comeback performance of Tommy Thomas in the day's struggle with the Tigers wasn't a flash.

Strangely enough, Tommy's reappearance in a winning role was almost a year to a day after the mishap that since has had him and others wondering whether he'd ever again be the same.

If his work yesterday is an indication there need be no cause for worry. Thomas threw with the same freedom of movement that marked his successes prior to 1930 and when he finished the job there was no trace of soreness in the arm that is supposed to be costing Charles A. Comiskey $15,000 a year.

Bones Are Chipped.

Thomas, who for several seasons regularly mastered every team in the league, the Yankees excepted, put himself out when he threw a fast ball in a game at St. Louis early in the 1930 campaign. Something gave way in the elbow and the Baltimore lad went into retirement. Rest with occasional work failed to restore his cunning. An X-ray negative revealed chipped bones in the elbow.

The season closed with Thomas boasting a mere total of five victories, whereas 15 would have been more in keeping with his ability. In the city series against the Cubs last fall he came up unexpectedly with an 8 to 2 win in the fourth game, and this was accepted as a sure sign of his return to normalcy. But new complications arose.

Complications Set In.

When Thomas went south for his training labors he knew from what the X-ray told that the bone chips had been absorbed. Imagine his surprise then when he settled down to work to discover that there was a squeak in the shoulder. He rested and he pitched. Then he cut out pitching and devoted himself to resting the arm. That didn't work, so he went back to pitching. That is, he tried to pitch.

In the exhibitions with the Giants he made several appearances, but none impressed.

ernment, who has given THE TRIBUNE enterprise his official patronage; Robert Scotten, secretary of the American embassy, representing Ambassador Walter E. Edge; Paul Rousseau, president of the French Federation of Boxing, and a detachment of the Paris Forty and Eight in their official campaign caps.

From then on representatives of the French press realized that the affair was "serious," and cameras clicked feverishly while a movietone recorded the farewells between M. Bardel and Dr. Sebanq and the best wishes of the team.

Despite the confusion, the train pulled out promptly at 5:15, bearing nine boxers, Trainer M. Cuny, Dr. Sebanq, Westbrook Pegler, Don Maxwell, news editor of THE TRIBUNE, and Herol Egan, sports editor of the Paris edition of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. While the engineer tooted for a clear track and the band blared, girls blew kisses to the French champions, and shouted "Bon voyage."

For the boxers the takeoff was only the culmination of a day that was historic from beginning to end. Shortly before noon they were assembled at the Gare St. Lazare, where their baggage was collected. Then they were herded into the American consulate for visas.

Rose Wine for Boxers.

Next came luncheon at the Restaurant Mollard across from the station, which was attended by THE TRIBUNE staff and officials of the boxing federation. Their excitement did not prevent the boxers from putting away a healthy supply of hors d'œuvres, salmon steak, potatoes, and dessert, washed down with carafes of rose wine. The trainers picked rose wine because it is lighter than the usual vin rouge, and wanted the boys to taper off so the shock of hitting a dry country would not be too great. None of these healthy lads appears to be a confirmed toper, but, according to the trainers, they always drink wine, even when preparing for fights.

The Parisian press, having got over the first shock at the idea of THE TRIBUNE paying real money to bring the French team to America, is waxing enthusiastic over the idea, and numerous writers compliment the paper on having put amateur boxing on the map.

Hitherto a feud has existed between sporting writers and the boxing federation, which prevented amateur boxing from being given any publicity.

During the last few days, however, THE TRIBUNE has assembled representatives of the two groups together for a friendly glass on several occasions without bloodshed, and the interest of the press in the Golden Gloves expedition, in which the federation is actively coöperating, may go far toward healing this breach.

Chicago Fight Team to Say It with Punches

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Freddie Caserio, middleweight title holder and captain of the American boys who fight the champions of France at Soldiers' field May 12, is authority for the statement. It seems Freddie has been rather good naturedly joshed about the invasion of the French, particularly since THE TRIBUNE published pictures of the Frenchmen. Among other questions Caserio has been asked by the boys on La Salle street, where daily he does a bit of marking stock quotations, is: "Have you learned the French word for 'enough'?"

It's All Baloney to Fred.

The inference, if you remember the tough and rugged features of the French fighters, is that Caserio and his teammates will be hammered around the ring until they are willing to surrender.

Fred said yesterday these disparaging remarks may be blanketed under the well known Americanism, "baloney."

Caserio remarked that the American boys long ago mastered the language of the ring. All expression in that tongue is derived from "sock," and the boys speak with their hands. It remains to be found out if the French are familiar with this means of expression, but it is suspected that they are.

"Eight victories for the United States." That's another slogan Caserio has for the Chicago fighters.

Perhaps in the interest of international relations such ambition should be suppressed. But Caserio and his mates wanted 16 victories over New York in the intercity series, and they scored 13.

One of the problems the Chicago coaches faced when the intercity squad trained for New York was to develop a team spirit. That was accomplished and team spirit, perfect condition, and confidence easily were half of Chicago's advantage at the Stadium.

Tickets in Mail by Tuesday.

New suits will be ordered for the Chicago international team. They will be made to measure and completed several days before the fights.

The ticket manager last night said that he hoped to get all orders for the international bouts in the mail next Tuesday night.

N. U. Scores 6 in 4th; Beats Irish, 7 to 5

A big fourth inning, in which six runs clattered across the plate, enabled Northwestern to beat Notre Dame, 7 to 5, in the first of their two game series at Roycemore field in Evanston yesterday.

Northwestern sewed up the ball game in the fourth on three hits, two walks, and two errors. Oliphant was safe when Sullivan dropped O'Keefe's throw at first. Seghi walked and Leach followed with a single, scoring Oliphant. Evans also walked and Crizevsky was safe at first when O'Keefe muffed his slow grounder, Seghi scoring. Fyfe cleared the bases with a double.

Palt, the Irish starting pitcher, was replaced by Romanin, who struck out Dempsey. Schuett grounded out, Hanley followed with a single, scoring Fyfe. Score:

Feel the difference; Hear the difference; TASTE the difference!

Like an oasis in the dusty desert of dried tobacco, the new Camel Humidor Pack brings you the delight of fine quality cigarettes in factory-fresh, mild condition.

Now, wherever you go, you can always be sure of getting a fresh, throat-easy cigarette when you demand Camels.

It's easy to tell the difference. Your sense of touch detects it as you roll a cigarette between your fingers. Dry tobacco is stiff and crumbly. Camels are full bodied and pliant.

Even your ear can tell the difference. For a dried-out cigarette crackles when you roll it.

But the real test is taste and taste is causing a great nation-wide switch of men and women alike to Camels in the scientific new Humidor Pack. As you draw in that fragrant, mild, cool smoke, redolent with the joy of choicest Turkish and mellow Domestic tobacco, only then do you realize the full importance of this new Humidor Pack.

For scorched or dried tobacco is brash and tasteless and its smoke is unkindly hot to the tongue and throat.

If you are already a Camel smoker you have noticed the improvement in this your favorite cigarette.

If you don't smoke Camels, try them for just one day to see how much you're missing. After you've known the mildness and delight of a really fresh cigarette, switch back if you can.

● It is the mark of a considerate hostess, by means of the Humidor Pack, to "Serve a fresh cigarette." Buy Camels by the carton—this cigarette will remain fresh in your home and office.

FOUR CHICAGO BOYS IN A. A. U. RING SEMI-FINALS

Day, Story, Scialaba and Sutton Win Bouts.

New York, April 29.—(AP)—The old fistic story that class will tell was repeated over and over again to the tune of flying leather tonight as the field in the national amateur boxing championships was whittled away to four battered survivors in each of the eight classes.

Fighting steadily from late in the afternoon until far into the night, most of the spectacular youngsters of the first two nights of battle faded away under the pressure of the veteran campaigners.

The last of the Hawaiians disappeared early in the eliminations of the 112 pounders. John Keller, featherweight from Canada and the last half of a two man team from the dominion, went down to defeat. And the only full blooded Indian in the meet, Doc Anderson, Navajo from the Haskell institute, Lawrence, Kas., was thoroughly eliminated by Joe Pacino of Boston in the 126 pound division.

Four Chicagoans are still in the running. Haywood Story, Chicago middleweight, advanced to the semi-finals by whipping George Sherwood of Berkeley, Cal., in three rounds, while David Day, a featherweight, won a decision over Peter Young of Buffalo, N. Y. Nick Scialaba was the third Chicagoan to win, defeating Joseph Boldin of Cleveland in three rounds in the bantamweight quarter finals. Tony Sutton, light heavyweight, was the fourth. He defeated Robert Mess of Newark.

Joe Delmont of Boston New England champs was forced to bow to Joe Lyons of Lancaster, N. Y., by decision in an extra round. With Lyons in the semi-finals of the 147 pounders are Herbert Hahn of St. Louis, Ed Flynn of New Orleans, and Charles Cravotta of Uniontown, Pa. Cravotta knocked out Gene Marsh of Cleveland in the third round, while Hahn outpunched Bruce Jaffrey of Kansas City, Mo.

Champion Wins by Knockout.

Jack Pallat, defending heavyweight champion, started off well in his effort to repeat last year's triumph. He knocked out Millard Sheppard of Baltimore in the second round.

Among the 112-pounders, who started behind the field tonight and were forced to fight twice, Babe Triscaro, Cleveland Golden Gloves champ, turned in a sensational performance in knocking out William McShea of Fort Eustis, Va., in two rounds. Another Clevelander, Don Gonzales, a member of the Chicago Golden Gloves team, was brilliant in defeating Keller, the Canadian, among the feather weights.

Not in years has any class as a whole appeared as strong as the four youngsters who battered their way tonight into the lightweight semi-finals. Steve Salek, Boston southpaw, and Al Gomez, California, appeared a shade more proficient than Bill Marrone of Detroit and Mike Grandinetta of Philadelphia, the other pair of semi-finalists.

MOON MULLINS—HE OUGHT TO TELL HER PLENTY THEN

WELL, SO YOU'RE HERE, WILLIAM. YOUR WIFE TOLD ME YOU WERE AWAY ON A VACATION.
I WAS, BUT I DECIDED TO PAY THE BALANCE OF MY FINE AND GET OUT INTO CIRCULATION AGAIN, MISS SCHMALTZ.
WELL, IN A WAY I'M GLAD YOU'RE BACK- YOUR WIFE AND MOONSHINE HAVE BEEN ACTING VERY MYSTERIOUS LATELY- BUT THE MINUTE THEY SEE ME THEY SHUT UP LIKE A COUPLE OF CLAMS- HOWEVER I DID CATCH A SNATCH OF SOMETHING THEY WERE SAYING ABOUT KIDNAPPING SOMEBODY.
KIDNAPPING! MY WORD. WHERE IS THE LITTLE WOMAN NOW?
SHE'S STILL OVER AT THOSE FOURFLUSHERS NEXT DOOR- AND IF YOU WILL TAKE MY ADVICE YOU'LL BRING HER BACK HERE AND TELL HER A THING OR TWO AND FIND OUT WHAT THIS IS ALL ABOUT.
WELL, I'LL DO MY BEST MISS SCHMALTZ. BUT YOU KNOW HOW MAMIE IS- THE ONLY TIME SHE EVER LISTENS TO ME IS WHEN I TALK IN MY SLEEP-

HAINES PITCHES CARDS TO 7-1 WIN OVER PIRATES

St. Louis, Mo., April 29.—(AP)—St. Louis defeated Pittsburgh today, 7 to 1, to break even with the Pirates in a four game series. The Cardinals, by winning, remained tied with Chicago for first place in the National league.

Jess Haines, hurling his second game this year for the Cardinals, allowed but four hits. After Pittsburgh had made its only score in the eighth, he struck out Comorosky with the bases filled. Ray Kremer lasted seven innings before the Cardinal batsmen, Osborn going in for the eighth inning. Score:

EASTERLING AND NORMAN FIGHT A 10 ROUND DRAW

Buck Easterling, Wichita, Kas., light heavyweight, and Edgar Norman, Norwegian, fought 10 rounds to a draw in the final bout at the Fronton arena last night. Easterling was knocked down for a short count in the first round, but weathered the round and came back strong from the fifth to the finish to earn a draw. Norman weighed 171 pounds, with Easterling scaling two pounds less.

Jim McAleer, Pioneer in A.L. Baseball, Dies

Youngstown, O., April 29.—(AP)—Death today ended the career of another baseball leader, James R. [Jimmy] McAleer, 66, one of the organizers of the American league, former owner of the Boston Red Sox and former manager of the St. Louis and Washington American league clubs.

A few months ago he was confined to a hospital here. He returned home a short time ago and friends believed he was on the way to recovery, his death coming as a sudden shock, despite his long illness.

ILLINOIS WINS 3D STRAIGHT; BEATS MAROONS, 8 TO 6

Champaign, Ill., April 29. — [Special.]—Illinois won its third Big Ten game today, defeating Chicago 8 to 6. The Maroons, trailing for seven innings, became dangerous in the eighth and ninth when they filled the bases on Wiese's wildness. Wiese, who relieved Hazzard, emerged from a bad hole in the eighth, holding the Maroons scoreless after the bases were filled. A throw from Chervinko to Mills retired a runner and aided materially.

SWIMMERS VIE TOMORROW FOR C. A. A. U. CROWN

The Central A. A. U. indoor swimming championships will be decided tomorrow night at the Blackhawk park swimming pool.

Inasmuch as Walter Colbath, Dick Hinch, and other former Chicago A. A. swimmers are now affiliated with the Lake Shore Athletic club, that organization is favored to win the title. The team standing, with ten events to be decided tomorrow night, is now headed by the Lake Shore A. C. with 34 points. The C. A. A., which has withdrawn from open competition, has 17 points to its credit. The I. A. C. is third with 14 and Northwestern university is fourth with 13.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

KENTUCKY DERBY CHANGES.

WITH the Kentucky Derby only two weeks distant, the all-winter future book, choice now has a co-partner in favoritism, several other candidates have materially enhanced their reputations within the last week, "dark horses" are still in training, and the Preakness, which often eliminates several eligibles, is yet to come.

Thus the Derby is fulfilling its tradition of causing more guessing and speculation, of encouraging more owner and trainer hopes, and eventually of causing more disappointments to those same owners and trainers—and sometimes to the public—than any other 3 year old event of the season.

That is in large part because the race comes so early in the year and, except for the Preakness, gives the first important indication of 3 year old form. That indication usually is more conclusive in the Derby than in the Preakness, because the distance is slightly farther, and also because the best colts in the Preakness ship west, while some trainers who have prepared their charges around Louisville hesitate to risk shipment to Pimlico before the Kentucky event.

Within the last week we have seen Equipoise, heretofore favorite, run a dismal last in a field of his own age. It later was established the Whitney colt was ill. How much will that illness affect Derby chances? Twenty Grand, now equal favorite and representative of the other branch of the Whitney family, is scheduled to make his first start of the season Saturday. Surf Board and Anchors Aweigh, which won the race in which Equipoise met disaster, in the east, and Pittsburgher, in the west, have gained added recognition.

For the last five years favorites or second choices have sped first past the wire—Bubbling Over, Whiskery, Reigh Count, Clyde Van Dusen, Gallant Fox—three of which were acknowledged champions of their year. Perhaps it's time by the law of averages for the winner to "drop from the skies," as turf parlance goes.

Northwestern's "Circus."

There's one collegiate function that we make it a point to attend annually. That's the Northwestern university "Circus," held this year on Friday and Saturday nights at Patten gymnasium. If the North Central association is looking for something which takes the minds of undergraduates away from their classrooms it ought to "investigate" the circus, rather than football.

For weeks, even months, sororities and fraternities plan and practice their circus stunts and try to get up original ideas for the floats appearing in the Saturday morning parade. It's all for the benefit of some charity or welfare work and the participants pay their own expenses. Last year the profits were about $7,000. The show is so good one wonders how the students can give so much time to it and still study. Perhaps they don't, until it's over.

MAROON TENNIS TEAM BEATS N.U. IN BIG 10 OPENER

University of Chicago tennis teams defeated Northwestern yesterday at the Midway courts, taking five of the six singles matches and sweeping the doubles events. The meet was the opening competition of the Big Ten net season.

Bert Riel, Wildcat basketball captain, won his team's only victory in defeating Paul Stagg in a close three set match, 6-8, 6-1, 7-5. It was Stagg's first defeat in two year's of dual meet competion.

Tigers just took things as they came. Kamm's boot on McManus and Owen's scratch hit put two on in the seventh with one gone, but Thomas handled the situation flawlessly. Alexander was the only hostile to reach base in the two concluding innings. He scratched a single to Blue to open the ninth, but a double play removed him.

The Sox started off with one run in the second inning, but really were entitled to more, considering their hits. Fothergill opened with a looping two bagger to right and didn't have time to take a deep breath at second before Cissell's single made it necessary for him to sprint homeward. Appling's grass cutter to Owen was converted into a double play. Then Kamm spanked a two bagger to right center and the round closed with Tate being chucked out by McManus.

After counting only once on three hits in the second the Sox went to the opposite extreme in the third. They picked up a tally without the aid of even one single. Koenig, who was operating at second in Gehringer's place, made this possible. He muffed Thomas' easy popup. Whitehill was so upset by this mishap that he walked Blue. Both runners hiked along a peg on Simon's bunt. Reynolds banged a fly to left and Thomas registered. Fothergill's lofter to right ended it.

Double Play Stops Rally.

Production on a sparse amount of hitting continued in the Sox fourth. A run was cooked up from one single. After Cissell had been side tracked on a pop foul Appling walked and stole second. Kamm also was given free passage. Tate shot a single through short, Appling scoring, Kamm stopping at third and Tate going down to second on the throw to the plate. The session then came to an abrupt ending. Thomas bounced to the pitcher and by the time the Tigers finished throwing the ball around they had accomplished a double play. Kamm was nailed at the plate and Thomas at second.

The class of Whitehill's pitching can be judged from the fact that in the four concluding rounds only two pale hosed athletes reached base. Appling walked with two out in the sixth and Kamm forced him. With two out of the way in the ninth Fothergill came along with his second safety of the struggle, a single past third, but he didn't go any place.

Braxton will welcome the Browns today. Stewart probably will be Killefer's choice.

HEADS COUNT AS PENETIAN WINS JAMAICA STAKE

Judge Schilling Runs in Second Place.

New York, April 29.—[Special.]—George D. Widener's Penetian is not eligible for either the Preakness or Kentucky Derby, but judging from his victory in the Jamaica handicap today he will provide plenty of opposition if he runs in the $10,000 Wood Memorial stake.

The three year old son of Galetian-Pan Maid gave a concession of four pounds under the scale of weights to such a seasoned flyer as Judge Schilling, and beat him a head at the end of a grilling six furlongs. The time was 1.12 2-5. Five lengths back of these two, between whom the victory lay at all times, came W. R. Coe's Maya. Beau Joli, Grattan, and Peto were the trailers in the order named.

The horses of the Meatley stable were scratched because of the death of Mrs. Whitelaw Reid and the withdrawal of one of them, Blenheim, from the Flatbush handicap, made that a two horse race. The favorite and winner was the Howe stable's Finalist at 1 to 2. He scored by two lengths, just about the margin Jockey Sidney Greenberg lost at the stretch turn when he appeared to have the race won with Tail Spin.

COMMISSION PAY BOOST TAKEN OUT OF BOXING BILL

Springfield, Ill., April 29.—(AP)—The boxing commission bill of Representative Frank Foster, Republican, Harvey, which was put over a week ago when not enough votes were mustered to pass it, today was amended by the house of representatives to exclude all salary increases for members of the commission. The bill would raise the maximum number of rounds for a professional bout from ten to fifteen and for amateur bout to four.

Under the original bill salaries of commissioners would have been increased from $4,500 to $5,000. As now written the bill would prohibit amateurs under 16 years of age and professionals under 18 years of age from boxing. The measure was sent to third reading.

HEPATICA PUTS ON OVERCOAT TO KEEP OUT FROST

BY BOB BECKER.

An example of a spring flower which has been given a fuzzy "fur coat" in order to protect it from the cold winds and low temperatures of late April can be seen in Chicagoland at this time of the year. The hepatica is the blossom which is thus rigged out by nature because this flower is in such a hurry to bloom that its bud is on the stem long before the leaves appear.

This warm layer of fuzz which covers the bud and serves as a regular raccoon skin coat on cold days has thermostatic qualities. When it is cold the coat closes up. When the weather becomes warm it opens.

Early Blossoms Appear.

For the last week the steep bluff overlooking Lake Michigan near our home has been covered with the blossoms of the hepatica. Earlier in April the waxy white blossoms of the bloodroot, another April flower, could be seen among the hepaticas. Both have been giving a springlike atmosphere to the dead leaves which cover the ground.

The bloodroot, hepatica and another early blossom, the spring beauty, are three of the favorites at nature's first display in the woods of Chicagoland. Of these John Burroughs seems to have favored the hepatica because he wrote a four line sonnet which lauded the beauty of its small blossoms.

Another Colorful Flower.

Another interesting spring plant which pushes its head above the leaves is the Jack-in-the-Pulpit. Most outdoor fans would count the spring season a total loss if they could not see Jack "preaching" from his pulpit in the woods. Other names for this plant are memory root and Indian turnip. The latter name is probably due to the fact that the Indians used the root for food. When it is cooked it as quite palatable.

However, there are many other uses for the plant. We know of one tribe of Indians which used to pound the root into pulp and then use it for poultices, especially for the eyes.

Some years ago we transplanted several of these Jack-in-the-Pulpits and the way they grew in fertilized ground without competition from many other plants was amazing. Some of them grew two feet high.

Beautify the Woods.

Although these lovely spring flowers add much to our Chicagoland woods they should be left in their habitat and not picked to carry home. As "cut" flowers most of them are a total loss. In fact, the spring beauty wilts as soon as the blossoms are plucked. Far better to enjoy the flowers as living things in the woods rather than make them worthless green stuff after being dragged home.

BOB HAGER OUT OF OHIO RELAYS; 2,000 TO RUN

Keller, Sentman Meet in High Hurdles.

Columbus, O., April 29.—[Special.]—Bob Hager, who defeated Lee Sentman of Illinois in the 120 yard high hurdles at the Drake relays last Saturday, will be unable to compete in the Ohio relays Friday and Saturday. Jock Keller, Ohio State star, is expected to provide Sentman with plenty of competition, however. Keller recently ran the high hurdles in 14.5 seconds, while Sentman's time in winning this event in the Kansas relays was 14.6 seconds.

Twenty-two records were established in the Ohio relays last year. If the weather is suitable it is likely that a world's record will follow the Keller-Sentman duel. Jim Bausch, former Kansas star, now competing for the Kansas City A. C., is expected to batter the shot put mark of 47 feet 8¾ inches he established in the Ohio relays last year.

MacDermont vs. Warne.

Verne MacDermont, Illini pole vaulter, will attempt to beat Tom Warne's 13 feet 11⅛ inch record, also made a year ago. MacDermont set a new Western conference indoor record during the winter. Warne will be here to defend his 1930 record, but a recent injury may prevent him from doing his best.

Edward Gordon, University of Iowa broad jump star, stands an excellent chance of bettering the Ohio mark for the event. Gordon in the Kansas relays jumped better than 25 feet. This is more than two feet over the Ohio relays record, set in 1929 by Portmess of Northwestern.

Milers in Duel.

The duel of the University of Illinois and Indiana milers over the four mile relay distance will be an added feature. At Kansas the Illini quartet of Gould, Garrison, Woolsey, and Evans covered the distance in 17:37.8. The Hoosiers have good men in Leas, Watson, Brockamith, and Kemp.

More than 2,000 athletes from 178 schools and colleges are entered in the meet.

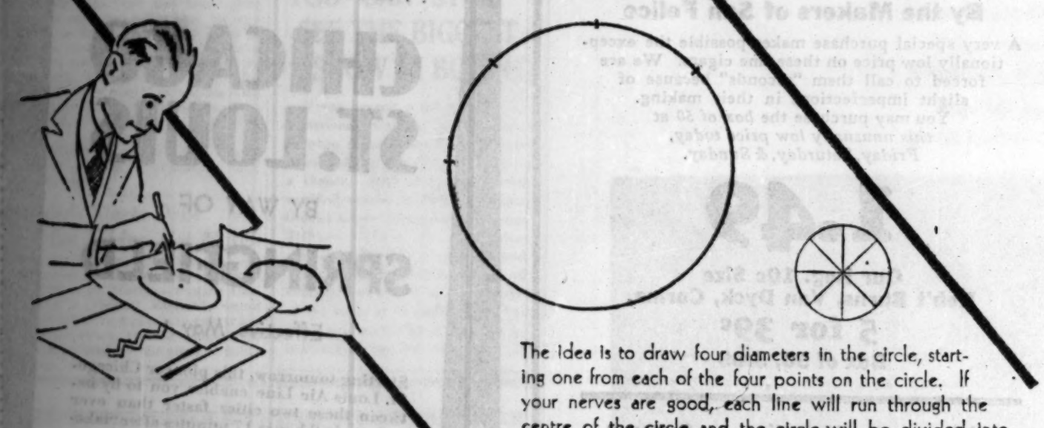
SHAKY?

MAKE THIS TEST NOW



The Idea is to draw four diameters in the circle, starting one from each of the four points on the circle. If your nerves are good, each line will run through the centre of the circle and the circle will be divided into eight equal sections. If your nerves are "off", the lines will be irregular—they will not hit the centre of the circle nor will they all stop at the opposite side of the circle.

If you cannot pass this test—switch to EL TOROS for your nerves' sake

If you can pass it—switch to EL TOROS anyway for the flavor's sake

SHAKINESS is "nerves"—and nervousness may come from the wrong smoke. Smoke El Toro—the cigar that's good for your nerves. El Toros never get on your nerves. The reason is no secret. El Toros are made of the mildest, smoothest, finest-flavored tobacco leaf in the world. This is tobacco grown and ripened in the same tropical climate as Havana, but given a wonderful flavor all its own by the ideal soil conditions of Porto Rico.

And because El Toros are so well-made, they have the lip-comfort of a 25¢ Havana. Long filler, 100% machine-made—100% sanitary. And because cigars from Porto Rico come duty free, El Toros cost 5¢ instead of much more.

TRADE OUTRUNS STOCK MARKET, REYNOLDS SAYS

"Business Is Better than Believed."

BY O. A. MATHER.

Just as the stock market a year ago outran business in its exuberant spring rise, so this spring business, although undeniably disappointing, has outran the stock market. This is the analysis of Arthur Reynolds, chairman of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, Chicago's billion dollar bank. He predicts a gradual improvement in business that eventually will be reflected in securities prices.

"Disappointing as business has been and still is, still it is not as bad as most people seem to think nor as the current prices of securities would indicate," Mr. Reynolds said. "The poor earnings reports of many corporations and the numerous adverse actions on dividends have caused a wave of pessimism that is not wholly justified. And this pessimism has been exaggerated into positive gloom by the many unfounded and unjustified rumors that have been bandied about.

Expects Security Gain.

"Nobody contends that business is good. Yet seasonal expansion in trade this year was greater than last year and, following the summer quietude, I believe the seasonal expansion next autumn will be larger than customary. Then also, I think, security prices will begin to recover from unduly low levels in recognition of the better situation, just as a year ago they declined when the spring upturn in trade proved to be a flash in the pan.

"As to the legion of disquieting and even ugly rumors that are going the rounds these days, I can say that neither the leading bankers of Chicago or New York know of any important financial troubles impending. The failure of a brokerage house or two recently appears to have about cleared the atmosphere. The important corporations and banks are in sound position, generally speaking. I expect our bank to earn its dividend this year and still have something to spare."

STEEL OUTLOOK BETTER

The decline in operations of the steel industry which started in March appears to be smoothing out, according to the mid-week reviews. The Iron Age says that production this week has eased to slightly above 48 per cent of mill capacity, compared with 49 per cent a week ago, but Steel contends that the current rate has increased fractionally, now standing between 49 and 50 per cent.

"Further declines in specifications for automotive steel are reported, but short range prospects for motor car production have improved," Iron Age asserts.

"An analysis of current demand for steel according to its numerous classifications fails to disclose any important line which is not at a lower level than a week ago," Steel says. "Yet it is evident that the market is encountering increasing resistance in this downward tendency; the movement is less pronounced than it would be if certain underlying factors were not continuing to assert themselves, chief of which is that industries are on a strictly consuming basis. After five consecutive weeks of slowly declining operations, the production rate this week has risen fractionally."

Lamont Advises Business Against Wage Reductions

Atlantic City, N. J., April 29.—(AP)—American commerce leaders expressed today faith that the business trend is definitely upward. They assailed tendencies inimical to its continuance, speaking to 3,000 in convention with the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

ROBERT P. LAMONT

Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont counseled business leaders against wage cutting as a solution of their problems. Instead, he said, the most prosperous periods in history have been those "coincident with high wages and shorter hours."

"If millions of workers are out of employment for a year and lose their wages, their buying power is cut by billions of dollars," the secretary said. "If the income of the remaining millions who are still employed is cut 10 per cent through shorter hours and part time work, the loss amounts to several more billions. Add to this great loss in buying power the retrenchment due to the fears and uncertainties of such a period, and the total loss of purchasing power becomes a staggering amount."

No Wage Guarantee: Stephenson.

Rome C. Stephenson, president of the American Bankers' association, told the chamber that American standards of living did not promise any guaranteed scale of wages, and that high industrial wages could be paid only so long as the means was produced to pay them with. He deplored what he characterized as a recession "from the proud standards of personal responsibility of the nation's past."

The business men turned to more intimate discussions at round table luncheons.

"What, for instance, can private insurance companies do to take care of unemployment?" was one.

Leroy A. Lincoln, vice president and general counsel of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, said:

"The extent to which insurance can solve the problem of unemployment is very limited and, indeed, there is great danger that unemployment insurance would tend to increase the incidence of the very ailment it was intended to remedy. It should not be implied from this that the cause of such a situation, if it should transpire, would be due entirely to the insured persons themselves. It is quite possible that the existence of insurance sufficient in its scope would tend to make employers and even the state, as well as the workmen, more careless about the essential evil of unemployment itself, and would tend to induce them to relax the efforts they would otherwise be making to diminish a state of unemployment."

Sees Upward Trend.

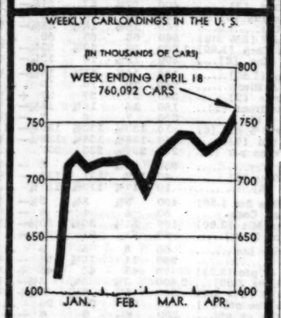
The trend of business at present is definitely upward, William Butterworth, president of the chamber, said in his keynote address. Mr. Butterworth said that the number of industries that can look forward confidently is growing, many of them being industries which reflect into the condition of other industries and other fields of business, and "improvements are appearing in the news of the hour."

"The inherent strength of our economic position has been proved," he asserted. "Industries which were depressed have shown a record of problems resolutely faced."

A campaign for revision of the anti-trust laws to authorize trade agreements under the federal trade commission is foreshadowed in a resolution to be submitted to the convention. Henry Fowler of the trade relations committee of the chamber in an address before the newly formed congress of industries said his committee has prepared a resolution along that line to be offered to the chamber.

Arthur A. Ballantine, assistant secretary of the treasury, said today the government would meet its deficit for the present fiscal year by borrowing money. Addressing the meeting of the chamber, he said a deficit for the next fiscal year could be handled in the same way, which would avoid a tax increase. The treasury faces a prospective $700,000,000 deficit for the present fiscal year ending June 30.

THE MOVEMENT OF FREIGHT IS THE HIGHEST OF THE YEAR



MAY 1 DIVIDEND AND INTEREST PAYMENTS ARE NEAR $600,000,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 29.—Corporations and banks are preparing for large May 1 disbursements of dividends and interest, which this year will fall materially below those of a year ago as a result of reductions in rates of payment by a number of important corporations. Altogether dividends will be paid on about 600 stock issues Friday.

Estimates make the total approximately $600,000,000. The total turnover of funds next month, however, will exceed that sum by a substantial amount on account of new government financing and corporation bond redemptions. Including redemptions and refunding issues that item will come to about $450,000,000, bringing the grand total turnover in May to a figure in excess of a billion dollars.

The federal financing will total $214,218,000, while an equal amount of new issues probably will be sold. The first of the new issues already has been announced. It consists of $60,000,000 of treasury bills which will be sold May 5 to take up an equal amount of bills maturing on May 4 and 5. On May 14 the government will have another maturity of bills to meet consisting of $154,218,000. The plan for meeting that obligation has not been announced. Corporation bond maturities to be redeemed May 1 are only $8,000,000.

Seek Legislative Relief for Cook County Realty

BY SCRUTATOR.

One bill has already been passed by the house of representatives at Springfield and others are pending aimed to facilitate clearing up the real estate situation in Cook county.

During the last year or two efforts toward disposing of properties that have defaulted on their bonds or mortgages have been stalemated by existing mortgage laws. Consequently, buildings have not been refinanced and little has been done to work out defaulted bonds and mortgages.

Last week house bill No. 532, introduced by Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg, was passed and on Tuesday it was unanimously approved by the senate judiciary committee.

Sees Defects Eliminated.

Louis K. Boysen, president of the Chicago Mortgage Bankers association and chairman of the committee organized by various associations for modification of the mortgage and foreclosure laws, states that this bill eliminates one of the most vital defects of the present foreclosure laws.

"Under Section 19 of the Chancery act," he says, "unknown claimants and defendants who cannot be reached by service except through publication have the right to come in at any time within three years after the foreclosure decree has been entered and ask that the decree be set aside.

"It has become a common racket in Illinois to transfer title to individuals that cannot be located. There are very few titles going through foreclosure today which will be merchantable until three years after the foreclosure decree has been entered.

Another bill now before the judiciary committee of the house refers to the legal status of master's certificates of sale. If passed it will enable owners of such certificates to borrow money on them. At present they are not regarded as bankable security.

Gets Endorsement.

House bills 512 and 513, sponsored by the Illinois Bankers association and Mr. Boysen's committee, purpose to make mortgages a lien from the date of recording and to increase their negotiability.

The Chicago Mortgage Bankers association and the Chicago Real Estate board have endorsed house bill 668 which provides for corporations dealing in real estate and permits corporations to be formed to hold more than one piece of real estate.

"In the solution of our foreclosure situation," says Mr. Boysen, "it will be necessary for corporations with large capital to be formed to take over real estate in distress."

Other pending mortgage legislation lacks the support accorded the bills mentioned above, particularly house bill 80, which provides that all real estate mortgages shall be taxed at the time of recording and for each succeeding year, and house bills 832 and 833 requiring the service of sixty days' previous notice of intention to start foreclosure proceedings before the actual suit is filed.

LIQUID CARBONIC REPORTS LOSS IN SIX MO. PERIOD

The Liquid Carbonic corporation yesterday issued a report for the six months ended March 31 showing a net loss for the period of $314,171, as compared with a net profit for the same period of the preceding year of $291,027.

The loss sustained was caused by a 30 per cent decline in shipments and a decrease in the margin of gross profit, according to W. K. McIntosh, chairman. Reductions ranging from 8 to 12 per cent were made April 1 in the compensation of salaried employés and officers which is expected to result in a saving for the year of nearly $1,000,000, Mr. McIntosh stated.

The company's balance sheet as of March 31 shows current assets of $9,968,331 and current liabilities of $2,838,684. Inventories are carried at $2,485,888, based on book values of physical property as of Aug. 28, 1930. Investments not carried in current assets stood at $1,028,817.

New York, April 29.—The New York stock market suffered its worst break of the year today following publication of the United States Steel corporation's statement showing earnings of only 5 cents a share for the first quarter.

U. S. Steel common crashed more than 9 points to 115, the lowest price since 1927, and a long list of other premier issues were dragged down with it in a deluge of heavy selling that swept the entire list. Net losses on the day ranged anywhere from $1 to $15 a share.

Shares Showing Weakness.

Weakness was most pronounced in the steel shares, due to the wide break in the stock of the group leader, but dips of $2 to $6 occurred in such prominent issues as American Can, Westinghouse Manufacturing, American Telephone, Union Carbide, Du Pont, Case Threshing Machine, Allied Chemical and Dye, and Ingersoll Rand. American Type Founders represented the extreme with a de-

VAN SWERINGEN AND PENNSY WILL SHARE VIRGINIAN CONTROL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 29.—The Pennsylvania railroad and the Van Sweringen interests have agreed to share ownership of stock control of the Virginian railway as part of the proposed plan of consolidation of eastern roads into four systems, it was learned today.

Under the plan announced, subject to modification, last December, the New York Central receives a direct connection with the Virginian at Deepwater, including joint rates and routes over the road. Actual ownership of the Virginian was one of the questions undecided at the time the agreement on general principles was reached.

Stock of the Virginian is closely held. All of the preferred and more than 90 per cent of the common were deposited under a stock trust agreement in 1919, the beneficial interest in the stock being in the estate of H. H. Rogers. There are only 342 holders of the common stock. Trustees under the agreement are H. H. Rogers, W. R. Coe, Adrian H. Larkin, George H. Church, and James H. Perkins.

● Investment strength lies in a strong base, and the best foundation supports the best investments. In common stock investment the best can only be judged from the earning power base, in its qualities of strength and growth. Fixed trust shares are a superior form of stock investment when the investment is in the huge, solidly founded corporations whose operations compose the bulk of American business activity, so that these qualities of earning power are secured.

● In choosing a fixed trust, it is not enough that the portfolio be composed of large companies. The best among fixed trust shares must be best in trend of earning power of the underlying stocks; best in diversity of the investment among the major industries, without the inclusion of specialty companies; best in the investment standing of the companies in their respective industries; and records show a return of twice as much per dollar from the best trust shares over trust shares of average standing.

The studies in the recently published "Dividend Paying Power of Fixed Type Investment Trusts" reveal that first position among fixed trusts on these fundamentals is held by cline of 15 points, with Worthington Pump preferred A as it runnerup. The latter was off 12.

U. S. Steel Crashes Nine Points, to 115¼.

It was not a "big" market measured by the standards of recent years, the turnover amounting to only about 3,000,000 shares all told. But the liquidation was persistent and wide sweeping throughout the session and much of it was said to represent "necessitous" dumping of investment trust holdings long and doggedly held in the hope of a turn for better things.

Prices Open Lower.

The opening found a heavy accumulation of overnight selling orders to contend with and initial prices were off 1 to 3 points or more throughout the list. Steel opened at 121½ and sagged almost steadily. Its closing sale was within a fraction of the low of the day. Bethlehem sold off nearly 7 points. Inland and Byers lost about 2 each, and the rest of the group dropped in sympathy.

Utility shares, which have been resisting pressure better than most other groups, showed more disposition to yield today, with losses of 1 to 3 points ruling in that section of the list. Power and light stocks generally were forced to absorb quite heavy offerings, and the communications issues, notably American Telephone, were weak, that stock yielding close to its previous 1931 bottom.

Falls a Ray of Light.

One ray of light piercing the general gloom was provided by the steadiness of the railroad shares, heretofore, in the van of any rout that got under way. Union Pacific set a shining example for the division by advancing against the trend nearly 4 points. Delaware and Hudson rose 3 points, Southern Pacific hopped up nearly 2, New Haven, 2¾, and some of the others bettered their previous ratings by from a fraction to a point. New York Central, however, long held as the leader of the group was off 3 points at the close.

The oils held up fairly well and the amusements fared better than they have in other recent sessions. Motor shares found the going difficult and food distributors went down with the rest.

CHICAGO STOCK PRICES EASE IN ORDERLY FASHION

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The readjustment of stock prices continued unrelentingly on the Chicago exchange yesterday. What might ordinarily be expected to result from a 9 points decline in United States Steel failed to materialize. Trading was orderly and price declines were moderate. The recession broadened to include many of the less active stocks which had previously escaped the influence of the prevailing market trend.

The shadow of gloom which has been cast over the market community by the market decline is not hindering the Borg Warner corporation in its plans for developing its latest product, a two ply laminated steel, which is expected to have an important influence in the steel industry.

The tests which have already been made by one large automobile company with the new product have proved entirely satisfactory and the company is going ahead with its plans for large scale production of the product, it is learned. The new product is said to have all the potentialities of a stainless steel. The feature of the product, it is claimed, is that it can be produced at prices considerably below the cost of stainless steel now in use.

The company is proceeding slowly with its plans for production to insure economy in installing equipment. Officials point out that if the company rushed into production later developments might necessitate the junking of some equipment.

Muncie Gear.

Please give me information on Muncie Gear stock. Is the report that this company manufactures appliances for Ford cars authentic?—K. K.

Muncie Gear company designs and manufactures auxiliary transmission parts and gears, mechanical gear shifts and outboard motors. On April 8, 1931 it was announced that the company was manufacturing a free wheeling device for Ford cars to be marketed through Sears, Roebuck & Co. retail stores.

Both net sales and net income have shown a downward trend since 1928. Net sales for 1930 were $422,639, against $611,017 for 1929 and $1,264,061 for 1928. Net loss for 1930 was $25,012, against net income of $3,878 for 1929 and $228,506 for 1928. The management stated that decline in volume and loss in operations in 1930 were caused partly by business depression and partly by the expense of developing new products.

On Dec. 31, 1930, current assets were $212,741 and current liabilities were $13,120, which left a net working capital of $194,621. The year before working capital was $228,852. Cash and marketable securities shrank to $47,077 from $106,988 during 1930. Capitalization consists of 37,500 class A shares and 56,250 class B shares. The company has no funded debt.

No dividend has been paid on the class A since a 50 cent disbursement on July 1, 1929. The class A and the common are highly speculative.

Dominican Republic.

I have a Dominican Republic 5½ per cent customs duty bond, due in 1940. Kindly advise what the rating is.—H. J. L.

The Dominican Republic, situated in the West Indies, has an estimated population of 1,022,485 [1927] composed of various races. Its chief product is sugar. Low prices for this commodity and cocoa retarded any recovery in 1930 from the depressed conditions which have existed for several years.

Added to its economic unsettlement there were political disturbances in the spring of 1930 and in September, 1930, the capital was severely damaged by a hurricane.

The company's external credit standing is primarily based on treaty relations with the United States which provide for assistance in collecting and applying those customs revenues which are pledged to the servicing of foreign debt.

The customs 5½s, due 1940, are classed as a business man's investment.

PRICES STEADY AS GRAIN MARTS RESIST PRESSURE

Wheat Future Holders Favored by News.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Grain markets showed stubborn resistance to pressure yesterday, and even the decline in the stock market had only a temporary influence. The general character of the news from abroad was more favorable to holders of wheat futures, and sufficient short covering and commission house buying were in evidence to hold prices above the finish of the previous day the greater part of the time.

According to reports from abroad Germany will reduce the import duty on wheat equal to 58⅜c per bu, and is expected to require 20,000,000 bu of foreign grain before the new crop is harvested. The prospect for a better foreign demand, with continued dry weather in the American and Canadian northwest, has brought about some change in sentiment.

July Wheat Acts Tight.

Speculative trading in the wheat market was not large, and buying of July against sales of September widened the difference to around ¾c at the last, the July closing ⅝c higher at 61½c, while the deferred futures were ⅜c lower, September being 60⅝ @60¾c, and December, 64¾c. Old May was unchanged at 81⅝c, while the new was up ⅞c at 87¾c. Winnipeg was strong early, but reacted and closed ⅜@½c lower, with July at 61⅜c, losing the greater part of its premium over Chicago, while Liverpool was ¾@1d higher with July 67¾c.

There was an active demand for Canadian cash wheat, with export sales of 800,000 bu or more estimated sold during the day. France has increased the import duty on wheat equal to 25c per bu.

Liquidation by holders of May corn contracts was on again, but the market showed a much firmer undertone than for some time past. There was active short covering, as it is felt that the liquidating movement has practically run its course, and the close, while on a reaction from the best figures, was ½c lower to ½c higher on the old crop months, while the December was ¼c lower. May finished at 54⅝@54¾c; July, 57¼@57¾c; September, 57⅜@57½ to 57¼c, and December, 51⅛@51⅝c.

Demand for Oats Active.

Shipping demand for cash oats remains active, with sales of 153,000 bu reported by local handlers. Cash houses were on the buying side of futures at times, but the close was ¼c higher to ½c lower, with May, 26⅝c; July, 27⅜c; September, 28⅛c, and December, 30⅞@31c.

Liquidation was on in rye early, with spreaders buying the May and selling the deferred futures. Final trades were 1c lower with May, 32⅝c; July, 35⅛c, and September, 37⅜c, the nearby deliveries selling at a new low for the season.

Northwest Needs Rains; Wheat Seeding Delayed

Reports covering the American northwest indicate that weather is warming up and that a good part of the spring seeding has been finished, but there are no indications of rain, without which there undoubtedly will be a reoccurrence of the dust storms that prevailed about ten days ago, says a message from Minneapolis to J. E. Bennett & Co. Damage from this dry condition is at present nonexistent in most sections, but there is in this condition a real menace, if not relieved, as there is but little reserve moisture over a large part of the northwestern grain area.

Reports from a large elevator company operating through western Canada say that weather last week delayed seeding, but that fair progress was made.

Low temperatures and general precipitation caused practically complete suspension of planting operations in the main corn belt, with some scattered reports of frost injury to the early crop, says the weekly government weather crop report.

LIQUIDATION IN MAY LARD

May lard was offered fairly and averaged lower yesterday. The spread between May and July was reduced 2½c. At the close all futures were 5c lower. Liverpool lard was 3d lower all around. Export clearances were 354,000 lbs of lard, and no bacon. Cash trade was quiet. Bellies were offered down to without a trade. Prices follow:
